FEAR GERMANS WILL BALK

SENATE VOTES IN FAVOR OF FREE IRELAND

Calls on Lansing's Office for Text of Peace Pact.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, June 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—The members of the American peace delegation, disturbed by the report that copies of the German peace terms have reached New York, are undertaking to check up all the copies issued in order to ascertain if any are missing.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Asserting its constitutional authority as part of the treaty making power, the United States senate today proceeded to take a hand in the peace negotiations of the Paris conference. Here is what the senate did:

Adopted the Johnson resolution calling upon the secretary of state for the complete text of the peace treaty, which has been submitted to the German government, published in Germany, and furnished to certain favored interests at home and abroad.

Adopted the Hitchcock resolution directing the foreign relations committee to investigate the charges that copies of the complete text of the peace treaty have "leaked" to Wall street.

Adopted the Borah resolution expressing the sympathy of the senate for the cause of Irish independence and requesting the peace conference to grant the leaders of the movement for self-determination of Ireland a hearing.

Over Wilson's Head.

The senate also found itself addressed over the head of President Wilson in an appeal from the people of Fiume "to prevent the perpetuation of one of the worst outrages in history," referring to the objections of the peace conference to giving Italian Fiume to Italy. The message came from the national council of Fiume.

"Fiume," said the appeal, "wishes to know if the senate, which represents the American people, approves of the policy which outrages the feelings of a city and is offense to Italian dignity. Fiume wishes to know if the American senate intends to share the responsibility which Mr. Wilson has assumed before history. Legitimate representatives of Fiume declare to the representatives of the American people that Fiume will resist this attempt on its liberties. Fiume will face war, or life or death, and will not tolerate that its fate be decided without its consent. It is prepared to defend itself to the utmost."

Opposition Collapses.

The adoption of the Johnson resolution was accomplished with surprising swiftness after two weeks of violent controversy. The opposition by the administration forces suddenly collapsed, despite their contention that the measure would seriously embarrass the president, and no record vote was taken. Only a half dozen Democratic senators were in the chamber when the vote was taken and none of them voted against the measure.

The Johnson resolution calls upon the secretary of state to deliver the peace treaty to the senate "forthwith if not incompatible with the public interest." It was generally believed at the senate that the president would direct the secretary of state to answer that it would be "incompatible with the public interest" to supply the treaty.

Everywhere but in America.

Nevertheless, Senator Johnson contended, if the administration did make such an answer it would be placed in the position of refusing the treaty to the senate and the American people while copies have gone into the hands of Wall street interests.

Acting Secretary of State Polk, who has the complete treaty under lock and key, said he would send the senate request to Secretary Lansing in Paris.

When Senator Hitchcock called up his resolution to investigate Senator Lodge's and Senator Borah's charges that the treaty was in the possession of persons and interests in New York, Senator Kellogg of Minnesota presented a substitute to provide for a broader investigation. It omitted, however, the names of Senator Borah and Senator Lodge.

Senator Hitchcock says that he was

HANG BOY OF 11 FROM TREE LIKE MOVIE "JOKE"

Winsted, Conn., June 6.—[Special.]—Joseph Tontarski, 11, of New Britain, was hanged last night by two boys whose identity has not yet been learned. The boys are thought to have conceived their idea of a "joke" from the movies. They tied a rope about Tontarski's neck, swung the free end over the limb of an apple tree in a lot, and then pulled upon the free end, swinging the boy into the air.

When they finally dropped the rope and allowed the victim to fall to the ground he was dead.

The victim's brother, Walter, aged 9, who witnessed the tragedy, told the police between sobs that Joe had thrown his rope over a branch of the tree to make a swing, when two boys came along and wanted Joe's rope. When he refused to give it to them they took the rope and hanged Joseph.

SIGN COMPANY EMPLOYE KILLED BY ELECTRICITY

Edward Behrend, an employé of the Cusack Sign company, was electrocuted last night while stretching an advertising banner across the road near the House That Jack Built near Wheeling, Ill.

The roadhouse is soon to reopen under a new management, and the banner was to apprise passing autoists of the fact.

One end of the banner rope had been attached to a telephone pole. Behrend threw the other rope—made of wire—over the high tension wire of the Public Service corporation.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Frank Kay, the theatrical producer of 540 West Thirty-sixth street, who was arrested on the charge of having stolen silverware and other government property worth $20,000 from the naval training station at Pelham Bay park, was arraigned today before United States Commissioner Samuel M. Hitchcock. Pending a hearing on the larceny charge Kay was released on $1,000 bail, furnished by a surety company.

SAYS ANOTHER LOAN IS COMING

Insurance Official Gives Secretary Glass as His Authority.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Testifying today before the joint legislative committee on housing at its hearing in the city hall, William A. Day, president of the Equitable Life Assurance society, told the committee that Secretary of the Treasury Glass had assured him on Wednesday that the government would be compelled to raise more money through the flotation of loans.

Questioned by Senator.

Mr. Day had been explaining the inability of his company to invest money in real estate mortgages because of the large amounts it had already placed in the various Liberty loans when Senator Charles C. Lockwood, chairman of the committee, asked him whether he understood that there would be further government bond issues.

After stating that there would, the witness continued:

"The government will have to have more money. The secretary of the treasury himself told me that the night before last, and everybody who knows the situation knows that, and it is our duty to turn in and support it as much as we can."

Doubt as to Date.

When asked when the new government loans might be expected, Mr. Day answered:

"I could not say as to that, but they are not very far off. The government must have the money, and it is of importance to everybody that it should have it."

MAGAZINE HEAD HELD AS BRIBER OF U.S. TAX MAN

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Jay A. Weber, secretary and a director of the Pictorial Review company, was arrested today at the instance of federal officials and held in $50,000 bail for examination on a charge of having attempted to bribe an agent of the internal revenue department to certify that the tax return made by the defendant on behalf of the company was correct.

It is alleged that the return, for the year 1917, was inaccurate to the extent of upwards of $500,000; that Weber was cognizant of the matter, and that he offered a bribe of $25,000 to an agent of the bureau of internal revenue for the purpose of keeping the alleged inaccurate return from reaching the knowledge of the heads of the bureau.

William P. Ahneet, president of the Pictorial Review company, issued a statement at night saying he is absolutely certain Weber is innocent.

MEXICO MAY BE FENCED OFF WITH BARBED WIRES

Border Entanglement Considered to Keep Marauders Out.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—The war department seriously considers fencing a large part of the Mexican border with barbed wire entanglements in an effort to keep marauding Mexicans off American soil.

This became known today following presentation to the war department of an appeal from Gov. Hobby of Texas to the secretary of war to call out two cavalry regiments of the federalized Texas national guard for border patrol duty and also to begin construction of the fence at once.

Texas Congressmen Appeal.

The governor's appeal was transmitted to Secretary of War Baker by Congressman Garner and other Texas representatives from border districts. Mr. Baker told the delegation he would consider the matter with Chief of Staff March.

The proposal to build the fence was made some time ago and has received wide approval in the war department. The wire entanglements would extend about 1,340 miles, according to the plan presented, and would fence in New Mexico and parts of Arizona and Texas.

Obregon Tells Policy.

San Antonio, Tex., June 6.—Copies of the long manifesto issued by Gen. Alvaro Obregon in announcing his candidacy for the presidency of Mexico were received here today.

Gen. Obregon states that he has the united support of the strong liberal party and that he will inaugurate a broader policy with regard to foreign relations. He says he will give "complete recognition of all the rights acquired by foreigners in Mexico in absolute conformity to Mexican laws."

Wants New Railways.

Mexico City, June 6.—President Carranza today sent a message to the Mexican senate asking authority to construct three railways to undeveloped regions of Mexico.

José Inez Davilla, former federal general, it was announced officially today, has been killed in battle in the state of Oaxaca after having been in revolt against the government for more than four years. Davilla at one time was governor of the state of Oaxaca.

Federal Yaquis at Chihuahua.

Juarez, Mexico, June 6—Elias de la O, secretary to Gov. Ortiz of Chihuahua, tonight announced the arrival in Casas Grandes of 2,000 Yaqui federal soldiers from Sonora. Casas Grandes is on the Mexico Northwestern railroad, 158 miles southwest of here. The Yaquis, Secretary de la O explained, were part of the force it was intended to send through the United States from Nogales to Juarez. They marched overland through Ojitos Pass from Sonora to Chihuahua. A courier, who arrived late today from Chihuahua, reported quiet in the capital.

WHO'S HIGHER FLYER, FRENCH OR U.S. WOMAN?

PARIS, June 6.—[Havas.]—A new altitude record for women aviators was made today at Issy-les Moulineaux when Baroness La Roche ascended to a height of 12,869. The time consumed in making the flight was 1 hour and 49 minutes.

U. S. GIRL CLAIMS RECORD.

New York, June 6.—Miss Ruth Law, when informed of the altitude flight of Baroness La Roche, declared that she had reached the height of 14,000 feet in a flight at Peoria, Ill., in September, 1917.

"Too Tired to Play," Child Falls Into Coma and Dies

Three year old Virginia Hauswald of 1111 Chicago avenue, Oak Park, told her mother three weeks ago she was "too tired to play any more" and asked to be put to bed. She lapsed into a coma resembling sleeping sickness. Four physicians were summoned but she died yesterday. The coroner's physician reported death in his opinion was due to a combination of spinal meningitis and tuberculosis of the brain. An inquest will be held today.

TEXAS MOTHER TELLS STORY IN FORD LIBEL SUIT

How Mexicans Came One Quiet Day and Slew Loved Ones.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Mount Clemens, Mich., June 6.—[Special.]—There were tears and smiles instead of yawns today in the Henry Ford-CHICAGO TRIBUNE libel case. Instead of the monotonous proceedings jurors and spectators were stirred by tales of Mexican bandits who crossed the Rio Grande into Texas in 1915-16, robbing and killing American farmers.

Judge James G. Tucker ruled today that he would admit the testimony of witnesses for THE TRIBUNE, who offer to show conditions on the Mexican border at the time the editorial criticising Henry Ford for his attitude against military intervention was written. Three witnesses for THE TRIBUNE were put on the stand, and testimony of this character will be heard all of next week. There are twenty-four ready to tell detailed stories of Mexican bandit outrages.

Why Court Admitted Evidence.

This testimony was permitted, the court said, because the attorneys for Mr. Ford had charged THE TRIBUNE with malice, unworthy motives, in attacking Mr. Ford editorially. Judge Tucker said THE TRIBUNE editors had the right to show that their motives were good, that they had a right to show the conditions which existed at the time they called for intervention, when the editorial was written.

The most appealing story of the day was told by Mrs. Nellie F. Austin of Sebastian, Tex. She is a gray haired, motherly woman. Her voice quavered and she had to stop occasionally for a drink of water as she re-lived the morning of August 6, 1915, when she saw five grinning Mexicans carry her husband and her eldest son, Charlie, away from her. She heard the volley of shots near the farm house. She found them dead a few minutes later, and stayed out there in the hot sun for two hours, holding her husband and trying to bring him back to life.

A Texas Mother's Story.

Mrs. Austin is 58 years of age. Her husband was 60 and her eldest son, Charlie, was 30 at the time of their death. The family came from Vermont and had lived on the farm near Sebastian for about seven years when the tragedy occurred. In addition to farming the husband and son ran a cornshelling machine at Sebastian. On the morning of August 6, Charlie had gone over to town with a two wheeled rig. His father had finished the chores and then had driven to town in the wagon.

Mrs. Austin's story follows:

"That morning I was very far from well, and I sat down resting until I was able to get at my work. It must have been soon after 8. I sat there resting, when I heard leather creaking, and chains clanking. I looked out of the north window and I saw, as I thought, a great many Mexicans on horseback, with guns.

Unconscious from Fright.

"I was frightened, so frightened, that I think for a minute I closed my eyes, and did not know but very little. When I opened them again they had turned the driveway and were coming towards the house. They separated as they turned; and I saw that there were only five Mexicans, and my husband, son, and Elmer Mellett were in the car right behind them. Again I guess I lost consciousness. I know nothing about when they came into the house with the Mexicans—but I opened my eyes, and Charlie was in the room and a Mexican also.

"A Mexican stood in the doorway with a gun against my son's stomach. I asked Charlie what it meant, what they wanted, and Charlie tried to quiet me, and told me not to mind—everything was all right. Again I asked, and seeing the gun at my son's stomach, I got up and went over to push it away. That seemed to frighten Charlie, for he spoke in a very cross way to me, and told me to go and sit down and keep quiet.

Trying to Reassure Her.

"I went over and sat on the couch and waited until I was able to go to the window to speak to my husband, and I asked him what it meant. He told me that everything was all right, not to worry. As I went over to Charlie I saw there were two other

LATE NEWS BULLETINS

LONDON, June 6.—Speaking in the house of commons today, Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary for war, said:

"We are endeavoring to wind up our affairs in north Russia, which we hope will become self-supporting before the end of the summer, enabling us to leave, having honorably discharged our duty."

Mr. Churchill said the check to Admiral Kolchak's advance was now more pronounced and that no attempt should be made to encourage extravagant hopes in that quarter.

VIENNA, June 6.—The Hungarian soviet troops have continued to carry out minor successes against the Czechs. They have crossed the Danube at Gran, and Pressburg is menaced, notwithstanding the fact that two French generals have been placed in command of the Czech operations. Hungarian counter revolutionary forces have captured the western part of Odenberg, thirty-seven miles southeast of Vienna. There have also been uprisings in southwestern Hungary, which were put down mercilessly by M. Samelli, who was sent by Lenine to offer assistance to the Hungarian bolsheviki. It is charged that the male population of cities where these outbreaks occurred were carried off by M. Samelli's troops.

PARIS, June 6.—It was officially announced this afternoon that the Metropolitan subway was running forty-eight trains instead of the normal 180 trains, and that three trains in the north and south subway were running instead of the usual thirty-two.

BULGARS MARCH ON SERB BORDER, DISPATCH SAYS

COPENHAGEN, June 6.—A part of the Bulgarian army has been mobilized and is marching toward the Serbian frontier, the Balkan News Agency reports.

Reports that the Bulgarian army was secretly mobilizing on the Serbian frontier have been received in this country several times during the last three months. The purpose of the mobilization was never explained, nor have recent dispatches indicated any reason for strife between Bulgaria and Serbia. The reported movement of the Bulgarians may have connection with the peace terms as anticipated in Bulgaria. The Bulgarian treaty has not yet been completed by the peace conference. Bulgarian peace delegates were reported to have arrived in Switzerland several weeks ago.

THREATENS TO CLOSE NEW YORK CURB MARKET

New York, June 6.—The New York Curb Market association "must cast out the rascals who are swindling the investing public" and purge the curb lists of worthless stocks or the city administration will end trading on the curb, according to an ultimatum delivered today by District Attorney Swann, who has been investigating sale of "oiless" oil stocks in this city.

Mr. Swann said that at a conference with Mayor Hylan, he had received assurances that he would be given full support by the police department in any action he might take if, "after a reasonable time" the curb had not "cleared the atmosphere."

"The brokers are there only by suffrance of the municipal authorities," said Mr. Swann, who added that he was prepared to prevent "congregation of persons on the curb" if his conditions were not carried out.

C. M. SCHWAB SUED FOR $500,000 FOR SLANDER

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Charles M. Schwab has been sued in the Supreme court for $500,000 damages for slander by Titus de Bobula, an architect of 10 East Forty-third street.

The complaint alleges that Mr. Schwab spoke falsely and maliciously concerning the defendant in the presence of E. de Bobula and others, between January and March, 1918, and on Aug. 7 last.

Mr. Schwab wants to know where he made the statements and who heard them other than the person mentioned.

The plaintiff's attorney refused to discuss the case.

ALLIES SPEED WORK TO AVOID WIDER BREACH

Erzberger to Make Plea to Berlin to Accept.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, June 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—There are many evidences of impatience among the prominent members of the peace conference. A general drive all along the line for a speedy completion of the reply to Germany has been noticeable for the last two days. In French official circles there is a growing conviction that Germany will not sign the peace treaty, and this probably accounts for the haste, as delay, it is generally conceded, makes Germany's signing less likely.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, June 6.—[By the Associated Press.]—Positive instructions were issued tonight by the council of four to all commissions working on the reply to the German counter proposals to complete their reports by Monday.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German peace delegation, left Versailles this evening for Germany.

COPENHAGEN, June 6.—[By Associated Press.]—Mathias Erzberger, head of the German armistice commission, according to the Deutsches Tages Zeitung of Berlin, is preparing a memorandum which, after discussing the peace terms in all their aspects, advocates signing the treaty.

MANY LOOSE ENDS.

PARIS, June 6.—[By the Associated Press.]—There are still many loose ends to the determinations which must be made before the reply of the allies to the German counter-proposals can be submitted to Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German plenipotentiaries, and even the question of principle regarding changes in the treaty has not been definitely settled.

Nevertheless, the members of the commissions of experts profess confidence that they will be able to complete their report to the council of four by Monday or Tuesday and the members of the council themselves seem sure that they will be able to present the allied reply on Thursday or Friday.

Give Short Time Limit.

The reply will be submitted as an ultimatum with a short time limit, probably about four days, in which Germany will either have to take or leave the conditions as offered them.

The most important modification under consideration, namely, the question of reparations, probably will not involve any material changes in the treaty as originally presented.

The concessions will, instead, be presented in the form of a supplementary agreement, defining the procedure for the reparation committeee and prescribing certain intructions for that body which, according to the original draft of the treaty, was given a most comprehensive power of action subject only to the intructions of the powers represented on the commission.

Dodge Fixed Time.

This new solution which is expected to emerge from the deliberations of the experts will dodge fixation of a definite monetary total for reparations, to which the French object on the ground that announcement of any sum which it is considered possible to exact in payment would so disappoint the expectations of the French public as to cause a political upheaval.

The supplementary agreement also would meet the objections of the Germans who declared they were to be asked to pay off a debt the extent of which was unknown, and with the population in virtual economic slavery to the reparations commission under that clause of the treaty requiring Germany to "devote her economic resources directly to the physical restoration of the invaded areas of the allied and associated powers to the extent that these powers may determine."

The instructions to the reparations commission in the proposed supplementary agreement would enable the Germans to know at once the amount of reparations due under certain "categories" of reparations, such as pensions, separation allowances, maintenance of war prisoners, and the destruction of ships at a fixed figure per ton.

It was found impossible, however, to fix any total sum for all categories, since the cost of reconstruction and restoration in the devastated regions cannot be established until after an extensive survey, and the only general estimate on which the French are willing to act would bring the total to 250,000,000,000 francs, which, the experts quite generally agreed, was beyond Germany's power to pay.

Learn Their Capital.

In addition to learning at once the definite instructions on which the permanent commission will act, the Germans will also be assured that a certain amount of working capital will be left them, including, probably tonnage for overseas trade, without which they profess inability to make the required reparations.

It is understood that the question of a plebiscite in upper Silesia practically has been decided affirmatively.

No change with regard to responsibilities, punishment of the former emperor, or the disposition of the German colonies is regarded as probable.

"Points" in Treaty.

"I am convinced that our treaty project violates none of my principles." President Wilson is quoted by the Matin as having said when he was made acquainted with the German counter proposals to the peace treaty. "If I held a contrary opinion, I would not hesitate to confess it, and would endeavor to correct the error. The treaty as drawn up, however, entirely conforms with my fourteen points."

The British correspondents in Paris have begun an investigation as to why their first dispatches regarding the discussion of the necessity of peace treaty changes by the Council of Four were held up for thirteen hours. The dispatches reached the newspapers too late for publication in the current issues.

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHTER.

BERLIN, Thursday, June 5.—[By the Associated Press.]—While the German correspondents at Versailles continue to take a gloomy view of the forthcoming answer to the German counter proposals, official circles in Berlin, judged wholly by surface indications, appear more hopeful regarding the future trend of events.

The slight tone of optimism which has projected itself into the Berlin estimates of the situation are born of the conviction that a basis for verbal negotiations is gradually being created.

Cut Down Privileges.

The German government has curtailed the privileges extended to allied officers and commissions traveling in Germany, on the ground that instances have been uncovered of men who were traveling with official permits carrying on political propaganda and circulating abroad reports injurious to German interests.

BARE SECRET PACTS

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[By Special Cable.]
(Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.)

PARIS, June 6.—The Japanese peace delegation solidly backs Premier Lloyd George's propositions for a revision of the German peace treaty, including the fixing of a concrete sum for reparations, giving back most of upper Silesia to Germany, instead of to Poland, revising the Saar valley coal mines arrangements with France, and reducing the period the armies of occupation will remain at the Rhine bridgeheads.

The refusal to recognize the Kolchak government of Siberia was through the discovery that Japan has secret treaties and agreements with Kolchak and there is also evidence that Kolchak has been communicating with the Germans regarding Russia.

Agreement with Germany.

Tchicherin, the bolshevik foreign minister at Moscow, has announced the existence of a secret agrement, reached between Japan and Germany upon the eve of the kaiser's abdication, which is why Japan refused to agree to the peace conference plan to demand the extradition of the kaiser to Belgium and his trial there for violating the recognized rules of warfare.

Following Tchicherin's declarations concerning the Kolchak-Japanese agreement, both France and Great Britain withdrew their pressure for the United States to recognize Kolchak, and it is understood the revelation of the Japanese intrigues in Siberia. Russia, and Germany come as an overwhelming surprise to all but the American commission, which has been watching far eastern affairs closely.

It is understood the Chinese secret service also has obtained indubitable proof of Japanese pourparlers with the enemy, but that Gen. Smuts also is involved indirectly.

NEW WARFARE THREATENED

Dispatches received from Europe tell of a new war cloud in the Balkans. The recently reorganized army of Bulgaria is reported to be moving toward the borders of Serbia, presumably to attack the new Serbian-Croatian-Jugo-Slavian nation.

EXHUME BODY OF BOY; MAY HAVE DIED OF BEATING

The frail little body of Raymond Behrens, 4 years old, 1832 Melrose street, who died of "tuberculosis," according to the records, is to be exhumed today, for Coroner Hoffman has a number of affidavits which charge the child was beaten to death.

Dr. C. F. Bertschinger, 1010 North Robey street, said he was called to the Behrens home April 29. He found the boy unconscious, and in a "terribly emaciated condition." Because it looked like a tuberculosis case, and because members of the family had died of that disease, he wrote that as the cause of death, he said.

The coroner's investigation was begun when the Juvenile Protective association presented the affidavits. Coroner Hoffman yesterday questioned Mrs. M. Burda, 1363 North Ashland avenue, one of the neighbors, who said she had seen the boy's father and "stepmother" beat him. Detective Sergeant George Scrivener has affidavits from Mrs. Bessie Teml, 1642 West Twenty-first street, stating she saw the father pull Raymond's hair and kick him.

Mrs. Anna Bowne, "the stepmother," told the coroner she wasn't the wife of Behrens, but was just living with him. She didn't know where her husband was. She denied she had ever struck the child, "except to correct him."

GET COPY OF NEW COREAN CONSTITUTION

San Francisco, Cal., June 6.—The first copy of the newly proclaimed constitution of the Ta Han (Corean) republic was received in this city today and made public by Dr. David Lee, general manager of the Corean National association.

The constitution, Dr. Lee said, was promulgated on April 27 by the provisional cabinet and representatives of the new government at an unnamed city in the orient.

The document provides for equal suffrage, compulsory education, and military training, and abolition of titles and other evidences of class distinction.

'We Are in Great Trouble,' Lenine Writes to Friend

GENEVA, June 6.—[By the Associated Press.]—The correspondent has been shown an authentic autograph letter from Nikolai Lenine, the bolshevik premier, to a Russian comrade here, in which Lenine says he is growing tired of the struggle against the superior forces and organization of the allies.

The letter, which is dated Moscow, May 6, complains also of the growing weakness of Lenine's party, when, it says, further strength is required.

Lenine adds that the financial situation is becoming worse, and concludes with the remark that "we are in great trouble."

REDUCES ARMY TO 400,000; SAVES $300,000,000

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Baker's request for an American army of 509,000 men for the next twelve months has been denied by the house military affairs committee.

Representative Julius Kahn, chairman of the committee, announced tonight that the military appropriation bill, to be reported to the house tomorrow, will cut the army down to an average of 400,000 men for the coming fiscal year.

The army now numbers well over 1,000,000 men, 773,000 of whom still are in France. The cuts made by the military affairs committee are in line with the new policy of retrenchment and economy adopted by the Republican steering committee.

It became known after the conference that the strength of the navy will be cut immediately to 200,000 in the naval appropriation bill and the marine corps will be reduced to a permanent strength of 17,400, with an additional 10,000 in temporary strength.

"While saving the taxpayers between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 the army appropriation bill as it will be reported will not in any way hamper our military forces," Representative Kahn said tonight. "It must be understood, however, that this bill does not attempt to define a permanent military policy. The committee will not take up the question of a permanent policy for several months."

Wilson Sends Rejoicings to Mrs. Carrie Catt

Washington, D. C., June 6.—President Wilson through the White House today sent to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National American Woman Suffrage association, the following message:

"I join with you and all friends of the suffrage cause in rejoicing over the adoption of the suffrage amendment by the congress. Please accept and convey to your association my warmest congratulations."

RUSSIA RUBBING RED FROM FLAG —FRAZIER HUNT

Tendency Toward Conservatism, Correspondent Says.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—A story of Russia, its revolution, its problem, and its progress was told today by Frazier Hunt, special correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who, after journeying through soviet Russia, conferred with Herbert Hoover and delegates to the Paris peace conference, discussing the Russian situation thoroughly. Some of Mr. Hunt's suggestions to the delegates are to be taken into consideration in determining the attitude of America toward the Russian revolutionary government. Mr. Hunt arrived today on the American transport Von Steuben, along with 2,814 troops. He will be in America for a vacation of several weeks.

Mr. Hunt said conditions in Russia were serious and would continue so for a time even when an automatic adjustment began. He said this already had been begun and that the general tendency was toward conservatism. But complete conservatism is still in the dim offing for Russia in the very nature of its new found freedom has a strong radical party. Revolutions and counter revolutions can be expected until the people get what they want.

World Must Follow Lenine.

Lenine, Mr. Hunt said, recognized the will of the people as revealed in certain changes in feeling. He has shifted from one attitude to another with almost kaleidoscopic rapidity. The world must learn to pattern its policy after the leaders in Russia, he explained, for that great country is not a child that may be driven with impunity, but one of vast potential power that must be guided gently to win the best result.

Discussing the rebellion of the Michigan draft troops in the Archangel sector Mr. Hunt said a series of circumstances had led to the outbreak. Primarily, the Americans objected to fighting side by side with the British. They made charges that the British officers had passed over the heavy work to the Americans. They also said the odds were too great to press a campaign, and that to fight along the lines adopted was nothing but sheer suicide.

Safe in Russia.

Discussing the Russian situation with the newspaper men, Mr. Hunt said:

"I do not believe the United States should be guided in its Russian policy by the imperialistic propaganda of the old world. Conditions in Russia are none too good, to be sure, but they are not so bad as pictured by some. Street scenes in Moscow and Petrograd are pictured as mad orgies of blood and murder. As a matter of fact, I learned that one is quite safe there under any and all conditions.

"The reign of terror is at an end in Russia. The only ones who are shot down in the streets are the highway robbers and thieves. Soviet Russia has little patience with thieves and burglars and workers against the public weal. But the whole structure of bolshevist Russia is a series of contradictions. Here is a government that opened 9,500 new free schools and supported the students gratis, that propagated the arts, sciences, and literature, on one hand, and tore down the very pillars of convention on the other.

Applied to New York.

"If you stop the New York street cars and the subways, close up the Ritz and other hotels, make Delmonico's into a lunch room, board up three-quarters of the stores on Fifth avenue, shut down most of the factories and work the others on half time, take away all the private motor cars, fail to clean the streets for a week, charge $90 for a short quart of cheap booze—then you have the present bolshevist conditions in Moscow transferred to New York.

"All Russia is distrustful of Europe. The people look to America to act as the Moses to lead them out of the wilderness. They trust this country for we have no axe to grind."

WASHINGTON NEWS —IN BRIEF—

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Washington Bureau of The Tribune.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 6.

ASSERTING its constitutional authority as a part of the treaty making power, the senate today adopted the Johnson resolution, calling on the secretary of state for the complete text of the peace treaty, the Hitchcock resolution, directing an investigation of the charges that the text of the treaty has been allowed to "leak" to Wall street, and the Borah resolution, requesting the peace conference to give consideration to the cause of Irish independence.

To the Irish resolution there attaches the significance of warning that if Great Britain intends to interfere with the Monroe doctrine, through the medium of the league of nations covenant, the United States will not feel constrained to keep hands off of British affairs.

S. J. KONENKAMP, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' union, who extended the strike against the Western Union to southeastern territory, said that further extensions of the strike would be ordered from Chicago tomorrow. Konenkamp disclosed that immediately after the armistice the telegraphers' union, in a letter from him to Secretary of Labor Wilson, withdrew their promise not to strike during the war because the government had not fulfilled its promises to the workers.

ADVICES received by the state department today say that Francisco Villa's forces in Mexico have completely isolated Chihuahua.

REPRESENTATIVES of middle western rural districts obtained favorable action by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce on the Esch bill for the repeal of the daylight savings law. The vote in the committee was 10 to 8.

REPUBLICAN house leaders have started out to trim administration appropriation bills wherever possible. The first move will be an attempt by the committee on military affairs to cut $200,000 or more from the military appropriation bill.

HEARINGS on bills for the protection of domestic dye, potash and chemical glassware industries will be begun by the house committee on ways and means next Tuesday. This is in line with the intention of both parties to prevent the demoralization of industries built up during the war, by guarding against the importation of cheap foreign made articles.

POSTMASTER GENERAL BURLESON'S order relinquishing operation of the telegraph and telephone wires to the companies but under government control was denounced in the senate interstate commerce committee today as a "piece of flim-flam" and an attempt to "pass the buck" on the pending strike.

CANADA STRIKE LEADERS FACING TREASON CHARGE

Government Is Preparing Case; Collapse of Tieup Foreseen.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

Winnipeg, Man., June 6.—[Special.]—Arrest of the Winnipeg strike committee by the Dominion government is looked for within the next few days. From authoritative sources the information is that the arrests may be made Monday.

Charges of treason, sedition, and criminal conspiracy are being prepared, based on the grounds that the general sympathetic strike engineered in Canada is a movement to overthrow the present government and to establish a soviet form with a "proletarian dictatorship."

Papers have been prepared setting forth that for the first three, or four days of the strike Winnipeg virtually had a soviet government. This was the period when nothing in the city could operate unless it got a card from the labor temple reading "open by permission of the strike committee."

Five Men Are Main Leaders.

The strike committee, or "the five" at the Labor temple who are engineering the Winnipeg strike are James Winning, president of the Trades and Labor council and Ernest Robertson, secretary; the Rev. William F. Ivens, editor of the Labor News; H. G. Veitch and R. B. Russell.

Brig. Gen. H. D. B. Ketchen, commanding this district, addressing a massmeeting of the Returned Soldiers Loyalist association today declared: "Every one of these fellows, alien or otherwise, who has shown himself to be undesirable will be dealt with fully."

End of Strike Foreseen.

With union leaders late tonight admittedly making every effort to reach a settlement, the end of the strike seemed rapidly approaching. Whether the end would come by collapse of the strike or by partial compromise of the original union demands was still uncertain. Opposition of the returned soldiers seemed to have decided the struggle.

Delegations of union men announced that if the strike leaders rejected any "fair offer of settlement" by Monday, they intended to go back to work.

Without committing themselves on the question of calling off the sympathetic strike, executives of the central strike committee announced tonight that the metal trades council has accepted the collective bargaining plan outlined by officials of the railway brotherhoods, who have been attempting to bring about strike settlement by conciliation.

"End Strike; Then Mediate."

The employers are inclined to indorse the railroad collective bargaining plan, but are determined that the leading issue of the strike—the sympathetic walkout—must be disposed of first. Federal and provincial executives have stated they will not participate in any conciliatory settlement plan until the thousands of union men who were ordered out on May 15 are returned to work.

On the surface the strike situation was quiet today. Mayor Gray issued a proclamation that no street parades should take place. The strikers met in Victoria park and decided to observe the proclamation.

Change in Government Seen.

One principal topic in Winnipeg today was the resignation of Thomas A. Crerar at Ottawa as minister of agriculture in the dominion government. He is a Winnipeg man, head of the Consolidated Grain Growers' association, and he was placed in the cabinet in recognition of the grain raisers. He is the first minister to resign from the union government formed in 1917.

On all sides the action is construed here as meaning the beginning of the end of the union government. Satisfaction is general, for since the Winnipeg strike started criticism of the government has been quite intense for a lack of initiative and resolution in tackling problems of reconstruction, particularly the cost of living, which is at the basis of the prevailing unrest.

Dr. Johannes von Tilling Freed of Disloyalty Charge

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Manton decided today that Dr. Johannes H. M. A. von Tilling had not been guilty of any act that would justify the government in depriving him of his citizenship. The action against Dr. Tilling was instituted by the government on evidence furnished by federal agents, who accused him of having been false to his oath of allegiance and of having made disloyal statements concerning the United States and its officials.

Chicago Aviator Badly Hurt in Fall in Texas

Gainesville, Tex., June 6.—Lieut. Manau of Chicago was seriously injured and John S. Dolan of Denison, Tex., probably fatally hurt when the airplane in which they were flying had to make a forced landing here today on account of engine trouble. Lieut. Manau's left leg was broken, one hip was crushed, and there were deep cuts on his face. Dolan's skull was fractured.

California Starts Johnson Presidential Boom June 14

San Francisco, Cal., June 6.—A call for a Republican conference here on June 14, to discuss campaign plans in behalf of Senator Hiram W. Johnson for president on the Republican ticket, was sent throughout the state today by a committee of party leaders. The call decries what it terms "the blunders" of the Democratic party and outlines Johnson's career as governor and senator.

TWO RADICALS OF U. OF C. IMPERIL THEIR DIPLOMAS

Alien Students Under Inquiry as Friends of Bolshevism.

Messrs. E. F. Gottlieb, Ukranian, and Louis Wirth, German, hope to shake the dust of America and depart for their beloved fatherlands following graduating exercises for the class of 1919 at the University of Chicago next Tuesday.

But whether they will take with them diplomas or whether they will even be permitted to participate in the graduating exercises of the institution which sent more than 500 students and sixty faculty members to war depends upon their deportment for the next three days.

Known as Radicals.

Intellectually speaking, Mr. Gottlieb and Mr. Wirth are known on the campus as radicals (both are 22), the symptoms having manifested themselves chiefly in sympathetic utterances for the Hohenzollerns and the bolsheviki, according to members of the faculty.

Wirth is editor of the Cosmopolitan student publication, which purveys radical nostrums, and at a banquet recently attended by members of the faculty he assailed the allies' peace terms as "the most impudent document ever devised by the hands and the brains of diplomats." A number of the professors present protested.

Since then he and Gottlieb, who is one of his leading followers, have been quietly investigated. Gottlieb was prominent in the entertainment of J. C. A. K. Martens, bolshevik envoy to the United States from Russia, on his recent visit here.

Faculty Discusses Case.

It was learned yesterday that an executive session of the faculty was held Thursday and that the question discussed was whether Wirth and Gottlieb should be accorded graduating honors. They are said to have been sponsored by Prof. Ferdinand Schevill of the history department.

Although none of the professors would be quoted it was learned that the decision was to make the award of the diplomas contingent upon the two students' behavior. If they are found to have made any anti-American remarks diplomas will be withheld.

COMMITTEE VOTE O. K.'S REPEAL OF DAYLIGHT SAVING

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Repeal of the daylight saving law was favored by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today by a vote of 10 to 8. Middle western members, including Denison of Illinois and Esch of Wisconsin, voted solidly for the repeal, while support of the law came from representatives from New York and other eastern states. The spokesmen for rural and mining districts favored the repeal, while those from the cities opposed it.

The bill provides that the repeal shall become effective on the last Sunday in October, when the clock goes back to the winter schedule.

UNIONS ACCEPT PACKERS' OFFER OF WAR WAGES

Washington, D. C., June 6.—Representatives of international unions whose members are employed in the packing industry at Chicago have notified the department of labor of their willingness to accept the proposal made by the five largest packing companies there to continue existing wage scales for one year after the conclusion of peace.

In making this announcement tonight, Hugh Kerwin, assistant to Secretary of Labor Wilson, declared the agreement "most gratifying," and predicted that the "effect of this plan will be farreaching." Other packing plants in Chicago, he said, are expected to join in the arrangement.

"There has not been a decision of Judge Samuel Alschuler but that has been religiously lived up to by both sides, and not a thing has occurred during his administration which has held up production in any of the packing houses in Chicago," he added.

Three Girls Injured in Collision of Autos

Three girls were injured slightly when the automobile driven by the father of one collided with another car at Oakley boulevard and Walton street last night.

U. S. HOLDS MAN SEIZED HERE AS DYNAMITE AGENT

Barry Refuses Details of Case Against Frank Lanki.

Federal officials cloaked with secrecy the case against Frank Lanki, I. W. W. member arrested several days ago in the Morrison hotel lobby, although they appeared before United States Commissioner Lewis F. Mason yesterday and had him held in bonds of $3,000.

The charge against Lanki was that of having explosives in his possession not registered with the government during time of war. Phillip J. Barry, acting head of the local bureau of investigation of the department of justice, refused to reveal details of the evidence. Whether or not federal sleuths had established a connection between the explosives and any of the recent bomb plots, he refused to say, although he admitted he considered the arrest important.

Dimilo Mari, so-called "I. W. W. postmaster," taken Thursday by Detective Sergeants McDonough and Egan, was questioned repeatedly by the police and federal detectives. It is expected that deportation proceedings will be instituted against him.

TWO HELD IN DETROIT.

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—[Special.]—Upon request of the Cleveland police this evening Detective Fred R. Clark arrested two men suspected of implication in the bombing early in the week of Mayor Davis' home in Cleveland. They are Steve Stoykoff and Pano Trpoff of 373 Ferry avenue East, where they were arrested.

Stoykoff and Trpoff, who are Bulgarians, detectives said, speak little English. They have lived in Detroit about four years and, prior to coming here, they lived six years in Cleveland.

Detective Clark said he found letters in the suspects' room indicating they had been in Cleveland recently.

Both men carried I. W. W. cards and credentials of the federation of union workers. They stoutly disclaimed any implication in the Cleveland outrage.

Flynn Reaches New York.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—William J. Flynn, the new head of the department of justice bureau of investigation, arrived in New York late this afternoon to direct, from this city, the government's war on anarchy and kindred movements in this country. Chief Flynn is now concentrating his efforts on the solution of the conspiracy that was responsible for the attempted assassination last Monday night of Attorney General Palmer and other prominent citizens in other parts of the country. Chief Flynn realizes the difficulties ahead of him and until something definite in the way of evidence is forthcoming as to the identity of the conspirators will, he said, give out no statements.

It is known that the police have been looking for a certain Chicago anarchist and I. W. W. agitator, who was in New York at about the time the parcel post bombs were mailed in the latter part of April.

Yanks Refuse to Help French Aid Rhine State

PARIS, June 6.—American officers at Coblenz, it became known here today, have refused to display posters advertising the Rhenish republic sent them by French officers. The Americans received a bundle of the posters from the French.

Yanks Thwart Berlin.

COBLENZ, June 6.—American authorities here have sent word to the over-president of the Rhine province to ignore orders from Berlin transferring him to another province, the Americans believing that this move was a political one and connected with Berlin's efforts to counteract the movement for the establishment of a Rhenish republic.

150 WOUNDED MEN MOVED TO FORT SHERIDAN

Red Cross ambulances replaced the rumbling vans in a "moving day" procession yesterday. One hundred and fifty wounded men were moved from the government hospital at Forty-seventh street and Drexel boulevard to Fort Sheridan to complete the convalescence which will fit them for Uncle Sam's vocational training courses and places in civilian industry.

A score of patients awaiting discharge from the army following complete recovery from their wounds are still in the south side hospital and will be released as soon as the necessary paper work is completed.

Hospital authorities say that the career of the Cooper-Monatah building as a government base is ended. Hereafter all of the wounded men assigned to Chicago will be cared for in Fort Sheridan.

Thirty-five of the fifty-six men who served with the 132d infantry, Prairie division, have been given leave by Fort Sheridan authorities to attend the reception and ball to be given in the Second Regiment armory tonight by the 132d Infantry Welfare association. The welfare association plans to launch a campaign for a memorial monument or arch in honor of the 284 men of the regiment who gave their lives.

Line Up 20 Customers, Rob Saloon, But Not Patrons

The saloon of Marco Gilich, 2744 Wentworth avenue, was robbed just before closing time. The thieves forced twenty customers to line up along the wall and took $75 from the cash register.

No effort was made to obtain money from the customers.

Martin Byrne's saloon at 225 South Cicero avenue was robbed of $375 by two men at midnight.

Ten minutes later two men robbed the saloon of Thomas Nevill, 3514 Colorado avenue, of $55.

EX-ALD. BLOCK SUES 3; CALLED HIM PRO-GERMAN

Asks $50,000 Damages from Draft Board Man, Editors.

Eugene Block, former alderman from the Ninth ward—with four terms to his credit—during a part of which time he served as chairman of the local transportation committee, as well as chairman of the parks and playgrounds committee, believes he has been libeled to the amount of $50,000 because he was branded as "pro-German."

Mr. Block has filed suit in the Superior court against Robert P. Bamrick, Carl P. Morgan, and Floyd Haas. Bamrick was chairman of local draft board 21, Morgan the editor of the Calumet Index, and Haas its business manager. The nub of the alleged libel was in the publication in the Index Feb. 20, 1919, of a letter addressed by Bamrick to John Leonard, 11407 Indiana avenue, in which Block's patriotism was attacked. Leonard then was a candidate for alderman.

In his letter Bamrick asserted that Block discouraged the work of the draft board and dodged the purchase of Liberty bonds. All of which Block has denied.

Make Hot Rejoinder.

Into the files of the court there was injected yesterday a hot rejoinder on the part of the defendants, in which they rip into Block with charges compared with which the Bamrick letter is lamblike in its mildness.

In their separate pleas, covering more than thirty pages of closely typewritten matter, drafted by Attorney Elmer J. Schnackenberg, the defendants charge that "the plaintiff's sympathies, both while he served as an alderman and after the expiration of his last term, were not with the United States government, but were with the imperial German government."

Also Accuses Son.

Not even Le Roy H. Block, the former alderman's son, escapes attention in the bill. The charge is made that when he was called before the draft board he sought evasion of service on the plea of physical disability; that he presented to the medical examiners a set of X-ray plates which were supposed to support his claim of physical disability. Notwithstanding, Block, Jr., was duly examined by the medical officers who "pronounced the X-ray plates to be fraudulent and not reproductions of any part of the body of the said Le Roy Block."

The former alderman denies all charges of pro-Germanism and said he gave his son to the army and would have gone to fight the kaiser himself had he been within military age. He argues, too, that he bought Liberty bonds to the full extent of his financial ability, and adds "that he was held in high esteem by his neighbors and acquaintances as a loyal, patriotic law abiding and law respecting citizen."

Col. Kniskern Reverts to Regular Army Rank

Col. Albert D. Kniskern, depot quartermaster of Chicago, has reverted to his regular army rank of colonel as a result of the automatic military adjustment of the demobilization period.

As brigadier general, the Chicago officer handled all depot supplies for the central war department during the war.

CENSOR BUSY AS OLD MAN WOE TICKLES EUROPE

They Cannot Know in Paris How Germans Win in Africa.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.]

LONDON, June 6.—The Paris edition of THE TRIBUNE dated June 4 has a streamer headline deleted by censor. The issue of June 5 has a streamer heading which reads, "Big News Deleted by the French Censor," and in the center of several columns of blank space it says:

"By order of the French censor, THE TRIBUNE is obliged to substitute white paper for publicity on secret diplomatic moves which are of the most vital interest to a free people."

Doubt About Censor.

This is sent because we do not know how much is allowed to get through to Chicago about the situation in France. The evening London papers say the British delegation has decided to give Germany a mandate for Southwest Africa, and there are other indications that the treaty of peace presented to Germany may be modified greatly in other directions.

The whole situation on the continent seems to be boiling. From Copenhagen comes word that the bolsheviki have defeated Gen. Kolchak's forces.

From the same source comes a statement that the offensive against Petrograd, in which British and Esthonian forces took part, has been defeated, while the British fleet, which attempted to force its way through the Finnish gulf, has been compelled to retire.

May Be Red Propaganda.

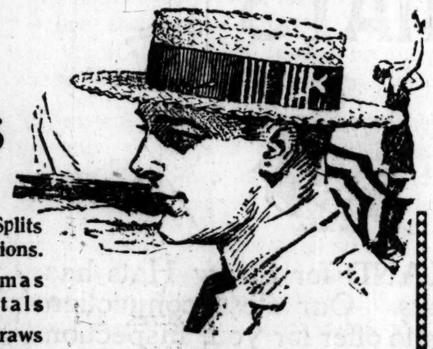

This alleged news from Russia many will believe to be bolshevik propaganda nicely timed to fit in with the bomb explosions in the United States and the strikes which have tied up Paris and which, according to the London Daily Express, threaten France with a labor dictatorship, and the meetings in England which threaten a general strike of the members of the triple alliance of transport workers, coal miners, and railroad men.

In Paris alone 350,000 men are said to be on strike. The subway, omnibus, and street railway employes, the metal workers, aviation and factory workers, and the employes in the large department stores have stopped work. The railway men, electricians, taxi drivers, bank clerks, and insurance clerks already are involved, and the strike movement threatens to extend.

In Swansea, Wales, as far off from London as can be reasonably reached, a conference of the British national transport workers' federation was held today. President Harry Gosling said nobody would look lightly on a general strike, but it would be preferable to allowing the British government to use troops as strike breakers and thus to break down all the power which has grown up through the trade union movement.

The news from Europe is likely to be delayed during next week, and what gets through may as well be read with the idea in mind that a large part of it is propaganda.

How Mexicans Came One Quiet Morning and Slew Loved Ones.

Mexicans, one right behind this other fellow, standing up against the door, with a gun on my son, and another one right outside the door, with a gun against the screen, all aimed at the boy.

"I kept up my questions. Finally the one who was in front of my son said: 'Where are the guns?' Charlie went and got them for him, and he followed him over, not seeming to dare to take that gun off him. He got the guns. One was a rifle, and the other a shotgun.

Demanded More Ammunition.

"Then they wanted our ammunition. Charlie got it for them and they wanted more, and asked him if we did not have it. We had no shot, I guess they call it, for the shotgun, but the shells were for the rifle. Thinking perhaps he might believe me, I told him we had no more.

"Then they wanted a pistol. Charlie said we never had such a thing, and I thinking perhaps they would believe me, told them we had never owned one.

"They never said anything to me, only this one in front of Charlie, with that terrible grin on his face, looked at me every little while. When they went out of the house I don't know that terrible feeling came over me and I closed my eyes.

"When I looked again they were out in the car and were about to drive away. I went to the window and asked my husband wasn't he coming in to me before he went. He said, 'Don't worry, mother, everything is all right; I will be back in a minute.'

Hears Fatal Shots

"They took the guns and mounted the horses and one of them, thoroughly disgusted with the rifle, threw it on the ground a couple of times. When they rode off I stood there for a minute and sat down, partly satisfied that it was all over; that all they wanted was to rob. I was writing to my other son that morning, and I thought I would add a postscript, and tell him they had been to rob us. I stood up to add my postscript to my letter and I heard those shots."

Q.—Which way had they gone? A.—Our gate is to the west, and when they went through the gate they turned to the north. When they got through the gate I could hear our horse start to go very fast, and plunged, and he was a very high life animal, and I don't know what they did to him, but something to make him go very fast, and it was but a short distance where they killed him.

Volley of Shots Fired.

Q.—Did you see them? A.—O, no, no.

Q.—How many shots did you hear? A.—It was a volley.

Q.—What did you do then? A.—Might I have a drink of water, please? I do not know. I think I must have gone mad for a while. I don't know what happened. I still stood there.

Mrs. Austin continued: "When I came to myself our dog was in my room, jumping on my face and lapping my cheeks. It was his moist tongue on my face that brought me to. I knew enough to get my hat and go out and start on the road, but as I have heart trouble I could only go a short distance, when I fell. I tried it several times before I got but a very few feet from the house. And finally I saw Elmer Mellett coming. He had almost reached our gate, and I thought I would wait until Elmer got there and ask him where I could find them and what had happened.

Goes to Hunt Her Dead.

"When Elmer got almost to me I asked him where my boys were. He said 'They got them—they are dead. They have got them, Mrs. Austin.' He tried to persuade me not to go. He thought the Mexicans or bandits were still there, but I thought a shot would not hurt me a bit more than it did them, and I started, and told him he could remain there if he wished, and I got to where the roads forked, one going to the south and one to the west, and I did not know which road to take.

"I thought I never would be able to go back to the house to find out where to go, and as I turned to look back Elmer had followed me down and had just come to our gate. I called to him to know which way to go, and he motioned, and I misunderstood him and I started the wrong way. He called to me then after I started the wrong way and told me the other road. I had not got but a few feet in the other road when I could see my husband's feet and a small piece of his white trousers showing.

Takes Husband in Arms.

"It took me but a few seconds to reach him. My husband, who was a very large man, I picked up first. Charlie, I saw, was dead as I passed him. My husband, I know, was alive when I picked him up. He was lying on his face. Blood was running from his mouth, but he was not marred in any way. I talked to him and talked to him, and twice his eyelids moved. I don't know how long I kept him up with my arms; but when I laid him down I went to Charlie. Charlie I could not move; he was like a stone.

"The sun was beating down and Elmer got to me. He told me my husband was dead, and I told him I knew he was not, I knew he was alive. If I could only have a doctor! He could help. I thought perhaps I could run quicker than Elmer, but he said, 'you stay here, Mrs. Austin, and I will go.' I stayed with them, and perhaps a half an hour afterwards I saw my husband was dead.

Feared Coyotes Would Get Bodies.

"Coyotes were crying, yelping in the distance, and I was afraid that they might come near the bodies. I thought I was there perhaps two hours. Some say I was not there more than an hour and three-quarters before help came. Mr. Smith and a gentleman from Raymondville and a friend of my son's came up to get us.

"I could hear the automobile coming, and thought they were coming the east road, which they would pass me, but they did not. They came the other road and went directly to the house. Thinking perhaps that they might come down and again pass me and not find us, I went out and walked towards the house. Mr. Smith saw me, called to me, and I turned around to go back to my dead as quick as I could. Mr. Smith caught up with me, and the automobile followed. After that another automobile came and took me. They carried me into the village and took my dead over also."

Two Other Texans on Stand.

Roscoe Lee Smith of Sebastian, Tex., who was working at the corn sheller with the Austins when the Mexicans rode into town, followed Mrs. Austin on the stand. He said there were fourteen armed and mounted Mexicans in the band. They ordered them all to hold up their hands and demanded guns and ammunition. Charlie Austin told them they had guns out at the farm and five of the Mexicans accompanied the Austins to their home. Smith said the bandits cut the telephone wires as soon as they got into town. He followed the bandits to the Austin farm and saw the bodies of the father and son.

V. L. Conrad, a civil engineer of Brownsville, Tex., took the stand and pointed out on the map the entire Mexican-Texas boundary situation. This boundary is 2,500 miles long as the Rio Grande flows. He had marked in red ink the scenes of raids of magnitude in the Brownsville district in 1915 and 1916.

Tells of Bandit Attack.

He said that on Aug. 2, 1915, he was riding in an automobile with three other men to the San Roman ranch when they met about forty armed and mounted Mexicans.

"Banditos! — step on it!" Conrad yelled to his driver.

The bandits opened fire on the automobile and one bullet creased the driver's head. He said he could not tell whether the bandits followed them or not because of the great cloud of dust raised by the speeding automobile.

He told of asking for military protection in 1915 and how trains had to be run with lights out, the travelers all carrying rifles. He said he could not get labor to go out in the country and that many people left their ranches and moved to town through fear of the bandits. He described a scene in Matamoras, Mexico, just after a battle between Mexican groups in which the prisoners of one side were stood in a row and shot.

Mrs. Patterson's Deposition.

Earlier in the day's hearing Mr. Lucking rested his case after reading a deposition by Mrs. Elmer Medill Patterson. This deposition shows that Mrs. Patterson is the daughter of the late Joseph Medill and that she and her sister, Mrs. Robert S. McCormick, inherited 1,050 shares in THE TRIBUNE company. She and Mrs. McCormick have been directors of the company since 1910. She said that neither her interest nor the interest of Mrs. McCormick had ever been turned over to her son, Capt. Joseph M. Patterson, or to Mrs. McCormick's son, Col. Robert R. McCormick. She said that the editorial policy of the paper had been controlled by Capt. Patterson and Col. McCormick after James Keeley left.

She said that she never gave directions or suggestions to the editors regarding any policy of THE TRIBUNE. She said specifically that she had not given any direction to the editors or editorial writers of THE TRIBUNE regarding the attitude of the paper towards the European war. She said that she and her sister had turned over absolutely all guidance of policies to her son and nephew.

Court Rules Out Bernstorff.

"This gentleman," she said in one portion of her deposition, indicating Mr. Lucking, "does not know that they (her son and nephew) were the elected editors, and they would not take a bit of advice from me, or from my sister. Absolutely, if I offered any advice, my son would not accept it, and I don't know anything about the Mexican situation."

Mrs. Patterson said that she lived in Washington. At the point in the deposition where she was asked concerning her acquaintance with Count von Bernstorff, Judge Tucker ruled that this testimony was not competent.

The court said: "It does not strike me that her acquaintance with Mr. von Bernstorff would cut any figure in the case unless followed by some overt act, or some conspiracy, or something of that kind that was connected with this case, and I do not understand that mere acquaintanceship with somebody, even if he was an enemy, ought to prejudice the case."

The part of the deposition which was not read shows that Mrs. Patterson had told Count von Bernstorff fifteen months before diplomatic relations between Germany and the United States were broken off not to come to her house. It also showed that members of the other embassies, including the British, were frequent callers.

J. A. WAUCHOPE NAMED TO DIRECT BOY SCOUTS HERE

With the opening of the Boy Scout drive for 1,000,000 associate members on Sunday, Chicago will have a new Scout executive in J. A. Wauchope, who will become the directing head of the Boy Scouts here, succeeding S. P. Walsh, who has been acting Scout executive for Chicago for six months.

J. A. WAUCHOPE

Mr. Wauchope is a veteran in the Boy Scout organization. From 1911 to 1914 he was Scout executive for St. Paul. He was instrumental in building up the organization in Minnesota and other parts of the northwest during that time to a high degree of efficiency. From 1914 he served in various capacities on council and executive committees and the Court of Honor.

The Chicago unit, in which 8,000 Scouts are enrolled, is the largest in the United States. It has doubled its membership within the last four months, according to R. J. Thorne, Chicago Scout commissioner.

CHADSEY'S CAMP INSISTS ON JURY PROBE OF MAYOR

Grand jury investigation into city hall activities in connection with public school affairs alone will satisfy the sponsors of former Supt. Charles E. Chadsey.

A delegation of citizens, among them members of the school advisory commission which recommended Dr. Chadsey for the Chicago position, said so yesterday when they called upon State's Attorney Hoyne, urging the investigation, and indictments if evidence is found to warrant such action, of alleged political interference in school administration.

"The delegation urged prosecution of the mayor or any one else," said Mr. Hoyne, "if evidence gathered in the school investigation warrants such a course.

"I told the committee I would take no action until after Monday's conference with Corporation Counsel Ettelson and the city's representatives, together with attorneys representing the ousted officials. If, after the conference, there is sufficient evidence, the grand jury will be asked to investigate. If evidence is lacking there will be no action taken."

FORD INTERVIEW OPPOSING WARS IS IN EVIDENCE

What He Said in 1915 Is Admitted to Court Record.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Mount Clemens, Mich., June 6.—[Special.]—An article by Edward Marshall, embodying an interview with Henry Ford and published on April 11, 1915, was introduced by the defense in the trial of the Ford libel suit against THE TRIBUNE today.

The article, setting forth Mr. Ford's views on war, comprises 6,000 words, and is entitled "Commercialism, Aided by Politicians, Responsible for Europe's Great War."

This is the interview in which Mr. Ford advocated industrial instead of military intervention in Mexico, and in which he referred to soldiers as murderers. This sentence is in the interview: "To my mind the word 'murderer' should be embroidered in red letters across the breast of every soldier."

First Evidence for Defense.

The Marshall article was the first bit of evidence for the defense. Its introduction followed the action of the Ford attorneys today in introducing part of it in support of their statement that Mr. Ford was a prominent antagonist of military preparedness. Mr. Stevenson then claimed that right to present the entire article. He was upheld by the court.

Mr. Marshall's article quoted Mr. Ford in part as follows:

"Two classes benefit by war—the militarists and the money lenders—if by some chance it does not kill them, and the chances that it will are most remote, for usually they can stay out of danger. The money lenders always keep away; the militarists, being officers, when they are on the firing line, have the preferred positions.

Would Burn Down Plant First.

"I am opposed to war in every sense of the word. I try to be consistent. If war came here and I were offered treble price to manufacture motor cars for military purposes I would burn down my plant before I would accept an order.

"We who pride ourselves upon our civilization fight when we are fighting and when we are not fighting spend our time and energy and treasure getting ready for new battles, comforting ourselves with platitudes which proclaim that preparation is prevention.

"We don't want to teach men how to fight here in the United States. We want to teach them how not to want to fight. We would have no armies if we did not glorify the man who fights.

"I don't blame any man for avoiding military service. We have many men among our working forces who cheerfully admit they left Europe for the purpose of avoiding enlistment in the army.

"Why shouldn't they avoid it if they don't like it? No one ever thinks of forcing any man who doesn't want to be a candymaker to learn the confectionery business. Why should any man who doesn't want to be a butcher be compelled to learn the soldier's trade?

"World citizenship—that's the thing for us to teach. World patriotism—that's the thing we want to glorify.

"We in this country don't need to worry about getting whipped. No one will come over here and steal our little old United States from us."

As to Mexican Situation.

Mr. Marshall in the article said he asked Mr. Ford how he would handle the Mexican situation.

"Certainly not by going down there armed to kill the Mexicans and provoke them to kill us," he answered. "We need to help them, not to harm them.

"If the Mexican situation cannot be handled in a peaceful way it cannot be handled at all. I think the peaceful way which we must try will prove to be industrial. Mind you, I say industrial, not financial. That's where America's chance comes in. We must not go down there with a rifle. We must go down there with the plow, the shovel, and the shop.

"Instead of sending soldiers down to Mexico we should send industrial experts down there—missionaries of the true and holy gospel of get down to work."

"Would you actually abolish the United States army and navy?"

"Yes."

"We would have peace in the Ford factory and efficiency and happiness and success there, without anything in any sense approaching the use of force. There is no army and navy mixed up in our job. There's only brain and muscle and good will."

Smitty's Home from the Wars!

HENRY SMITH

Henry Smith of the Five Fighting Smiths is home from the wars. He has been a newsboy at Madison and Dearborn for fifteen years, and his strident voice, known to thousands, will soon be heard at the old stand. He is one of a family quintet who served in khaki and blue, but there were a couple of Smith kids left, too young to scrap, but old enough to sell papers. They kept the Home Editions turning.

Henry went some—first to Camp Grant, thence to Funston, thence to Mills, thence to England. Two months after he left Chicago he was fighting in France. In three months he was corporal—the armistice kept him from being a general.

He fought nine months and came through without a scratch.

NOTICE

To tenants of the Monadnock Block

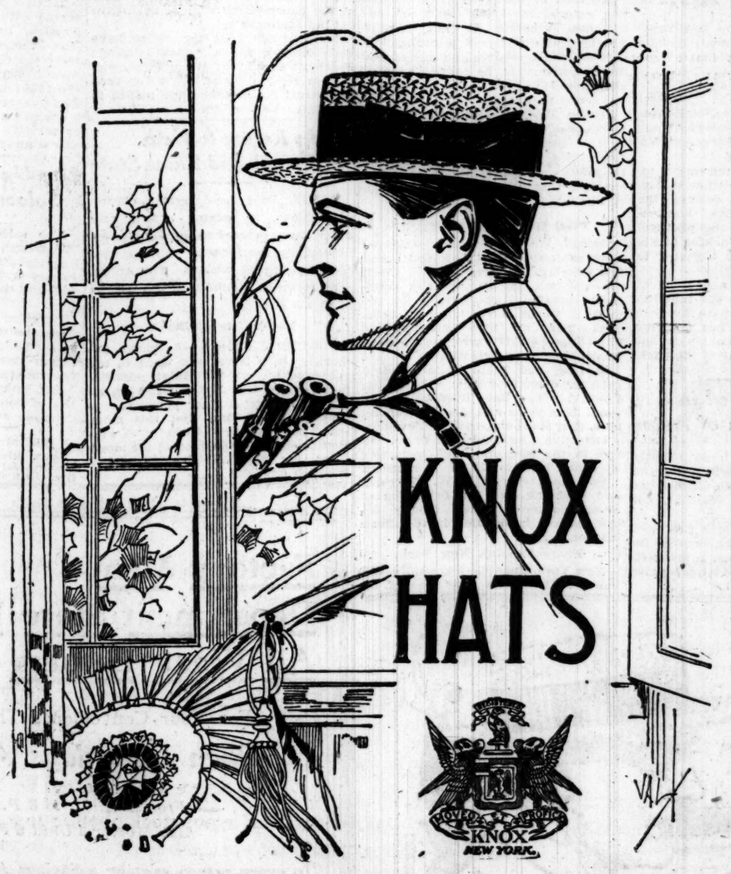

Have you ever realized that this immense building houses over five thousand people; the equivalent of the working population in a city of 20,000 inhabitants? That six mail carriers devote their entire time to the delivery of mail, and that over one hundred persons, including seventy janitors, are constantly employed?

A substantial foundation was a hobby of the builders and, as a result, the brick and stone piers on the street floor are over six feet thick.

The location is excellent, being right across the street from the Post Office, and diagonally across from The Washington Shirt Company store at Jackson Boulevard and Dearborn Street, of which hundreds of the Monadnock Block tenants are steady patrons.

Some shops expect to sell a customer only once. Their motto is, "DO HIM GOOD." The Washington motto is, "GUARD HIS INTERESTS," and each article sold is guaranteed to render satisfactory service; hence thousands of Chicago's best dressers are permanent customers.

Moral—The Washington policy is built upon a foundation as strong as that of the MONADNOCK BLOCK.

WIRE STRIKE TO BE SPREAD OVER COUNTRY

Union Head Will Issue General Order in Chicago Today.

BULLETIN.

San Francisco, Cal., June 6.—June 11 has been decided upon as the date for the beginning of the nation-wide strike of telegraphers, according to a telegram said to have been received by Patrick O'Connery, president of a local union, from L. I. Marshall, first vice president of the state organization of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—President S. J. Konenkamp of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America announced tonight that he would call a nation-wide strike of members of the union upon reaching Chicago tomorrow. He said that neither the date of the proposed walkout nor whether it would affect both the Postal Telegraph-Cable company and the Western Union Telegraph and Cable company had been decided. The strike will not affect newspapers, brokers or press associations.

The strike, Mr. Konenkamp said, would be called in support of union employés of the Western Union company in ten southeastern states, who were requested by him to leave their work last night following return by order of Postmaster General Burleson of the wire systems of the country to private operation.

Reports 2,000 Men Out.

According to Mr. Konenkamp, more than 2,000 of the 3,000 union operators in the southeastern territory had left their keys by noon today. In announcing this fact, Konenkamp denied a statement by Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, that there were not more than 700 union workers employed by the company.

Mr. Konenkamp also revealed that the union had withdrawn its pledge to the government not to strike during the war because none of the promises made by the government had been kept.

Postoffice department officials, while intimating that, whereas the wire systems now were being operated by the companies, the department was not directly concerned in the controversy, expressed the belief that the strike if called would not seriously affect communication.

Burleson's Order Is Denounced.

Postmaster General Burleson's order relinquishing government operation of the telegraph and telephone wires was denounced in the senate interstate commerce committee during the day as "a piece of flim-flam" and an attempt to "pass the buck" on the pending strike.

The committee, called together hastily on the erroneous assumption that Mr. Burleson's order was a genuine restoration of the wires to private ownership, voted to recommend prompt adoption of the Kellogg resolution turning the wires back to private control. The committee amended the resolution to continue present rates in effect for ninety days, instead of six days, after the wires are restored to private ownership.

Senator Cummins of Iowa, chairman of the committee, announced that the resolution would be pressed in the senate early next week.

Burleson Explains Action.

While the committee was in session Senator Cummins received a letter from the postmaster general explaining the meaning of his order of last night.

Mr. Burleson in the letter declared that his order had been misinterpreted and that actual control of the wire systems had not passed from the department, but only operation had been relinquished.

N. C. Kingsbury, vice president of the American Telegraph and Telephone company, was on the stand before the committee when Mr. Burleson's letter came in. He had just told the committee that Mr. Burleson had not relinquished control of the wires.

"Then his order was simply a piece of flimflam," said Senator Kellogg. "It does not amount to anything."

"Wasn't its purpose to pass the buck on the strike?" asked Senator Watson of Indiana.

Mr. Kingsbury protested the question was "hardly fair," and explained that an error had crept into the official statement issued by the postoffice department last night.

"The order merely means," he explained, "that the companies will now operate their own wires for the postmaster general."

Won't Reinstate Strikers.

New York, June 6.—Employés of the Western Union Telegraph company who joined the telegraphers' union on the assurance of the postmaster general that there would be no discrimination in regard to employés joining unions, will not be taken back if they strike, Newcomb Carlton, president of the company, announced today.

Mr. Carlton said that out of 40,000 employés only 710 belonged to the union and that the call for a strike in the southern division was meeting with practically no response.

Announcement was made today by Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph-Cable company, that the officials of the company removed by Postmaster General Burleson have been reinstated—namely: Mr. Mackay, president; William W. Cook, general counsel; Edward Reynolds, vice president and general manager; and A. B. Richards, general superintendent.

LODGE EXPLAINS SENATE ACTION ON IRISH ISSUE

Monroe Creed's Fate in Peace Treaty Opened the Way.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—By a vote of 60 to 1 the senate today adopted the resolution of Senator Borah of Idaho, expressing sympathy for the efforts of Ireland to gain its independence and calling upon the peace conference at Paris to grant a hearing to the representatives of the Irish people.

The only negative vote was cast by Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, Democrat.

The last house of representatives on March 4 adopted a resolution, 216 to 41, hoping the peace congress would favor self-determination for Ireland.

Text of Resolution.

The text of the senate resolution reads:

Resolved, That the senate of the United States earnestly requests the American peace commission at Versailles to endeavor to secure for Edward de Valera, Arthur Griffiths, and Count George Noble Plunkett a hearing before said peace conference in order that they may present the cause of Ireland.

Resolved, Further, that the senate expresses its sympathy with the aspirations of the Irish people for a government of their own choice.

The second half of the resolution was offered as an amendment by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, Democrat, and unanimously adopted.

Tit for Tat.

Many senators who otherwise would have been opposed to interfering in Euporean affairs supported the resolution with a view to serving notice upon Great Britain that if she proposes to interfere in the western hemisphere by aiding the impairment of the Monroe doctrine through the league of nations provisions, the United States no longer will feel constrained to keep hands off British affairs.

Supporting the Borah resolution on the Irish question, Senator Lodge vigorously assailed the so-called reservation of the Monroe doctrine in the league of nations covenant. He said the Monroe doctrine is in a "far worse position now than it was in the original covenant." Were it not for the effort of the powers in the peace conference to interfere with the Monroe doctrine, Senator Lodge said, objection might be made against an attempt on the part of the senate to intervene in the Irish question.

"But that objection can no longer exist," the senator continued. "The peace conference has passed far beyond its primary business of making peace. It has entered into the entire sphere of national relations the world over. More than that, it has literally entered upon the settlement of a question which is wholly ours and that is the Monroe doctrine."

Body Found in River; Believed Recent Suicide

The body of an unidentified man about 60 years old was found in the Chicago river at Lawrence avenue yesterday. The police believe it is that of a man who leaped into the river Saturday north of Devon avenue after he had discarded most of his clothing.

SENATE FOR FREE IRELAND

"amazed" at the position taken by Senator Lodge in favoring the Kellogg amendment.

"I propose to have a vote and I propose to have it this afternoon," said Senator Hitchcock, "and I propose to have the country understand that the senator who was so anxious to stand here upon the floor of the senate and upon his own responsibility charge that copies of the peace treaty were in New York in the hands of New York interests——"

"I never said that," interrupted Senator Lodge.

Senator Hitchcock continued: "The senator from Idaho takes the proper position. He came in here upon his own responsibility and made certain allegations.

Ready for Inquiry.

"He was ready to go before an investigation committee and have his statements investigated, but the senator from Massachusetts after having this printed resolution before him all day yesterday, after having known exactly what its phraseology was, after having had all the experience of many years as a legislator, suddenly during the night has seen a new light and he wants an investigation in some general terms of matters already admitted.

"What do we care whether the printed copies were on sale in Germany or not? If they were on sale in Germany that is a German matter. What we are interested in now is this: Are those copies in New York, are they in the hands of interests in New York that have no legitimate right to their possession? Was the senator from Massachusetts justified when he came in here and charged that they were in New York?

Did Lodge See Copy?

"Have our representatives in Paris permitted interests in New York to get possession of these copies of the peace treaty for their own selfish use? Did the senator see such a copy in New York and spend an hour and a half in reading it?"

Senator Lodge jumped to his feet and shook his finger at Senator Hitchcock. "I have said so, and I decline to repeat it," he exclaimed, advancing toward Senator Hitchcock. "Does the senator question the truth of what I have said?"

"I will say that the statement he made upon the floor of the senate is one which I have a right to have investigated," continued Senator Hitchcock.

"I have no objection to its being investigated, and it shall be investigated," Senator Lodge answered.

Senator Lodge then took the floor and asked Senator Kellogg to withdraw his substitute resolution, so that the Hitchcock resolution might be passed without further delay. The only delay, he said, had been caused by Senator Hitchcock himself. He reiterated his charge that he had seen the treaty.

Michael Ryan Elated.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 6.—Michael J. Ryan, one of the three delegates sent to the peace conference by the Irish race congress to plead the cause of Ireland, in a statement tonight on the action of the senate in adopting a resolution asking the American delegates to the peace conference to secure a hearing for the Irish delegates, said he rejoiced at the "proof that a part of the government of America still remains loyal to the best traditions of the republic."

"I am sure," he said, "that the overwhelming majority of the people of America will thank the senators of the United States for the action this day taken.

"The vote of the senate will hearten every lover of liberty the world over and will, I trust, be responded to and complied with by President Wilson and his appointees in Paris."

WHY NOT PRINT IT?

PARIS, June 6.—Certain members of the American peace delegation are asking why the government at Washington doesn't print the German peace treaty and place the document on sale throughout the United States, so every one can buy and read it, as the treaty is reported available in Paris at a reasonable price, and the Germans are flooding Switzerland, Holland, and the Scandinavian countries with copies printed in English, French, and German.

One German publishing concern is selling a copy of the treaty made from photographic plates of the original document handed to Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau at Versailles. The Germans shipped copies of the treaty addressed to every member of congress by way of Holland, but it is understood these have been held up, but by whose orders is not known.

OLD MASTERS and NEW

THE old masters of silversmithing—are they more famous than the master craftsmen of to-day because there were fewer of them?

What would one of these say in the presence of such a display of fine modern silverware as he would find in our establishment?

Knowing how the treasures which he wrought in "the good old days" are guarded as some-ones priceless heirlooms, would he not congratulate the silver buyer of to-day upon the facility with which worthy silver may be acquired.

Whose will be the heirlooms which to-day repose in our show-cases?

WHO IS FAVORITE SON LEWIS PICKS FOR DEMOCRATS?

Says Illinois Has Two for 1920 Race—Is It the Colonel Himself?

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—Illinois is to have a favorite son candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency next year. This statement is made authoritatively by former United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis in a signed article that appears tonight in the Illinois State Register, recognized as close to Mr. Lewis personally and politically.

Col. Lewis' declaration has produced all kinds of buzzing comment in Springfield. "Who is the candidate?" is one of the frequent questions. "Is it Col. Lewis himself?"

"Is the colonel working in harmony with Roger Sullivan on an agreement that the Illinois delegation will be pledged to Col. Lewis in 1920, or is Col. Lewis out to defeat Roger C. for control of the Illinois delegates next year?" is another.

Recalls 1860 Race.

Col. Lewis spent two days in Springfield this week. He consulted with friends from all parts of the state, and made a striking address on the league of nations before a large audience in the hall of the house of representatives Wednesday night. The article on presidential politics directs attention to the fact that Illinois had two presidential candidates in 1860—Lincoln and Douglas—and proffered the forecast that Illinois may repeat in 1920—Gov. Lowden being indicated in Col. Lewis' statement as the possible Republican nominee.

New Conditions Make New Issues.

An excerpt from Col. Lewis' published statement follows:

"No party has any outstanding candidate—unless we admit Wilson as a candidate for a third term and ex-President Taft as the best prospect for a second term of his party.

"The west will name the candidates of both parties. Illinois will present Gov. Lowden for the Republicans. The Illinois Democrats will present a favorite son. Every large state will present a favorite son in each party. Illinois can capture the candidates of both—as was the case in 1860, when Lincoln and Douglas of Illinois opposed each other."

A Cool, Delicious Drink

Easy to Make—Costs Less Than 1c a Glass

Root Beer! Doesn't the very name suggest all sorts of woodsy fragrant things? And think of having it on hand all the time—a refreshing, invigorating glass when you're feeling tired; wholesome, sparkling glasses when the children come home; a cool, tempting glass for the guest who drops in.

The nice part of it is that in addition to its being pure and wholesome, it is surprisingly easy to make. All you need is a 25c bottle of Hires Household Extract, sugar, and a yeast cake. Makes 40 pints or 80 glasses, too—less than 1c a glass. You may drink just as much of it as you want, because homemade root beer made from Hires Household Extract is pure. It is made from the juices of pure bark, berries, herbs, and roots—16 in all—including birch bark, ginger, and spikenard. When you buy Hires Household Extract you know that it is pure, and that it does not contain substitutes nor artificial flavors.

Go down cellar and hunt up all those old bottles which have been accumulating. You can use them all—short necked, long necked, quart, and pint! If you haven't corks for them, you can purchase from the grocer when you buy Hires Household Extract, a supply of Hires especially designed air-tight bottle stoppers.

Once you make some homemade root beer, you will never again be without it!

Will a Slaughter of Jews Be Next European Horror?

While the sporadic persecutions and massacres of Jews in Russia, Poland, Roumania, and the Ukraine, already reported, are disturbing in themselves, they are but scattered sparks compared to the conflagration some observers foresee. Thus William G. Shepherd, in a Paris dispatch to the New York Evening Post, says that not only leading Jews in France, but even notable Russian authorities, including Kerensky, "admit the possibility that the next Russian horror will consist of attacks on Jews." In the course of a dispatch from Paris, a correspondent to the New York Day, a Jewish paper, says regarding the massacres in the Ukraine that "the purpose is apparently to exterminate the entire Jewish population."

Regarding the reported persecution of Jews in Poland, Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes of New York declares that that country "is now at the bar of the world's judgment, for the world has to choose between Turkish atrocities in Armenia, German atrocities in Belgium, and Polish atrocities in Poland."

Poles in New York, and the new Polish Premier, Paderewski, deny that pogroms have occurred in Poland, and characterize these charges as anti-Polish and pro-German propaganda. To substantiate these denials the Polish Information Bureau cites Dr. Vernon Kellogg, recently returned to New York from Poland, who in an interview published in the New York Times stated that while "there were constant rumors of difficulties of one kind and another between the Jews and Poles," he did not find evidence of any widespread massacres.

STATE EXPENSES GO UP, BUT NOT TAXES, BILLS SAY

Omnibus Act Appropriates $28,000,000; Tax Rate 75 Cents or Less.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—Illinois increases the state's expenditures by $16,000,000 and keeps down the cost to the taxpayers at the precise figure that now exists.

This is the big fact that sticks out of the appropriations of the dying session of the legislature that came to a final total when the omnibus appropriation bill and the tax levy bill were sent to the house by Chairman Smejkal of its appropriations committee. The omnibus bill carries $28,000,000.

The cost of living has gone up, including the maintenance of the thousands of persons in the charitable and penal institutions; salaries are increased an average of a shade less than 20 per cent. The $15,000,000 addition to the total of the legislature of two years ago is easily figured.

Tax Rate 75 Cents or Less.

It was explained tonight that the tax rate might have been sliced 5 cents had it not been for the increase that is authorized for the distributable school funds. The jump from $4,000,000 annually to $6,000,000 annually represents the available cash for such purposes under the 75 cent tax rate.

"There is not the slightest doubt about the tax rate," was the comment of Director of Finance Omar H. Wright after the omnibus bill had been examined tonight.

"It will be not greater than 75 cents, the present rate, and there is some chance that it will be less."

The tax levy bill calls for $16,000,000 annually for the general fund and $6,000,000 annually for the school fund. The general fund figure is the same as that of two years ago. This may be reduced to $12,000,000 by the passage of the administration bills for taxes against corporations and insurance companies.

Appropriations Advised.

The appropriations bills, as they now stand, most of which have been passed, carry the following approximate figures:

Omnibus	$28,000,000
Charitables and penals	18,500,000
State officers' salaries	3,200,000
University of Illinois	5,000,000
Normal schools	1,500,000
Emergency charitables	1,610,000
New Joliet prison	1,285,000
State fair	500,000
Constitutional convention	500,000
Armories	300,000
U. of I. medical school	300,000
Few children's surgical institution	200,000
General assembly	150,000
Tubercular cattle	100,000
Rock crusher at Chester prison	125,000
Awards court of claims	200,000
Institution fire losses	100,000
Paving	50,000
Minor appropriations bills	200,000
Approximate total	61,820,000

State Department Group.

Grouped under the headings of the respective offices and departments to which the appropriations are made the omnibus bill is diagnosed as follows:

Governor	$ 137,675
Lieutenant governor	18,000
Secretary of state	1,358,460
State auditor	552,420
Treasurer	275,100
Superintendent public instruction	135,300
Attorney general	747,000
Supreme and Appellate courts	245,498
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.
Finance	575,240
Agriculture	1,243,600
Labor	916,756
Mines	203,455
Public works	1,969,347
Public welfare	1,437,780
Public health	625,750
Trade and commerce	1,677,920
Registration	501,319
Total (executive department)	$ 9,151,167
Adjutant general	997,924
Civil service commission	68,450
Legislative reference bureau	93,450
State libraries	119,140
Vocational education	400,639
Centennial building	900,000
Education defective children	388,560
Award industrial commission	25,000
Repairs state capitol	80,000
Reappropriations	205,050
Claims	7,699
Pasting	4,553
Uniform laws commission	2,300
52d general assembly	10,000
Distribute school fund	12,000,000
Conveying prisoners	281,000
State board equalization	20,400
Total	$28,225,587

Some Departures.

The important additions to the omnibus bill, as compared with that of the last session, include the $4,000,000 added to the school distributable fund, a $1,000,000 revolving fund that is to be used as a basis for the manufacturing plants located within the penal and reformatory institutions, and a $500,000 fund provided as an emergency proposition for any department of state government that may need ready cash during the recess of the legislature. This applies to the national guard, the state institutions, flood or fire. The revolving fund and the reserve fund are innovations.

Enforcement of the new blue sky and the corporation laws adds a half million to the necessities of the secretary of state's office. Enforcement of the private banks acts puts on $150,000 in the state auditor's office. Because of federal requirements, $150,000 is necessary in the state grain inspection department in Chicago.

The attorney general, required to conduct several investigations, gets an $80,000 increase.

In 1917 the expenses of the military department were carried in a separate bill. This time the war department is included in the omnibus for nearly $1,000,000. This is considerably less than the military appropriation of 1917.

Police Say Professor's Son Confesses He Is Mysterious Vandal.

Chester Frae

Three times within the last month the home of Prof. Chester Frae, 5847 Wentworth avenue, has been wrecked. Carpets and furniture have been ruined, dishes smashed and food smeared about the flat.

It happened for the last time yesterday, the police say for they believe they have caught the vandal—the professor's young son, Walter, age 10 years.

After a grilling by Lieut. Michael W. Delaney and the boy's parents, the youngster owned up to the fact that he was responsible for the deeds of destruction. A piece of pie slammed against a picture gave the clew—a small boy's finger print.

When his mother returned home yesterday she found the lad tied to the bed post. The lashing, however, appeared to be amateurish. Last Saturday, when the home was wrecked for the second time, he was found in a clothes closet with his pet dog Buster.

"I can't believe Wallie did it," Mrs. Frae said. "He may have confessed because they frightened him."

Walter will be taken to the psychopathic hospital for examination as to his sanity, today.

NEXT WEEK MAY WIND UP SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

Chicago Bond Bills Chief Obstacle to Early Adjournment.

BY E. O. PHILLIPS.

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—The Illinois legislature on a bare chance may finish its business late Saturday night or early Sunday morning of next week. The possible obstacle is the Chicago bond bills. If these are found to be O. K. and in shape so that they can be passed by the senate Tuesday the house will buckle down and work until the latest possible moment on the night of Wednesday.

In any event, Wednesday, June 18, is now considered the ultimate date upon which legislation can be put through that would be effective on July 1.

Offers Bill for Soldier Bonuses.

Returned soldiers, sailors, and marines of Illinois will receive $50 each from the state if a bill offered in the lower branch of the assembly is approved. The bill authorizes the state treasurer and director of fiance, with the approval of the government, to issue bonds or notes for $15,000,000 for the payment of soldiers.

Representative Perkins also has a bill pending before the appropriations committee for $500,000 for the relief of persons dependent upon soldiers.

Representative Miller of Champaign introduced the bill which provides for the appointment of a civil service director at a salary of $7,000, and an assistant. The new measure is said to have the backing of civil service supporters and is considered a compromise measure for the Sonneman bill, which is for the repeal of the state commission.

Bills Passed by House.

The following bills were passed by the house today:

H. B. 555—Young—Regulating the study and practice of dental hygiene.

H. B. 285—Bailey—Appropriating $1,200 for the Mount Olive cemetery at Chicago for the care of graves of deceased soldiers.

H. B. 461—Clark—Providing for the creation, setting aside, formation and disbursement of a park employes' annuity and benefit fund.

UNFAITHFUL, HE LEAVES FATE TO WIFE; DIVORCE

Albert D. Keil, while he was in the army, wrote home to his wife, Eva, 1009 North Long avenue, admitting he had been unfaithful and left it all to her.

"I am willing to leave my fate in your hands," he said, "because I know that whatever might be the finding of others, your decision would be justice itself. For I have only known you as just."

He's a salesman for a piano concern now; and yesterday Mrs. Keil obtained a divorce, alimony of $20 a week, and the custody of the two children.

Wallace M. Brewer, 4642 Calumet avenue, who recently came back from France, was given a divorce by Judge Hopkins. His wife, Nellie, had been arrested with Harold Thomas, he said.

SPRINGFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

BY E. O. PHILLIPS.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 6.

THE omnibus appropriations bill—that which cares for the maintenance of state government—was reported to the house today, marking the last gasp of the legislative session. The omnibus bill carries $28,000,000 as against $18,000,000 in the similar bill of two years ago.

AT the same time, the revenue bill was introduced that, in effect establishes the state tax rate for the next two years. While the total of appropriations by the dying legislature will jump from $46,000,000 to nearly $62,000,000 there will be no increase in the state tax rate. Administration financial experts express utmost confidence that the state tax rate will remain at 75 cents, despite the increased cost of maintenance of the state's wards, and the extensive building and maintenance program that has been initiated by the administration.

THE distributable fund for the public schools, raised by direct taxation, is increased from the present $4,000,000 annually to $6,000,000. The original proposition was that the annual school fund be made $10,000,000. The senate had provided for $8,000,000 in its bill. The $6,000,000 provision, included in the omnibus bill, unquestionably is the figure upon which Gov. Lowden stands and it will be the final action of the legislature. The distributable fund is returned to the school districts on per capita basis, Chicago faring well in the final distribution.

DIRECTOR OF FINANCE OMAR H. WRIGHT makes the statement that there will be a $9,000,000 cash balance in the state treasury on July 1, due largely to the successful workout of the new administrative code; that there are no deficits in any department; and that the state will enter on July 1, upon a cash basis with relation to all of its activities.

THE legislature is about ready to quit business. If the Chicago bond bills were disposed of, the chances are good that the session would wind up Saturday night of next week. Such possibility exists anyhow. It is a certainty that the finish will come not later than Wednesday or Thursday of the following week.

FORMER SENATOR JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS in a signed statement published this afternoon in Springfield intimates that Illinois will have a favorite son for the Democratic presidential nomination next year. "Who is the candidate?" is the question heard tonight.

DIES WHILE SERVING LUNCH.

While serving luncheon in her rooming house, 335 East Thirtieth street, yesterday, Mrs. Sadie Hollister, 60 years old, was taken suddenly ill and died soon afterward, supposedly of heart disease.

MORE TAXES.

Some citizens will perhaps feel that such organizations as the Civic Federation are inclined to place too much emphasis on the mere effort to keep taxes down, without in every case giving sufficient regard to the needs of the community. But when we consider the natural tendency of legislative bodies to spend more and more money and a consequent tendency to increase taxes we must realize that the organizations in question are performing a real service.

A recent bulletin issued by the Civic Federation shows that the total increases for each $100 assessed valuation now pending at Springfield aggregate $2.43. In other words, a man owning a $4,000 home would have to pay about $80.70 in taxes instead of $54.20 as at present.

We agree with the Civic Federation that the increases in prices and wages do not seem to justify so large an advance in taxes. "The drive on the part of those interested in spending public funds," says the federation, "is stronger now than at any previous time, and prompt action on the part of the public is necessary to offset it."

The federation objects to a number of increases on the ground that they will raise more funds than are necessary. In particular the federation does not believe that Chicago needs a rate of $2.35 or even $2.25, as it was fixed in the house. We believe it is important not to restrict any governmental agency unduly at the present time, but it is also important when the burden of war taxation falls so heavily on the country to keep other taxes as low as consistently possible. It is the duty of the legislature to examine each proposal with these ideas in mind.

THE NEWER DISTINCTION.

We quote first, then comment, upon the following, taken from the society page:

"When questioned about the marriage of her daughter last night, Mrs. Drexel made this statement:

"'Mr. and Mrs. Drexel have not had the pleasure of meeting Capt. Barrett and know nothing whatever about him. Our daughter's wedding is, therefore, a surprise and a shock to us.'"

The details of the wedding are immaterial here. It is sufficient to say that Capt. William Barrett was in the army aviation service and was wounded several times in France. It is important to say that Mr. and Mrs. Drexel are of "distinguished New York, Philadelphia, and Newport society"; important because there is something to be said of Newport society which is known, and of wounded aviation captains who are "unknown."

Newport's day was the day of womanly men and undisciplined women; men of wine agent instincts and affiliation and powder puff characters; parasitic women. Newport represented the culture one pays for; wine out of schooners and evening clothes at noon; provincial, tattling, and intolerant.

Mrs. Drexel need not concern herself about the aviation captain of whom she "knows absolutely nothing." He is not from Newport. And they are few from Newport who carry Flanders' wounds. The Newport smart aleck is not with us; was not with us in war; in peace should rred aside by heavy treading he-men.

There is a new distinction. And Mrs. Drexel has a most fortunate family connection with it. It is represented by the man who fought for his country.

THE LOWEST DEPTH.

A dispatch from Fort Leavenworth describing the activities of William D. Haywood and other I. W. W.s now confined there says "the average criminal hates an I. W. W. and a conscientious objector." We think there could hardly be a more striking commentary on the repugnance with which the "C. O." and the I. W. W. are regarded in America. When even our criminals look upon them as traitors there is not much more to be said. After all the average criminal is less subversive of civilization, and he has a right to think there are depths to which he has not fallen.

"SOLDIER, REST YOUR HAT."

Those most directly concerned with the unemployment situation are, quite naturally, given to more or less speculation on the state of the returned soldiers. Many of them, they say, lack jobs; should be at work.

We presume that many of them do lack jobs; and we also presume that many of them have not troubled themselves much about jobs; will not trouble themselves until they get good and ready.

The fact is the soldiers have just got finished with jobs that were not only steady in an astonishing degree but singularly irksome. They have lived under discipline such as no civil employment imposes. Early rising, which is the very antithesis of luxury to most human beings, has been the soldier's daily nemesis. For two years, more or less, the soldier's job has been so steady that the mere mention of a steady job is enough to make him flinch.

We are reminded of an ancient wheeze concerning a laborer who, after responding to a delirious alarm clock at 5 a. m. for years untold, fell heir to a fortune, and was questioned as to his most cherished ambition.

"I'll hire a flunkey," said he, "to call me at 5 in the morning so I can tell him to go to hell."

Smile leniently if the soldier after two years of daybreak reveilles nourishes in his bosom the secret delight of throwing the alarm clock out of the window that he may loll and grunt luxuriously in overtime somnolence.

The soldier is surely entitled to a vacation. Many are unable to take it; must hurry back to the job. But those who are able and feel the desire for "sort of visiting around," seeing old familiar places and persons, renewing old associations, spinning yarns with comrades, and filling their systems with the feel of home; to these we say "Go to it." We do not believe this sort of unemployment seriously affects the general industrial situation. It will not degenerate into chronic loafing in enough cases to hurt.

"WHO'S GOT THE TREATY?"

There seems to be a new game at Washington—"Treaty, treaty, who's got the treaty?"

We are sure it's unique. We do not think any previous administration can lay claim to it—or would.

The game is founded on the simple principle known as "open covenants, openly arrived at," and the object is to try to keep the document, which the senators (the ins) will soon be asked to sign, out of their hands as long as possible while the outs are reading it.

The game has not been taken by the senators in the spirit intended, we are sure, by its inventors. Mr. Lodge and others are angry because the document is not given them at once. Mr. Hitchcock is apparently of opinion that it is little short of treason and sacrilege to read a copy of the document until Mr. Wilson returns and tells us what it means, although everybody with spare change in Germany is said to be reading it, to say nothing of a few favored readers in our own country.

The situation, we believe, has no precedent in our history. But, as we know, Mr. Wilson has small respect for precedents. In any case his intention has been clear. The first draft of the covenant, he declared, must be accepted as drawn. It must not be amended. It was amended nevertheless and incorporated in the treaty of peace, the longest in history. That treaty, it has been announced, could not be materially modified. Perhaps it will not be. Perhaps it will be. But meanwhile Mr. Wilson does not propose to have it studied by the senate, the press, or the public. We are to wait patiently. When it arrives the pressure to approve will be greater than now. The time in which to study and decide will be shorter. We shall be told all Europe, hanging over chaos, awaits our assent.

In such circumstances the senate will be bombarded by furious demands for instant ratification. A calm discussion of the treaty will be almost impossible. And yet this document presents perhaps the most fateful decision in the life of the American people.

We have a notion the American people would like the senate to have time to study such a document. We think the American people would like to see it and to hear a full discussion of its terms. Patriotic Americans without prejudging the treaty will at any rate hope that America will refuse to be hurried into its acceptance and will give full consideration to all its terms and implications, no matter what the pressure may be for early peace. We have a right to consider our own safety and welfare first and foremost as every other nation is doing most conspicuously.

SYNDICALISM AND "EMANCIPATION."

The great object of the "one big union," we gather from ...dian dispatches, is primarily to establish the right of collective bargaining and ultimately to set u... a dictatorship of the proletariat, or what in the parlance amounts to the same thing, a soviet form of government. In a word it is proposed by these means to "emancipate the working class."

Now it is easy to convince nearly any one, whatever his social or economic position, that he is oppressed. The workman is not unique in this respect. Every one knows employers who think they are oppressed by the demands of their men, housewives who insist they are oppressed by their servants and tradesmen, college students who know they are oppressed by their teachers, and so on. There are some human beings who are oppressed by the mere thought of living.

The soil is therefore always fertile for propaganda that promises emancipation. The desire for liberation, moreover, is so strong that great groups of mankind lose their sense of values; they grasp at reforms that prove even more oppressive than the conditions from which they seek to escape.

We are inclined to think this is precisely what is happening in Canada. If we do not entirely misunderstand the purposes and methods of the leaders of the movement for a single union it will, if it proves successful, not only destroy the existing liberties of the so-called middle classes, but of the workingmen themselves.

One big union necessarily means a concentration of all authority in the hands of some central committee or group of leaders. This centralization of power may result in a benevolent despotism, but it nevertheless will be a despotism and subject to all the abuses of a despotism.

Editorial of the Day

COAL AND WAGES.

[Saturday Evening Post.

Coal was long an important item in British foreign trade. It was a good business getter. The only important raw material that England sent out in bulk, it played a part in trade strategy. A ship that brought a cargo to the British isles could count on a cargo of coal outbound. War of course radically interfered. From 1913 to 1918 production of coal fell off one-fifth and exports declined considerably more than half. Recently England has been disturbed by our inroads into her coal trade. In 1917 British exports of coal to South America were only 11 per cent of what they were in 1913, and in the same time American exports of coal to the same ports increased nearly fivefold.

British miners now demand a further increase of 2 shillings a day in wages, a six hour workday, and nationalization of the mines, or government ownership. By decreasing the output and increasing the cost, that would most likely stop exports of coal altogether. The price to domestic consumers could be raised or a deficit on the operation of the mines could be paid out of the national treasury.

But England must import many things—the larger part of her food, and raw materials for her factories. Before the war she partly paid for the imports by exporting coal. She is paying for imports now with I O U's—which cannot last indefinitely. Finally she can pay only by producing goods at a price that foreign markets will pay. One or two particular industries—the railroads or the coal mines—might be operated indefinitely by the government at a deficit to be covered by taxation, but with many industries in that position England would have nothing with which to buy foreign food. Theorizing socialism recognizes no limit beyond which shorter hours and higher wages cannot go; but the limit is there.

VERY LIKELY.

Perhaps the future historian will refer to this period of American history as "government by cablegram."

ACROSS THE GULF OF TIME.

(From "Religio Grammatici: The Religion of a Man of Letters," Gilbert Murray.)

The Philistine, the vulgarian, the great sophist, the passer of base coin for true, he is all about us and, worse, he has his outposts inside us, persecuting our peace, spoiling our sight, confusing our values, making a man's self seem greater than the race and the present thing more important than the eternal. From him and his influence we find our escape by means of the grammata into that calm world of theirs, where stridency and clamour are forgotten in the ancient stillness, where the strong iron is long since rusted, and the rocks of granite broken into dust, but the great things of the human spirit still shine like stars pointing man's way onward to the great triumph or the great tragedy; and even the little things, the beloved and tender and funny and familiar things, beckon across gulfs of death and change with a magic poignancy, the old things that our dead leaders and forefathers loved, viva adhuc et desiderio pulcriora.

STAMPING OUT MALARIA.

FOR almost two years certain communities located in the vicinity of army camps have been virtually free from mosquitoes and malaria. Now that the army camps have been discontinued the question arises—will the old malaria and mosquito conditions be reëstablished.

Another question is—will malarial communities where there were no military camps make themselves malaria and mosquito free now that the possibilities have been proven?

Mr. Le Prince, who won his spurs at Panama, tells us that in no extra-cantonment zone where they were given a chance did they find it impossible or even very difficult to control malaria. Furthermore, it was not expensive. Successful malaria control work was done in forty-three separate areas located in fifteen states in addition to the areas of the cantonments themselves. Altogether about 1,200 square miles were made virtually mosquito and malaria free. A civil population of 1,750,000 was protected as was a military population of 800,000.

So far as the extent of operations was concerned this was a larger task than that presented by the canal zone. I do not suppose the number of people there ever exceeded 100,000.

The commanding medical officers report that the soldiers and sailors were virtually free from malaria contracted after entering the army and navy and complaints of mosquitoes were rare. The reports that come from the civilian communities—mayors, physicians, large employers of labor, and from the people themselves—are almost as satisfactory.

The cost of doing the work was less than the cost of screens under the old method, to say nothing of the cost of illness. Naturally, when Le Prince was in charge, the method chosen for malaria control was drainage and oiling.

At Wilmington, N. C., there were old rice fields and a large shallow lake virtually within the town limits.

At Chattanooga holes were bored deep into the underlying limestone. Stagnant water was drained into the holes and permitted to soak into the subsoil.

Near Oglethorpe an under water saw was used to remove logs in the bed of a lake.

Near Nashville it was sometimes a question of ditches and sometimes of oiling.

Near Macon, Ga., the feeder stream for six lakes was diverted into a river and ditching was done with a steam shovel.

Near Memphis it was a question of removing log and drift jams and cleaning out a creek bed.

Near Americus, Ga., the work was of about the same character.

Near Jacksonville they used dynamite for ditching. Likewise blasting was made use of near Hattiesburg.

Near Montgomery mule drawn plows dug ditches at a cost of about $55 a mile.

Near Camp Pike some of the stream beds contained large bowlders.

In Texas much of the mosquito breeding was found to be in water holes necessary as water supplies for stock in the dry season.

It will be seen that the problems varied greatly and some of them were almost as difficult as those found in Panama. And yet the problems were satisfactorily solved at an expense of about $1.80 an acre for the area controlled. So trifling an expenditure has almost rid the gulf coast country from New Orleans to Mobile of malaria mosquitoes, according to Le Prince. He says $1.17 an acre spent on the land near Camp Upton would double the value of property in that section.

SWALLOWING GLASS.

O. S. writes: "1. What are the results of a person swallowing three or four small pieces of glass when drinking a glass of water in which there was some broken glass?

"2. Would small pieces of glass be noticed when passing through the throat by scraping or cutting the linings?

"3. If ill effects necessarily follow, how are they first noticeable and how soon thereafter would the effects become known, or should there not be any bad effect, how long would it be before all possibility of ill effects is over and the glass passed through the system?

"I drank some water from a glass and discovered a lot of broken glass in the bottom which I think I stopped before it entered my mouth, but am not certain whether or not I swallowed some."

REPLY.

The chances are good that no trouble will result. There is a good deal of evidence that pieces of glass can be swallowed without doing harm. The probability is that the glass will pass within forty-eight hours. When harm results it may manifest itself by the passage of blood, by pain, or by symptoms of perforation of the intestine.

HARD PULSE.

H. O. T. writes: "1. What does a hard pulse indicate? When I lie down my pulse can be felt in my head, sometimes to the point of discomfort and causing insomnia.

"2. Can t. b. laryngitis be cured? If so, what is the treatment?

"3. What are the symptoms of heart trouble?"

REPLY.

1. It may be caused by goiter or heart trouble or chronic tobacco poisoning.

2. Yes. However, it is a difficult disease to cure and failure often results. I think the best treatment is heliotherapy. In this treatment sunlight is thrown into the throat by the use of metallic mirrors.

3. Shortness of breath, rapid pulse, irregular pulse, bounding pulse, swelling of the ankles are among the symptoms of heart disease.

Milford, Ill., June 3.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—When sending for the $60 bonus and the service button, is it necessary to send the discharge papers or duplicate? Will you give me the address where one sends for the button and the bonus? E. L. W.

Is there no law about pigs being kept in the city? COMPLAINER.

An investigation was made by an inspector from this department, as a result of which a notice was served on the tenant to remove manure from box and barn, screen, clean, and disinfect stable and manure box, limewash walls and ceiling of stable, and remove hogs from stable. WILL BE A LIEN ON REAL ESTATE.

Garrison, Ia., May 31.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A man dies and his estate is settled by an administrator. After the estate is closed and the administrator is discharged it is discovered that taxes of $25 remain unpaid. The property was assessed in March, 1918, and taxes were due Jan. 1, 1919, and the administrator's final report approved in January or February, 1919, the whole transaction being in the same county and under jurisdiction of the same court. Does the county now have any claim against the heirs for the collection of the unpaid taxes? READER.

If it is a real estate tax it will be a lien on the land in the hands of the heirs. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WILL HAVE TO WAIT A YEAR.

Chicago, June 1.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband left home three years ago in April and the court allowed me separate maintenance at the time, which was in Nebraska. VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

As but limited space can be given letters in this department, writers must confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Unless they give us their full names and addresses their letters will not be considered. No manuscript will be returned unless the writer sends postage for that purpose.

THE OLD FIRST CAVALRY.

Chicago, June 6.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have been interested in the First Cavalry Veteran corps and also in the Ex-Officers' association of the First cavalry. These two organizations are made up of men who formerly belonged to the First cavalry, Illinois national guard. The men who were connected with that organization, either as officers or as men, have become widely scattered in the present war, but would, I am sure, enjoy getting together again very much.

In many instances, the old First cavalry men are officers in other organizations, some in organizations of other cities, and quite often in detached units, as aviation and tank corps, and will receive no welcome home from their old friends, and will only have a chance casually to meet their old friends of the First cavalry.

We are now anxious to get an up to date roster of the men, both those who served in the present war and those who did not. We request that all former members of the First cavalry should make known their names, present city address, and their troop in the First cavalry.

Maj. Alsip has endeavored to secure a complete list of the men, and we have a partial list, but the job is hopeless except with the broad publicity that could be secured through the assistance of your paper. PAUL O'DONNELL, Merchants' Loan and Trust building.

THE IRISH MUDDLE.

Chicago, June 5.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The Irish question is so vexed and complicated even to the friends of the Irish cause that it is a great pleasure to read such a cool and dispassionate discussion of that subject as your editorial, "America and the Irish Muddle," in THE TRIBUNE of this morning. However, all dire forebodings of trouble for America arising out of the passionate desire and determination of Irish-Americans to get Ireland justice from England should be forever banished from the minds of Americans. The Irish contingent to our population is so intensely American that it would at once spring, a sif one man, to become the bodyguard of this republic to defend it from impending danger whether that danger was from domestic violence or foreign foe. There is no attenuation in the Irish-American's American patriotism because of his efforts for Ireland. All Americans believe in fair play, and to tamely submit to national injustice and degradation in Ireland would be cowardice and a violation of every law, human and divine.

When Gladstone took up the Irish cause and carried through the home rule bill England should then have put it in operation. Had she done so the relations of the peoples of the two islands would be friendly and cordial and Ireland would be today as loyal to the British empire as Illinois is to our national union.

The Irish question is a world question and the persistent obstinacy of England in settling it should bring it before the league of nations for settlement. But, as your editorial truly says, let us hope the best judgment of the people of England and Ireland will yet prevail in bringing about a union of the two countries under the leadership of such constructive statesmen as Sir Horace Plunkett, who has already done so much. P. T. BARRY.

THE CLOSE MOUTHED GENERAL STAFF.

CAMP ROCHAMBEAU, France, May 14.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—As a reader of your valuable paper since the last ten years, and still continuing to read same while I am in France, allow me to express my little kick. I am thoroughly convinced that the general staff knows the approximate sailing date of every outfit in France.

If a date could be given the boys in France they would be in a position to help themselves more than any one could help them. We over here often read that many discharged soldiers are walking the streets looking for a job. Is there any wonder, when they have no time to apply for a job after they are advised they can go home? Consequently, that must be looked after upon their arrival. Suppose our outfit was to sail in June, 1919, and we knew it, we could each walk into a job.

If we knew we were going we would get busy and our prospective employer would listen to us if we could tell him something definite. And I think it would be much better than saying we have no idea when we will get home.

Or suppose our outfit was booked to sail in June, 1924. Would it not be better for us and the folks back home to know it? Why can't this suspense be brought to an end? I have a sweetheart back home in dear old Chicago who is in suspense and anxious to know as to when I am coming home. And I over here am as anxious to know when I will be back in God's country with those who are wishing and praying daily for my return. Will I be able to wear my straw hat this summer marching down with my dear girl on Michigan avenue?

I am sure the soldier is worthy of the knowledge and he should be informed.

PRIVATE JOSEPH M. STRIEBERT, A. P. O. 717, Q. M. C. Detach.

WELCOME HOME HERO CHAPLAIN OF 6TH MARINES

Lieut. Darche Is Modest About His Feats; Won Two Medals.

He's not so tall and he's shy—probably the Rev. Harris A. Darche is aware of it. But the bit of bright red ribbon of the Legion of Honor and the ribbon next to it, with the two palms, tell of the heights of valor and the boldness of courage.

LIEUT. HARRIS A. DARCHE

If you want further identification of Lieut. Darche, page the 6th regiment of marines. Of course they are in Germany, but they know the fighting chaplain, who has just reached Chicago. They know him for the valor he displayed, the courage he inspired —the sacraments he said while under fire, the dead he buried at Belleau Wood while a machine gun sprayed—in fact, the 6th marines know him mighty well.

Col. Harry Lee, their commanding officer, wrote: "Chaplain Darche displayed extraordinary heroism many times and an absolute disregard of danger while administering to and alleviating others."

Friends of Lieut. Darche gather to welcome him at Frontenac hall tomorrow night. Before entering the war he was curate at Notre Dame, Sibley street and Vernon Park place. He is a graduate of Saint Viator's, was born in Bourbonnais, Ill., thirty years ago. His brother, Philip A. Darche, lives at 2745 Giddings street.

Gassed at Soissons.

The 6th marines reached France early in 1918, were brigaded with the 2d division, and entered the trenches in March 17. Lieut. Darche saw action enough until July 18 when he was gassed at Soissons after Belleau Wood was history. After a period in the hospital he was back with the marines when they crossed the Meuse the morning of the armistice. Prior to all that he was reported dead in war dispatches of June 8.

"Of course, people say the marines are the best advertised," Lieut. Darche said. "And no doubt they are, but there were so few of them. If their deeds were given special mention among all the rest, surely it was deserved. How well they fought at Belleau Wood, Chateau Thierry, and at Soissons the world can never realize. But they made the boche give way. They fell in the wheat fields, but the others kept on.

When They Struck Hardest.

"Why, it was just a year ago today that they struck hardest and kept going forward. The boche kept going backward. It was a year ago today, too, that Floyd Gibbons, THE TRIBUNE correspondent, was wounded as he went over with the first waves of the marines at Chateau Thierry.

"Col. Lee has never had the credit due him. From the moment Col. Catlin was wounded, a few days after the start of the battle, it was Col. Lee's direction that made of the marines the things they were.

Knew "Go Forward" Only.

"To what else do I give credit among the marines? Their spirit. They did not know any other way to fight than to go forward and the world wonders at Belleau Wood and their accomplishment there.

"Do not say, please, that I was foolhardy and administered to the wounded and dying under fire when I really was at my place in the first aid station. To be sure, my orderly and I were burying dead and were under fire and kept at it, but it was because it was duty and we were out there."

URGE VACATIONS FOR FIREMEN.

Over the protest of fire department authorities the city council committee on schools, civil and civil service yesterday recommended the passage an ordinance giving each member of the fire department a fifteen days' vacation with pay every year.

CITIZENS STUDY BOYS IN CRIME AT FIRST HAND

Henry P. Crowell Spends Day on Bench with Judge Trude.

Instead of gaining information through reading or listening to addresses on the waywardness of youthful derelicts who are on the way to the penitentiaries from the house of correction, juvenile homes, and other reformatories, leading citizens who have become identified with the crime and kindred commissions now are gaining their knowledge at first hand. With Henry P. Crowell of the Chicago Association of Commerce crime committee leading the way, they have begun to make their appearance with the presiding judges in the Boys', Juvenile, and other branches of the criminal and quasi-criminal courts.

Mr. Crowell passed the greater part of yesterday sitting at the right hand of Judge Daniel P. Trude of the Boys' branch of the Municipal court, and was given his first lesson concerning the operations of refractory youth.

Boy in Court Fifteen Times.

One exhibit, only 17 years old, was found to have made fifteen appearances in the Juvenile court.

"Judge Trude, I can see that something must be done to turn these boys in the right direction," was Mr. Crowell's remark as he left the bench, accompanied by Dr. Arthur P. Reynolds.

In this connection it is known that the Association of Commerce crime committee is keeping a close watch on all cases heard in the courts referred to, and one of these days a smashing report is expected—one drawn without stint and in which there will be no mincing of words.

Friction Between Officials.

No little concern is felt because of the growing friction between the state welfare bureau and the officials of the Municipal court charged with the administration of the specialized branches. The state bureau does not like the psychopathic bureau in operation as a part of the Municipal court system. The alienists supporting each profess to believe that the other is crazy.

"'The state crowd' says Dr. Hickson, in charge of the municipal psychopathic laboratory, 'is crazy'; so also is Chief Justice Olson crazy, and I, too, am a nut," said Judge Trude yesterday. "All right. If I am crazy I am becoming more crazy with each passing day, for I know what the needs are and of the aid my court receives from the laboratory. I am strong for a proper vocational training farm colony, to which boys who are mental defectives may be sent and taught a vocation that will tend to show them the way to right living."

RUNAWAY BRIDE HALED TO COURT

Elopement? O, nonsense. Of course Martin L. Enright of Milwaukee went to Belvidere with Mrs. Violet Porter two days after she was married, but he was only acting as a big brother, and helping her in arranging for an annulment.

His own atttorney, William S. McNamara, admitted as much yesterday in the Court of Domestic Relations. William S. Porter, 4243 Calumet avenue, the husband, was skeptical, however; and so was Assistant State's Attorney Rosinia.

Mrs. Porter said she didn't care for her husband; had, in fact, married him against her wishes. Enright was best man at the wedding. He was an employé of Porter, and now he's lost his job. He says he gave Violet $11, and she pawned the diamond ring her husband had given her, realizing $100. The case was continued until Monday, when the bride's mother, Mrs. Cecile La Bounty, will testify.

ALDERMAN ASKS 'SCOTLAND YARD' FOR CHICAGO

Detective Bureau Now Lacks Morale; Needs Rehabilitation."

Chicago's detective bureau may become a second "Scotland Yard" if a suggestion made yesterday by Ald. Walter P. Steffen, chairman of the city council committee on police, is carried out.

Ald. Steffen recommended a complete rehabilitation of the existing bureau. He said its organization ought to be changed from stem to stern and placed on a footing patterned after the London bureau.

"There seems to be a lack of morale in our bureau," Ald. Steffen said. "What we seem to need is a complete rehabilitation of the existing methods of the bureau. If the 'Scotland Yard' plan is better than ours, let's have it."

Ask Policemen About Work.

The committee questioned several policemen during the day regarding the routine work of members of the department.

Robert E. Cantwell, an attorney, whose name was mentioned Thursday before the committee, wrote a letter to the committee protesting against the use of his name. Part of his letter read:

"Does your honorable committee think they have a right to slander and libel a taxpayer like a recent grand jury thought they could libel judges?

"Does your committee want a client to furnish a certificate of good moral character to the lawyer he employs? Why not forbid the merchants of the city to furnish meat, bread, and necessities of life to persons who are suspected of crime?

"Did your committee know that 119 men and women have been made to confess to crimes they did not commit, and were legally tried and executed by law, and that the persons supposed to be dead turned up to be alive? Does your committee know the history of the writ of habeas corpus, the greatest writ ever granted to free men?

Start on Police Force.

"If your committee had some real lawyers on it you would not make yourself appear like a scarecrow. If you desire to suppress crime in this city start on the police force. Reward the officers for good work, like they do in Scotland Yard, and you will have the most efficient officers come to the front on merit alone, and they can then honestly wear sparkling diamonds in their ties and clothes that are tailor pressed.

"Appoint a committee with some legal minds on it that understand the constitution and laws; send them to the legislature and have the laws changed. Put lawyers in your legal department, instead of politicians, and your committee will not be furnished with dictionary definitions."

EMPLOYES WIN VOICE IN AFFAIRS OF STANDARD OIL

Indiana Workers Will Name Members of New Board.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana yesterday announced the adoption of a plan whereby employés will have a voice in the management of the company's affairs so far as they relate to hours of labor, wages, employment, and working conditions, housing, domestic economies and living conditions, safety, sanitation, and health.

On June 11 there is to be a primary at the Whiting, Ind., Wood River, Ill., and Sugar Creek, Mo., refineries. The employés will have the opportunity of nominating candidates for the office of employés' representatives. The election will be held five days later.

These representatives and representatives of the management will form a joint committee, whose business will be to pass on all matters that may be brought to their attention.

Under the plan a department of industrial relations, under the management of a director, is to be organized. This department will have jurisdiction over all existing and contemplated activities of the company "as they affect the social and industrial well being of employés."

Representatives proving unsatisfactory to the workers may be recalled by a two-thirds vote.

"The right of the employés to fair wages," says the company's statement, "has always been recognized by the company."

NO ONE BLAMED FOR BABY'S DEATH

Little Hu Maxwell died from septicemia following burns, according to a verdict rendered by a jury under Deputy Coroner George Clark yesterday. Three doctors at the Augustana hospital were "too busy" to testify at the inquest, but sent an interne to give the medical report on the death. Coroner Hoffman said last night that he is going to reopen the case today at the request of the father, Selby F. Maxwell.

The child died at the hospital Friday from a scalding received some time ago when it was placed in a bathtub at the Augustana nursery, 2042 Lane court. Sister Alma testified that she put the child in the tub, while she went to attend to another baby.

A nurse told of finding the child screaming in the tub after it had turned on the water. A transfusion of blood was made from the father to the boy, but it failed to save the life.

New Telephone Toll Rates
Now Effective

On January 21, 1919, the Postmaster General established new interstate and intrastate telephone toll rates. The intrastate rates were not charged because of an injunction issued by the Superior Court of Cook County.

The recent decision of the United States Supreme Court empowers the Postmaster General to fix telephone rates, and the intrastate toll rates formerly announced by the Postmaster General will now apply in the state of Illinois.

The basis of charge for all tolls and long distance messages is explained on pages 8 and 9 of the current issue of the telephone directory.

Gravity Test—a Fallacy

Gravity has no more to do with the efficiency of gasoline than a pair of scales has to do with the quality of a pound of butter.

Years ago the gravity test was accepted as a measurement of quality, but the Standard Oil Company, by extensive research work, has exploded this theory.

Buy Red Crown Gasoline

The Standard Oil Company has established that the only true measure of gasoline efficiency lies in the chain of boiling point fractions.

In Red Crown Gasoline the chain is unbroken. It is perfect—the correct range of boiling point fractions for easy starting—for quick get-away—for smooth acceleration—for maximum power.

With Red Crown in your tank you can get out of your motor all the power it was designed to develop.

COMB WEST SIDE FOR 'PAL' OF GANG MURDER VICTIM

Seek to Learn of Recent Associates of Man Hurled from Auto.

A man said to have been a "pal" of Joe Doyle, latest in the series of "gang" murders, is being sought by detectives under Capt. Westbrook. Doyle was shot early yesterday morning and tossed from an auto at Cicero and Potomac avenues.

"The man we are after," Capt. Westbrook said, "should be able to give us information on the recent associates of Doyle. I have sent his description to all west and northwest side stations. I do not care to reveal his identity."

The widow of the murdered man and his two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth McMahon and Mrs. Agnes Nickerson, were quizzed yesterday by the captain. Mrs. McMahon said the last time she had seen her brother was a week ago Saturday. The other sister told of having had dinner with him May 25.

Mrs. Doyle was taken to St. Anne's hospital and formally identified the body as that of her husband.

She told of a life of privation, hard work, and neglect, and yet of a certain affection that existed between them. She has two children, 6 and 8 years old.

Doyle is said to have been a pal of Eddie Wheed, Eddie Fay, Carey, Maroney, and other gunmen who have run afoul of the "gang's" gun play.

TWO MEMBERS OF 131ST WIN BELGIAN CROSS

SERGT. MATTHEW R. THORNYCROFT.

Col. Joseph B. Sanborn has announced awards of the Belgian croix de guerre to two members of the 131st, Sergt. Louis R. Rivers, company B, and Sergt. Matthew R. Thornycroft, company D. The performance of each took place at Chipilly ridge Aug. 9.

Sergt. Thornycroft, as "acting corporal of a Lewis gun squad, notwithstanding that the squad was reduced to three men, attacked simultaneously three German machine guns, capturing the guns and nine prisoners, thereby saving many lives and aiding materially the advance of the company."

Sergt. Rivers, "his platoon having become detached from the remainder of his company, reorganized what was left of the platoon, and with stragglers, both English and American, led them to the objective, consolidated his position, and registered a counter attack."

State Wins Point to Rush Trial of Milk Officials

The state won a victory yesterday in its fight to bring to trial the eight indicted officials of the Milk Producers association.

Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh ruled that the defendants were not entitled to an additional bill of particulars, they already having been granted three such bills by Judge Gridley.

The next question is to decide on the jurist who is to act as trial judge. This probably will be done shortly and the case finally started to trial. It has been pending for over two years.

NEED MORE JOBS TO FIT SOLDIERS, SAYS CAPT. FIELD

Takes Issue with U. S. Agent on the Posts Available.

Capt. Marshall Field, associate director of Chicago's "bureau of justice" for returning soldiers, sailors, and marines, declared war yesterday on the growing public belief that the city has an excess of job opportunities.

Taking issue with Mark L. Crawford, director of the United States employment service, who told THE TRIBUNE that some 3,000 jobs are going begging, Capt. Field declared that such statements are misleading and tend to reduce the general interest in placing fighting men.

"There may be 3,000 jobs open in and about Chicago," he said, "but that does not indicate there are jobs for 3,000 men who are looking for work. We would have clear sailing in placing the war veterans if all we had to do was to gather all of the jobs into a bag and dump a corresponding number of men in after them.

Jobs Must Fit Men.

"You can't send a soldier out to fill an opening for a carpenter when the soldier has never handled a saw. A man who left a desk job to battle mud in Flanders isn't going to leap at the chance to take up a vacant pick and shovel.

"A man I know was complaining recently that his former houseman had returned from the war and refused to take back his old job of cleaning rugs. Now there's one of the 3,000 jobs open today for some soldier who has come home from a year on the battle line!

"Yesterday we put four men on telephones and they called 150 business houses in Chicago in an attempt to rake up clerical jobs for returning fighters. At the end of the campaign just one clerical job was secured. The men waiting for these clerical places, the only places their training fits them for, can't be urged into plowing or carrying mortar.

More Openings Needed.

"This office needs job opportunities. We can handle those 3,000 openings and fill many of the common labor positions, but it is not right to assume that unemployed men in Chicago won't work just because a few jobs are unfilled."

Hangs Himself in Park; Dies After Being Cut Down

James Larson tried to commit suicide by hanging himself last night in Humboldt park. He was still living when found and was cut down. Larson was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where he died a little later. His home was at 1736 North Ridgeway avenue.

'PATRICK'S BOND PERFECTLY GOOD,' FOOTE DECLARES

"I've been United States commissioner thirty-six years and no one ever absconded on a bond I accepted," Commissioner Mark A. Foote declared yesterday at his office in the federal building. "Harry Patrick was released on a good bond and the sum was fixed at $4,000 by the court. There was nothing irregular about it. Defend myself? How can a man defend himself when no charges have been made against him?"

Another day passed at the federal building without the fight against Commissioner Foote getting into court. It was reported Federal Judge George A. Carpenter would be asked by District Attorney Clyne to remove Foote from office.

Patrick last night wired Col. L. G. Nutt, revenue officer, he would arrive in Chicago today to give satisfactory bail. Patrick is in Kansas City, where he told Foote he intended going.

SATURDAY PAGE of BOOK NEWS and REVIEWS Edited by Burton Rascoe

"Winesburg, Ohio"

BY BURTON RASCOE.

COMPARISON of Sherwood Anderson's new book, "WINESBURG, OHIO," and "The Spoon River Anthology" is rather inevitable, possibly so inevitable that it may be questioned whether the analogy is entirely legitimate. The prevailing tone of Mr. Anderson's prose tales and of Mr. Masters' mephitic monologues is gray; both books are concerned with life in small midwestern communities of a couple of decades or so ago; and in each there is a very justifiable recognition of the motivating force of sex in the life of all sentient creatures, among whom is not included, of course, the inert and vegetative organism on an eastern paper who referred to love as portrayed by Mr. Anderson as "nauseous acts."

But to press the likeness further would, I think, lead into the difficulties encountered in the linking of any two quite dissimilar things. The temperaments of the two men are widely at variance and their literary method is no less so. Mr. Masters says, in effect, "Here are human beings for you! What imbecilic, groveling, hopeless vermin they are!" Mr. Anderson says in effect, "Here are human beings of whom I am one. Even our errors, our grossest weaknesses have about them something of tragic beauty. Are we not worthy of your sympathy no less than of your disgust? Isn't it possible that you, too, are one of us —a human being for whom unhappiness means frustrated desire, to whom life is a perturbing mystery, in whom there is a spiritual impulse to be 'good' which is plagued and balked by a natural urgency at times to be otherwise?" Into the soul of Mr. Masters the iron has sunk; he is bitter, reproachful, and removed. In Mr. Anderson there is a fraternal pity and a homely tender feeling of participation in human destiny.

Of course, both Mr. Masters and Mr. Anderson are right and even right is George Moore, who, whatever else may be said of him, has never denied or criticized life, who has always accepted it with a bland, naïve, and joyous intensity. They are right, for life itself is a point of view; and one's enjoyment of life and of literature is dependent upon the catholicity of one's taste, on one's capacity for partaking of and benefiting from points of view differing from one's own.

* *

THAN with "The Spoon River Anthology," it seems to me that a comparison of "Winesburg, Ohio," with the work of the Russians, Chekhov and Dostoievski, is a more seemly one. Unquestionably, Mr. Anderson's book will offend a great number of readers, many of whom are quite willing to admit that Chekhov and Dostoievski, being Russians, are great and significant writers. These people, too, it is likely, are among the numerous disparagers of our native literature who frequently ask why America does not produce writers of the caliber to be found abroad. The answer is that for the most part America does, and in far greater numbers than the reading public is entitled to; for the closer an American approximates the literary excellence of Europe, the more shameless is the native neglect of him.

Mr. Anderson's unified series of stories in "Winesburg, Ohio," possess, actually for Americans not only a higher literary value than any one volume of Chekhov, but an interpretation and revelation of a phase of our national life of far greater importance to us than the stories of Russian life in Chekhov's day can ever be. If I were asked to name a half dozen contemporary indigenous products of American literature for translation abroad, I should name Mr. Anderson's book as one of them. The Russian life that we read about in translations from Chekhov was a thing of the past even before war: it relates to conditions vastly changed even before the fall of Tsarism. The American life Europeans would read about in a translation of the Winesburg stories obtains in a certain degree in every small town throughout the United States at the present time.

* *

MR. ANDERSON has in this book eclipsed the excellence he achieved in his novel, "Windy McPherson's Son." Its form is something of an innovation: he has, with much the continuity of a novel, written a series of complete short stories in which the same characters recur at different times. As a result we have the fluid illusion of life, together with the heightened drama of it, the revelation of character in crucial flashes instead of by arduous development, the selection of incident without the detail that is part of the method of the novel, a group portrait of a community in an interwoven series of vignettes.

It is to Mr. Anderson's artistic credit, too, that he frequently suggests rather than depicts; that he respects the imaginative faculty of his reader by refusing to be explicit where overtones of emotion are already invoked in the reader; that he is selective, indefinite, and provocative instead of explicative, precise, and explanatory. He, one of the most personal and subjective of writers, has in these stories achieved a fine effect of impersonality. His personal ethics or beliefs obtrude, I think, but once, and that in the one unconvincing and manufactured story in the book—the story of the preacher who at night peeped through the window of his study into the bedroom of the pretty school teacher and afterwards delivered impassioned sermons on human frailty and temptation.

* *

THESE stories are practically all concerned chiefly with the sex life of the inhabitants of the Ohio village—of the doctor, the bartender, the school teacher, the young reporter, the hired girl, the bumpkin lad, the village "sport," the woman hater—of every one in this drab community, where there was little incentive to sublimated desire, and where emotion was all the more intense for being defeated and repressed at every turn.

There the rigid old Puritan ethic, to which this country owes at once so much of good and of evil, was an ineradicable and saving instinct and yet an instinct contantly at war with the other instinct for mating; the conflict itself produces drama of an intensely poignant kind, romance of effective and realistic beauty. The awakening of sex in the idealistic youth; the harassing desire for love and companionship that obsessed the lonely school teacher, the simple surrender of the ignorant young girl; all these constantly recurrent incidents of life are told with sympathy, skill, and sincerity.

Mr. Anderson is frequently crude in his employment of English; he has not a nice sense of word values; but he has an intense vision of life; he is a cautious and interpretative observer; and he has recorded here a bit of life which should rank him with the most important contemporary writers in this country. He may not be, as some one called him, the American Dostoievski, but he is the American Sherwood Anderson. [Huebsch.]

* *

KEITH PRESTON'S "Types of Pan" is within easy reach of my reading chair on that shelf of select verse which includes "Bab Ballads," Carolyn Wells' "Nonsense Anthology," J. C. Squire's "Tricks of the Trade," Symonds' "Wine, Women, and Song," Louis Untermeyer's "——And Other Poets," John McClure's "Stag's Hornbook," the Kommersbuch, Taylor's "A Line o' Verse or Two," and other gay, stimulating, and recreative volumes. Preston's is a label which, henceforth, you may bank on: it is good versifying wine, effervescent, refreshing, and good for the cranial vitals.

Here are lively paraphrases from the lively Horace, topical versions of the jovial and bibulous Meleager, modern renditions from Martial, who slung a wicked stylus, and snappy translations from courtly Propertius, and many another Greek and Latin bird who knew the trick of verse. The first item in the volume is, I think, the keenest satire that has appeared upon the more bizarre and exotic extravagances of vers libre. At the same time, since it is written in free verse, and is probably the best single poem in the book, it is a good argument for a verse form the vocabulary and deficiencies of certain practitioners of which it satirizes.

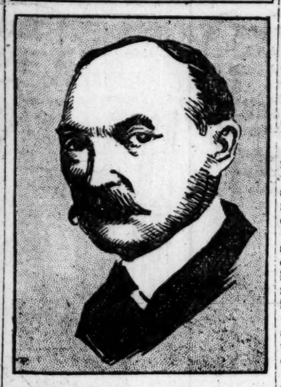

The prose sections I think probably were better omitted, since some of the pieces were out of date before they got into a book; and all of them contain allusions which persons elsewhere, who are unfamiliar with our home talent, will find puzzling if not entirely incomprehensible. This would be a deprivation, though, to a handful of us who like to have between covers these souvenirs of the laughs of yesteryear.

This Preston has an amazing facility in the handling of verse forms; the rondo, the octosyllabic couplet, the Sapphic measure, the quatrain, vers libre, the ballade, the Alexandrine—anything you wish, clean-cut, perfect will he turn it out, and filled with pungent criticism, jolly digs, subtle satire, and mere fun. Nor is his mood always a witty fancy; consider his effective and dignified apostrophe concerning the Pervigilium Veneris in which he employs the haunting refrain of the hymnal.

SANDBURG, WIDDEMER DIVIDE $500 PRIZE

New York, June 6.—(Special.)—It was announced at Columbia university today that the Poetry Society prize of $500 for the best volume of verse published by an American author during the calendar year of 1918 has been divided between "The Old Road to Paradise," by Margaret Widdemer, and "Cornhuskers," by Carl Sandburg of Chicago. The jury consisted of Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale, Richard Burton, and Sara Teasdale.

WHO'S WHO

Thomas Hardy, unquestionably the greatest living figure in English literature, was 79 years old last Monday. He was born at Rockhampton, Dorset, England, on June 2, 1840. He attended public school for six years and was afterward tutored privately. When he was 16 he was apprenticed to an ecclesiastical architect in Dorchester.

Hardy's literary output, excepting only his poetry, is practically all of the first rank. This is largely for the reason that he began writing novels late in life and published no juvenilia. Although he wrote verse as early as 1861, his career was that of an architect until the publication of his first success, "Far from the Madding Crowd," when he was 34 years old. In 1863 he won the medal of the Royal Institute of British Architects for an essay on "Colored Brick and Terra Cotta Architecture," and in the same years won the prize of Architectural Association for design.

* *

In 1874 he married Miss Emma Gifford. She died in 1912. "Far from the Madding Crowd," which appeared anonymously in the Cornhill Magazine, was attributed to George Eliot. Since that time he has devoted himself exclusively to literature. He is probably the wealthiest of English authors, though one of the least popular. He owns a beautiful home designed by himself in Dorchester on an estate purchased, by permission of King Edward when he was Prince of Wales, from the Duchy of Cornwall.

On Feb. 10, 1914, Mr. Hardy, at 74, married Miss Florence Dugdale, age 30, who had been his secretary for ten years. The aged novelist has for a number of years lived in seclusion at his home, "Max Gate." Even his very few intimate friends must see him by appointment, and their requests are frequently denied. During the war he wrote several poems, which, it must be admitted, add nothing to his fame.

KALEIDOSCOPE

BY KATHLEEN CARMAN.

"The Amateur Man," by W. R. Gaut—A remarkable piece of "wet" propaganda in the form of a novel. The bland manner in which all the virtues are incarnated in the upholders of the liquor traffic and every vice and meanness set forth in those who are for prohibition is enough to startle the most philosophic spirit [Duffield & Co.]

* *

"The Hills of Desire," by Richard Aumerle Maher—A pleasant and amusing tale of two children of fortune who fare forth with a horse and wagon in search of health and a home. Fortunately they find both, but it is to be wished that the author had not felt it necessary to take them both to the war before dismissing them with his blessing. [Macmillan.]

* *

"The Romantic Liar," by Lawrence Perry—An inconsequent little tale, based on the old idea of impersonation. [Scribner's.]

* *

"His Wife's Job," by Grace Sartwell Mason—Roger goes to fight for France and leaves his butterfly wife to live with her wealthy married sister. Wife starts out on her own, and after several unsuccessful experiments gets a job in the office where her husband had been employed. Here she makes good and has a new opening ready for the doubting Roger when he returns. A good, honest, timely little tale, though I can't get up the excitement over it that some more enthusiastic spirits display. [Appleton.]

* *

"One of the Y. D.," by Slater Washburn—A simple and undistinguished chronicle of the war, as experienced by a member of the artillery. Of little value unless to those especially interested in that branch of the service. [Houghton Mifflin.]

* *

"Wooden Spoil," by Victor Rousseau. A good vigorous tale of the lumber region near Quebec. The sort of story that most men like to read, because it combines business and adventure with a clean little romance. Good stuff. [Doran.]

Western Fiction and Others

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

CAROLINE Lockhart has a good title and a good theme in "THE FIGHTING SHEPHERDESS." Her scene is the west; her period, a little while ago; her location, a range with Omaha for the market of her sheep, and her place in life that of the bastard daughter of a Jezibel of the ranges and of an absentee gentleman father. The story is stirring, and contains as many perfectly inhuman characters as it ever has been my lot as a reviewer to find gathered together in one stony-hearted company.

They have more than the usual small town meanness, more than the explainable coldness toward a girl who lives alone on the range with men unrelated to her; they possess the acme of inhumanity that permits them to hear a man crying out in his death agony and instead of going out to him, to turn in their beds and go to sleep. The dull cruelty of this particular group of human beings, their coarse greed, and their sycophantic fawning on the heroine when she gets some diamond rings on her fingers and a sealskin coat on her back seems pretty crass.

There are some good scenes in the book, however, and there is a genuine feeling for the open. The book is in its third printing, so apparently people like it the way it is. [Small, Maynard & Co.]

John Jay Chapman has recently been devoting his poetic pen almost exclusively to contemporary themes. He wrote an ode to Roosevelt, composed a poem to Augustus Peabody Gardner, wrote and read lines offered at the New York City hall meeting on Lafayette day, and has a number of poems celebrating our forces by land and sea. These may be read, along with some particularly piquant and satiric songs of another variety, in "SONGS AND POEMS" [Charles Scribner's Sons].

* *

WILLIAM MAC LEOD RAINE'S "A MAN FOUR-SQUARE" [Houghton Mifflin Co.] is a good book to read along with the previously mentioned novel. It tells something of the war between cattlemen and sheepmen and has for a hero a youthful gunman who was reared in the heart of a Kentucky feud and who took naturally to the adventures of the exceedingly wild west—the wildest west there ever was. This infant prodigy in revenge, man-hunting and murder is a fine upstanding penny-dreadful boy. He has eyes of "tempered steel," and when he mounts his horse he does it this way: "He turned indolently, gathered his body suddenly, and vaulted to the saddle. Like a shot he was off into the night." It is, as all movie fans will see at once, glorious stuff for the screen.

And, incidentally, there is a sort of prologue which is much more. It is a little, unforgettably, believable tragedy.

Swinburne's Letters

BY HERBERT CAXTON.

THERE must be something of disappointment in reading Mr. Gosse's edition of the "LETTERS OF ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE" [John Lane] when we compare this correspondence with that of Shelling or even Browning. Mr. Gosse regrets that the collection is incomplete. He mentions a large series of letters to which he could not have access. In these two volumes the editor has made the mistake of imagining that everything the subject wrote was of prime importance to the reader. This is the fatal error of biographers and collectors of noted people's correspondence. They search for every scrap of paper the men have scribbed: the briefest notes, acceptances to luncheons, regrets at not being able to go to dinner—all the little nothings which every one, great or small, sometimes has to write. The public is not interested in such matters; even the writer is not interested in them. Their volumes contain far too much of them. The really important matters might fill one volume but no more.

* *

There are some charming bits in the work showing Swinburne at his amiable best, full of whimsical humor, effervescent and exhilarating, especially in the earlier period before he became embittered by the attacks of th Victorians and withdrew from all but Watts-Dunton and a few others.

Landor was early and late his literary admiration. His search for him and the finding while Swin ..e still quite young, the old lion's first cool reception due to his age and misunderstanding, and Swinburne's persistence which won the old man's confidence is all told with charm and simplicity.

* *

THERE are constant references to the progress he was ma...ng on his longer poems and dramas which was often interrupted from one cause or another. He was an indefatigable polisher of his work, turning this way and that for the proper word, the right cadence, or a finer nuance. He was equally particular about the typography in which his work appeared; a tireless and argus-eyed reader of proof, and little annoyed him more than a slip of syntax by himself or another.

His correspondents [their letters are not given, worse luck] included some of the greatest writers of the day, as well as many lesser lights, and some hardly known to the present generation. Lord Morley, when he was plain John, Lord Houghton, Lady Trevelyn, Lord Lytton, Stéphane Mallarmé, Gosse, of course, are only a few among many whose names appear often in these pages. Among Americans he wrote to were Edmund Clarence Stedman, Paul Hamilton Hayne, and J. H. Ingraham, the latter about Poe, whom he greatly admired.

There are a number of references to what Baudelaire and other Frenchmen had done to popularize Poe in France. To Stedman he wrote the longest letter in this collection, and probably the longest he ever wrote in his life. It is a biography. It is an autobiography with references to his family and had evidently been requested by Stedman.

* *

IN this same letter to Stedman he replies to the latter's "rebuke on the subject of American poetry" saying that while he appreciates Bryant's "Thanatopsis" and Lowell's "Commemoration Ode," "I cannot say that either of them leaves in my ear the echo of a single note of song. It is excellent speech, but if given us as song its first and last duty is to sing. The one is most august meditation, the other a noble expression of deep and grave patriotic feeling on a supreme national occasion, but the thing more necessary, though its way be less noble than these, is the pulse; the fire, the passion of music—the quality of a single, not of a solitary, philosopher or a patriotic orator. Now when Whitman is not speaking bad prose he sings well. Mr. Longfellow has a pretty little pipe of his own, but surely, it is very thin and reedy. Again, whatever may be Mr. Emerson's merits, to talk of his poetry seems to me like talking of a child who has not learned his letters. Even Browning's verse always goes to recognizable tune (I say not to a good one), but in the name of all bagpipes what is the tune of Emerson's?"

Democracy: A Novel of Today
BY SHAW DESMOND

An important novel of the British labor struggle by a brilliant Irish writer.

The New York Sun, in an entire front cover review last week, said in part: "It is the living voice of struggling democracy itself, more potent than programmes, louder than manifestoes, and more interesting than either. And the remarkable thing is that any one, especially an Irishman, could write it and present the case of labor so sympathetically, and at the same time as we say of the covenant." $1.60.

Cricket's antics are probably recorded in the judgment book, to which will bear testimony, the souls of innumerable governesses and teachers, of the scrupulous young man who objected to being eloped with, of the woman whose tryst she kept, of the actor-manager whose favorite play she wrecked, and of the various Percies and Reginalds who will come exhibiting broken hearts. For this Cricket's parents, to whom children were a bore, must atone, and Captain O'Leary will bear witness that she turned in time into a comfortable Cricket, fit for any good man's hearth. Net, $1.50

FRENCH BOOKS

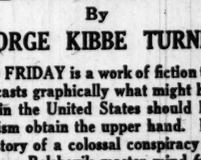

BY A. V. A. VAN DUYM.

"LA VACHE TACHETEE," by Octave Mirbeau. Paris.

THERE is probably no figure in modern French literature who has revealed with more force the evils of modern society than Octave Mirbeau. This volume of stories, sketches, and dialogues was collected from among the numerous ones he has contributed to newspapers.

Some of these tales burn like a white hot iron into the human consciousness. Their diversity, which can only be explained by the imaginative genius of the author and by his great capacity for observing human nature, ranges from the mildly sarcastic to tales of the most poignant misery.

The last story is the description of the diabolic, sadistic in human nature, of a man who pities strong men in distress but in whom weak beings inspire only hatred. This story goes under the title, "Un Homme Sensible." There is a story of a harmless, eccentric woman put pitilessly into a madhouse. There is another sketch of two citizens, brave in theory, but cowards in a crisis. Then there is a conversation between a consumptive and his mother; a piece about two little chimney sweeps, abandoned and freezing to death; and the title story, which is about a man who is locked up for he does not know what, and no one can tell him. He looks pale and miserable, hence he must be a great criminal; hence, away with him to the gallows! . . . These stories are dramatic and interpretative sketches of life by a man with a deep human sympathy.

RED FRIDAY
By GEORGE KIBBE TURNER

RED FRIDAY is a work of fiction that forecasts graphically what might happen in the United States should Bolshevism obtain the upper hand. It is the story of a colossal conspiracy between a Bolshevik master mind from Russia named Plangonev and Stephen Black, a New York secret speculator of great wealth, to overthrow capitalism and place the Bolsheviki in possession of the United States.

Rarely does an imaginative writer deal so effectively with a problem of the hour. Mr. Turner sets forth the perils of Bolshevism in a most startling fashion.

HERZOG'S HOMER IN NINTH INNING WINS FOR BRAVES, 1 TO 0

CUBS HAND GAME TO RIVALS WHEN PLAYS GO WRONG

Gowdy as War Hero Given American Beauties by Other Beauties.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Chicago's Cubs beat themselves yesterday in the opening game of their series with Boston's Braves by a score of 1 to 0.

Charles Herzog will get credit in the official averages for licking the Mitchell tribe with a home run in the ninth inning, manufacturing the only run of the day; but that tally ought to have been discounted early in the scrap.

Our boys made a single, a triple, a single, and an outfield fly in that order in the third innings and failed to score even one run on the combination. If that is not zero in offense, what is?

Hit and Run Goes Wrong.

Deal led that tangled attack with a clean single to center. Apparently he and Killefer got crossed on a hit and run play, for Charley broke for second and Bill let the ball alone. As a result the runner was headed off and chased to death. Killefer then whaled a vicious liner to right center and made three bases on it.

Hendrix scratched a little roller along the first base line and beat the ball to the bag for a single, but Killefer dared not go home on it. Flack hoisted a tall fly to left center. Killefer went in to the pan ahead of Cruise's throw, but left third base ahead of the catch, according to the umps, who allowed the double play when the Braves claimed it. Properly coördinated, that quantity of offense ought to have been good for at least two tallies.

Four Hits Off Hendrix.

As it was played all Claude Hendrix's good pitching was wasted, although he held the Braves to four hits, while the Cubs made five off Dick Rudolph, including a triple and a double.

Buck Herzog's winning home run was considerably flukey. It was a line single to the left of center, and Paskert was running to head it off easily on the first bound, but the pill hit a subterranean globule of some kind, bounded back of Paskert and over his head, rolling to the score board before it stopped. When it came back to the infield Herzog was across the plate. There was nobody on ahead of this horseshoe swat and nobody got on after it.

Only Three Braves to Second.

Herzog was the second Brave who passed second base, and only two others got that far. Maranville singled with one down in the fifth and reached the keystone on Gowdy's out, but was left there. Cruise led in the seventh with a single, was sacrificed to second by Holke, and made third on Blackburne's out. Maranville flied.

Outside of that unfortunate third the Cubs did not have much chance to register against Rudolph. Hollocher kissed a two bagger against the right field wall in the fourth with only one out, but Paskert popped and Merkle rolled the side out. After the fourth round the Mitchells did not get a safe hit and only one man reached first base on a pass.

Rain Mars Gowdy Day.

The weather man nearly prevented the game, and if it had not been Hank Gowdy day the scrap probably would have been called off, as it rained hard around noon time and again just before 3 o'clock. But the hero welcoming stuff was all prepared and it would have been a shame to waste it.

Just before the scrap began Sergt. Gowdy was paged by the announcer and, accompanied by his teammates, approached the plate, while the Cubs, led by Manager Mitchell, marched up from the opposite side followed by a bevy of seventeen young women from the Chicago Normal Physical Training school surrounding a tall and corpulent bunch of American beauty roses. One bunch of beauties then surrounded Gowdy, and when they were ordered to break the sergeant had the other bunch in his arms and bore it in triumph to the Braves' bench.

Notes

Boston again today.

Three 1 to 0 games in succession have been played on the north side lot and the Cubs have won one of them.

In twenty-seven innings the Mitchells have scored one tally and have made eleven hits. The best pitching staff in the world can't cope with that lack of coöperation.

The Cubs played without Kilduff, as he was summoned to his home in Pittsburgh, Kas., by news of the serious illness of his mother.

The crowd was small on account of the rain in advance of the battle, but what there was of it gave Sergt. Gowdy a very glad hand both when he was showered with roses and when he first came to bat in the third inning.

Paskert went back and got a lofty and long wallop from Cruise in the fourth inning. The west wind carried the pill almost to the wall in right center, and after the pinch Dode had to fend himself off the barrier with his fists.

Pick replaced Kilduff at second base and was the victim of a freak play by Maranville in the ninth. Charley popped a little Texas leguer over short and it looked safe, but the rabbit raced back under it and caught the ball as it came down over his upturned face.

Merkle returned to first basing and hogged most of the putouts on the Cub side, getting eighteen out of twenty-seven. One of them was a circus catch of a low foul fly from Herzog in the sixth.

RAIN PREVENTS DUEL OF SOX AND YANKS; GANDIL BACK TODAY

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—It rained in New York this afternoon and the White Sox aren't sore. No game with the New York Yankees was possible, but after the rain was over Manager Gleason of the Chicago outfit got a wire from President Johnson of the American league informing him that Chick Gandil, the Jess Willard of the south side team, would be eligible to play in the game tomorrow.

That means that when the Sox tackle the Yanks tomorrow in the second game of the series they will have their regulars in the lineup and will be fit for a fight—not the kind of a fight that Gandil had, which caused his suspension of five days. They will have all the regulars in the game and Red Faber is slated to pitch, so there is considerable confidence around Sox headquarters tonight.

That was all the news that happened in baseball in New York today, but here is some inside stuff:

Collins Acts as Chauffeur.

Not long after 1 o'clock in the afternoon Eddie E. Collins, who swatted the home run yesterday that won the game for Chicago, blew into the hotel where the Sox are quartered, and, finding most of the athletes had gone to the ball park, he issued invitations at random to ride with him to the ball park. Joe Jenkins and a couple of scribes accepted and Eddie placed them in the back seat of his Twin Six, which Mrs. Collins had driven over from Philadelphia.

Faber to Pitch Today.

With the postponement of today's game only three games will be played of the present series, one tomorrow and one on Sunday and one on Monday. Faber will pitch tomorrow; Williams is slated for Sunday, and Cicotte is to come back on Monday. It looks tough for New York.

DE PAUL TEAMS DROP 2 GAMES

St. Philips continued its fast clip in the Catholic High School league at De Paul yesterday, winning, 7 to 5. Earnest swatting for three runs decided the game in the final inning. JESS WILLARD WORKS TO COMBAT CHALLENGER'S SHIFT

HEMPLE TRIES DEMPSEY STYLE, BUT PROVES EASY

Champion in S. O. S. for Rougher Partners; Wires for Greb.

Two Questions

Can Jess Willard spot Jack Dempsey thirteen years and beat him?

Can Jack Dempsey spot Jess Willard some sixty pounds, 5½ inches in height, and a big advantage in reach and beat him?

There's a job for King Solomon.

BY RAY PEARSON.

Toledo, O., June 6.—[Special.]—One of the most effective points in the attack of Jack Dempsey, this 23 year old kid who on July 4 makes the supreme effort against World's Heavyweight Champion Jess Willard, is a shift.

By employment of that shift Dempsey has been able to weave in close to an opponent where his sledge hammer punches with either hand have felled many a foe in jig time. But that is not all—that shift as a defensive medium has been highly valuable, for by use of it the challenger has made his head a target most difficult to hit.

At Jess Willard's Casino camp, it is certainly apparent that Willard, his advisors, and sparring partners are aware of this Dempsey shift. This was evident in the champion's workout this afternoon when he boxed five rounds, two with Jack Hemple and three with Walter Monaghan. Hemple was first to go on with Willard, and as soon as "time" for action was called Hemple came to the center of the ring to face Jess, his body swaying first to left, then to right.

Willard Adapts His Style.

At first this shifting seemed a bit mystifying to Willard, but only for a few seconds, for he quickly gathered speed and took an equal share in the leading. From that time on until he had finished his two rounds with Hemple, the champion made a good showing against his partner, who of course is far from as expert as Dempsey.

Another thing prominently noticeable today is that the days of soft work in the ring are at an end for the champion. Both Hemple and Monaghan have been instructed to make every round a fight, just as they do in the Maumee bay camp of Dempsey. They are to tear into Willard and whale away as hard as they possibly can, while Jess is going to plug right back.

With his limited staff of sparring partners, it is going to be hard for Willard to get all the roughing he requires.

Willard Wants Tough Helper.

No one knows any better than Willard how essential this labor is, and he is determined to get it. One thing he needs is a sparring partner or two with whom he is not fistically acquainted, to help Hemple and Monaghan condition him. He "knows" the men he has with him now like a book. Jesse needs a man in front of him who is tough and can take a punching, a man who can stand the gaff without forcing the champion to pull a punch.

Probably 500 eager fans saw Willard in action today and the workout was the best he has had. This was the net result of the orders for his sparring partners to cut loose.

Feeling like a 2 year old this morning when he rolled out of the hay, the champion decided to increase his road work to five miles and thereby hangs a tale. When Jess and Monaghan had reached a point estimated at two and one-half miles it was decided to retrace steps and they started the return journey.

Travel Two Extra Miles.

But getting back wasn't so easy, and they became lost until they had stopped a few farm wagon drivers for directions to the city. When they returned they had traveled seven miles. Jess thought it a good joke.

Speaking of sparring partners brings us back to a bit of news released at the Willard camp. The champion has wired Harry Greb, the Pittsburgh light heavyweight, asking him to come here and join the training staff. At a late hour tonight no answer had been received, but it is believed Greb will accept the "invitation."

When the fans had finished watching Willard today they went over to Dempsey's camp, three-quarters of a mile distant. They found Jack out rowing in Maumee bay in a bathing suit.

Partners Have Forebodings.

The training staff at Maumee bay has been quite happy for several days due to the layoff in work, but these fellows are looking forward to tomorrow and the days following with no great joy, for Jack is ready to climb back into the ring and manhaddle a few of them.

Big Bill Tate, the biggest of the sparring crew, was lolling in the sand this afternoon and thinking of tomorrow principally, but he hadn't forgotten the things that happened last week. It seems reports have gone east to his home that he was nearly "knocked off" by Dempsey. He got a letter from his wife today.

Tate's wife inquired if he was badly hurt and admonished him to be very careful when he came in contact with Mr. Dempsey.

"Guess my wife thinks I'm going to be killed," said Bill. "Another thing is worrying her. My life insurance isn't quite paid up and she thinks we'd better keep close tab on the payments from now on."

O'CONNELL BEATS PINKEY MITCHELL.

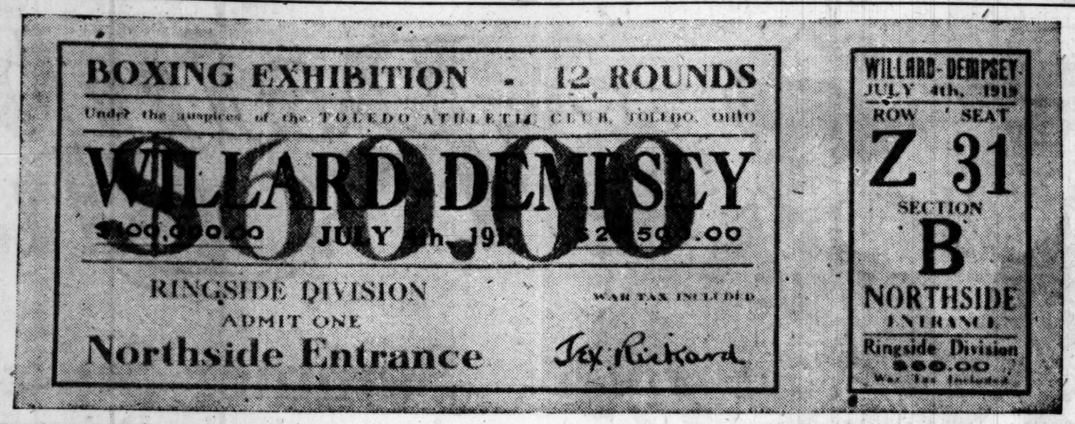

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—[Special.]—Charlie O'Connell of Cleveland won the popular decision from Pinkey Mitchell of Milwaukee in a ten round fight here tonight.

BURMAN TO FIGHT SHARKEY.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 6.—Joe Burman and Jack Sharkey, bantamweights, will meet in a ten round bout before the Cream City athletic club on June 16. The boxers have agreed to make 118 pounds at 3 o'clock.

HERE'S ACID TEST ON JESS WILLARD; WEIGHS ONLY 258

Toledo, O., June 6.—[Special.]—Following Jack Dempsey's example, Jess Willard today consented to make public his actual weight and measurements. Here they are:

Age	35 years
Weight	258 pounds
Height	6 feet 6 inches
Reach	82 inches
Chest	46 inches
Chest expanded	49½ inches
Neck	17¼ inches

Toledo FIGHT NOTES

Toledo, O., June 6.—[Special.]—Not all the ministers in Toledo are opposed to this championship bout. The Rev. Allen A. Stockdale of the First Congregational church was a ringside spectator. He was amazed at the speed of a man as big as Willard.

The heat spell in Toledo was broken today. It was cool, with a good breeze blowing. Tonight it rained copiously.

A few mastodontic tots are expected to be the fruit of Ray Archer's trip to New York. Anybody who wants a job in the Willard camp can get it if he has a tough chin. Jack Burke, a Chicagoan, who was in war service, has been recommended and may be secured.

Johnny Kilbane, who motored over from Cleveland, ran into the arm of the law on the way. At Lorain he was halted for speeding, but was allowed to go on condition that he pay a fine of ten bucks. Johnny told the judge via phone he'd send a check.

The dieting process seems to be strictly enforced in Willard's abode. Jess has cut it down to two meals a day. He eats a fair breakfast after his road work in the morning, then at 5 o'clock in the afternoon he puts away a man's sized meal. Meat is permitted once a day.

A flock of New York scribes have landed here and the fourth estaters made a formidable crew, as they filled the big bus secured to ride them to the training camps. Hot and dry, mostly dry, is the prediction for tomorrow.

Tribune Decisions

At Baltimore—Joe Burman defeated Patsy Johnson [15].

At Detroit—Charlie O'Connell won from Pinkey Mitchell [10].

At St. Paul, Minn.—Billy Miske beat Willie Meehan [10].

At Lockport, N. Y.—Chaffey Metrie knocked out Jack Morrissey [3]; Dick Toadman beat Jackie Saunders [10].

AMATEUR BOXER MISSES TRIP TO ALLIED SPORTS

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Sergt. Bob Gleason, former amateur boxing champion at 145 and 158 pounds, was a disappointed fellow today when he learned that the other boxers had sailed with the team for the inter-allied games. Bob was at the A. A. U. office on the forenoon of sailing day.

When the cable was received from Gen. Pershing not to send any boxers, wrestlers or tennis players, Gleason returned to his home. In the meantime permission was granted the rejected men to accompany the competing teams.

Col. Thompson said it was his intention to have the government stage a set of track and field sports on their return to America. That will give the navy men who are barred from the inter-allied games a chance to compete against the men now in France.

BURMAN VICTOR IN REAL SCRAP

Baltimore, Md., June 6.—[Special.]—After being led a merry pace for eleven rounds Joe Burman got to Patsy Johnson of Trenton and in the closing sessions of a fifteen round bout won the referee's decision here tonight.

Johnson, although outclassed by the Chicagoan in the finer points, put up a great battle while he lasted, by his willingness to mix it. He had Burman staggering in the eleventh by the vigorous use of two handed body blows, but in the twelfth Burman got him flush on the jaw with a right cross and had him groggy.

Johnson weathered the round, however, and managed to get through the remaining three by stalling tactics.

College Lad Beats Marston; Meets Kirkby for Golt Title

Bridgeport, Conn., June 6.—[Special.]—After three fairly easy matches Oswald Kirkby, titleholder, rose to the occasion today by defeating D. E. Sawyer of Siwanoy, the former Chicago player, in the semi-final bracket of the Metropolitan Golf association championship at the Brooklawn Country club. The Englewood man will meet Al Walker Jr., the 20 year old Columbia student, in the thirty-six hole final tomorrow.

Walker gained additional laurels by defeating that tournament regular, Max R. Marston of Baltusrol, 3 and 2. Sentiment in the gallery favored Marston. It was figured his greater experience in important events would prove too much for the Richmond county lad. Except for one slip, where he got into trouble at the eighth and took three more to reach the green, making a six, Walker played beautiful golf.

Many Holes in Par.

He took advantage of frequent opportunities offered by Marston, whose drives were continually going astray. The only time the Baltusrol man was up was early in the match, when he won the first hole. He had a chance to make it 2 up, but missed a short putt on the second green.

Thereafter Walker began to reel off hole after hole in par, except at the eighth, as previously mentioned. Out in 40, the former interscholastic title holder made the turn in 1 up. His opponent had taken 42 strokes.

The best flash of the match came at the short tenth, where both laid their tee shots to within about fifteen feet of the pin. A trifle away, Walker proceeded to run down the putt for a 2. That made Marston's try all the harder, but he proved equal to the task.

Great on Putting.

A stymie saved Marston at the eleventh, which was halved in 6, but Walker won the next two, sinking a putt for a 3 at No. 12. The lad also won the thirteenth, Marston driving to the rough.

Now 3 up, it began to look as good as settled, though Marston won the fourteenth when his opponent drove to the long grass.

To the short fifteenth Marston should have won, but he took three putts and actually lost the hole, although the other golfer failed to make the green from the tee. That made Walker dormie and he made it even more decisive by winning the sixteenth, thanks to a good putt of about four yards. Had the bye holes been played Walker might have shot a 76.

Kirkby Sinks Twenty Footer.

Kirkby got the jump on Sawyer by winning the first two holes, a stroke under par at each. A fine approach at the first left him a putt of twenty feet, which he sank, and a few moments later he dropped one equally as long for a two on the second green.

Woods and Waters by LARRY ST. JOHN

MOSTLY NEWS.

THE Wisconsin fishing season opened last week with a whoop and a hurrah, but we estimate that fully a third more anglers would have gone out if it were not for the confusion regarding the opening date on bass fishing. When Wisconsin resort owners wire Woods and Waters asking when the season opens you can guess how many of the rank and file knew not where they were at.

Some good catches were made on opening day. The big, deep lakes in southern Wisconsin failed to come up to their average opening gait, but the shallower ones came through in fine style. L. L. Murphy and son Eddie, Chicago, and C. T. Behrens, Milwaukee, made quite a killing at Lake Como, and others also connected there. Eagle lake, at Kansasville; Brown's lake, at Burlington, and the Lauderdale chain at Elkhorff yielded some good catches, but Delavan and Geneva were not up to their regular standards. The former is full of bloom and as soon as it clears it ought to be alive with feeding fish.

* * *

Reports of good catches come from the north country. Capt. Charles Smith got a forty pound muskie in the Manitowish waters, and his host, Charles Doriot, got a seventeen pound pike. At Spider lake, in the same waters, Al Roden and Walter Alwart got a twenty-four and one-half and a twenty-two pound muskie, besides a number of smaller ones running from thirteen to sixteen pounds.

Edward Porter and Ernest Marr, also guests of T. J. Koerner, got a number of muskies running from thirteen to eighteen pounds. Excellent fishing is to be had now all through the north. Bass, muskies, and pike are hitting with pleasing regularity and the fish are above average size.

* * *

Nearer home the fishing is getting better right along. Grass and Pistakee lakes are still holding the lead, but the lakes in the northern part of the Fox lake chain are now coming along in good shape. Good reports come from Marie, Petite, and Bluff lakes. Of the single lakes Fish and Deep are reported to be better than usual.

* * *

Meanwhile trout fishing has taken a slump, with here and there a high spot. Many local anglers who went trout fishing over Decoration day got stung so far as fishing is concerned, although no man who goes a-trouting can get stung if he likes the outdoors.

* * *

Lake front anglers have it on the rest of the citizens of this village. While the whole town sweltered, the heat was just what the perch fishers wanted and as a result almost every lake fronter made a killing.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

As a result of yesterday's preliminary trials in three events of the nineteenth annual track and field games of the Western Intercollegiate Conference Athletic association on Stagg field today, the quarter mile should be the most interesting seen in a conference meet in years.

Although the caliber of the athletes who qualified for today's final heat is not up to the standard of former quarter milers, they are of such equal ability that nothing but a close and interesting race will result. Instead of a large number taking the mark for the final race, Referee Dean permitted only six to qualify.

McMahon, Curtiss, and Butler.

The runners who will furnish the interesting competition in this great race are Curtiss of Chicago; Butler, Michigan; Oss, Minnesota; Emery, Illinois; McMahon, Nebraska; and Barlow of Missouri. These runners are easily the class of the field entered in the race and the winner is expected to step the distance under fifty seconds.

Speer Takes It Easy.

Stanley Speer of Chicago showed the best in the two qualifying heats of the half mile. The Maroon won his race in 2:00 2-5 without apparent effort. Brown of Illinois was the victor in the second heat, which he won in the slow time of 2:07 1-5. Four runners qualified in each heat, which will make eight starters in today's final.

After the entries had been checked and scratches ordered by the coaches, it was decided not to hold preliminary heats in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Instead there will be three heats in each race today, with the first two in each race to qualify for the finals. Trials in the pole vault and discus throw also were deemed unnecessary.

Track Fine for Today.

The heavy rain which fell just before the trials left the track wet and soggy, but it was just the thing needed to leave the course in the best condition for today's races. The circuit will be rolled this morning, while the jumping pits have been covered with canvas.

Picking the winners in today's events is easy compared to other years. In only three events is there any doubt as which is the best athlete. The quarter mile is an open race between the six best quarter milers in the central west. The runner who receives the breaks in the racing luck will win, but Curtiss is picked because he is a strong, hard runner who can be depended upon to put all the energy he has in the race. It will be close and all the qualifiers have a good chance to win.

The javelin is an open event, but Wilson of Illinois is picked because of his consistency in throwing the shaft all year. Griffith has made the best throw of 172 feet 6½ inches, but he has not approached the mark since he made it in the Penn games. The event is between Wilson and Griffith.

Today's meet will start at 2 o'clock. All arrangements have been completed to handle a large crowd, as the competition is expected to be the keenest of recent years.

Summary of Trial Events.

AUTO CLUB TEAM PULLS OUT FROM INTERCITY RUN

Cherry Circle Squad Left to Uphold Prestige Against New York.

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

The Chicago Automobile club's team of drivers entered for next week's intercity reliability match with New York went to pieces yesterday, leaving the Chicago Athletic association pilots alone to hold up the local end of things against the star motor tourists of the New York Athletic club.

The contest was to have been a three cornered affair, with two teams representing Chicago, but at the last minute six of the eight C. A. C. men found themselves unable to go.

C. A. A. Adopts Tour.

Thus the intercity match maintains its traditional hoodoo. The last time the contest was arranged it was called off after the Chicago drivers had actually started for the east, when the New York team announced an eleventh hour withdrawal.

This time the Cherry Circle team proposes to go ahead, however, with the two remaining Automobile club drivers included in their ranks. Some of the contestants have already started driving to New York. The rest will leave today and tomorrow.

Personnel of Cherry Circle.

The Chicago team as it now stands comprises the following veteran drivers:

S. E. Hibben (captain), Packard.
J. W. Magtire, Nash.
E. C. Patterson, Packard.
C. G. Bingham, Pierce-Arrow.
L. T. Jaques, Peerless.
A. N. Eastman, Packard.
N. H. Van Sicklen, Marmon.
Burley B. Ayres, Premier.
W. F. Grower, Peerless.
R. W. Tansill, Pierce-Arrow.
F. W. Wentworth, Packard.

The New York Athletic club will be represented by approximately the same number of cars.

The run will be a two day affair and will be scored on a basis of maintaining a prearranged driving schedule and getting through without making repairs. The contestants will start from New York City on Thursday, driving to Greenfield, Mass., spending the night there and returning on Friday for the finish at the N. Y. A. C.'s summer clubhouse at Travers island.

Pilgrimage to Indianapolis.

A big cavalcade of cars bearing members of the Medinah Motor club and their friends will start this morning on a pilgrimage to Indianapolis, where the Imperial council meets next week.

The Chicagoans will go by way of Laporte and Kokomo, spending two nights on the way, and return by way of Fort Wayne and South Bend. The tour is the most elaborate venture undertaken by the club since its organization.

BRUNDAGE DROPS CASE AGAINST ANDREWS & CO.

Federal Officials Continue Inquiry Into Brokers' Use of Mails.

Attorney General Brundage announced yesterday that action against Andrews & Co., charged with selling Dictograph Products corporation common stock without a blue sky license, would be discontinued. Through an apparent clerical error his office had not been notified by the secretary of state that such a license had been issued.

Permission to the firm to sell Dictograph preferred stock, which had been outstanding for a number of weeks, had been amended, it developed, to include also the common issue.

Federal Inquiry to Continue.

Assistant United States Attorney John B. Boddie, assigned by United States District Attorney Clyne to inquire into Andrews & Co.'s stock transactions, said that Mr. Brundage's action would have no effect upon the federal investigation.

"The entire matter has been placed in the hands of the postoffice inspectors," he stated, "and will be carried to a conclusion. No subject outside the postal laws, however, will be considered."

Numerous complaints against the firm, which sold $6,400,000 worth of stock in the defunct $14,000,000 Smith Motor Truck corporation, continued to reach the federal prosecutor's office.

Tells of Gold Stacks.

Included in one sheaf of correspondence was a circular, issued by Andrews & Co., in which the following representation was made:

"This house makes sure that every investment offered to its clients is sound—safe and certain to bring profits. . . . Profits already paid participators would form 200 stacks of gold over 100 feet high."

A later delivery of mail contained copies of letters exchanged between the Milwaukee office of the stock selling concern and an investor in a nearby town, whose name Mr. Boddie asked be withheld.

Letter Is Quoted.

Under the date of Feb. 17, G. C. MacKrith, Andrews & Co.'s manager, wrote that fifty shares of Dictograph common stock had been "allotted" the investor at $10.50 a share, and added:

"All amounts forwarded to us are accepted and held subject to permission by the railroad commission of the state, but in case permission for the sale of this stock is not given in thirty days the amount will be returned to you at your request."

The accompanying comfirmation, however, makes the statement: "We have today SOLD YOU the following stocks, etc."

Deposits Liberty Bonds.

The investor thereupon deposited $250 worth of Liberty bonds to assure payment of a total debt of $525.

On Feb. 20, Mr. MacKrith explained to the investor as follows:

"If this account is carried on our books for a maximum period of sixty days you will be obliged to take up the amount due, $525, for which you have placed with us as pledged security $250 in Liberty bonds. However, you also have the privilege at any time before this date (to) order sale made of your fifty shares at the market. We recommend that you carry this security for $15 or $18 per share, as the trend of the market gives us the impression the security will have a ready advance to that figure."

BUILD SCHOOL IN CENTER OF FIVE ACRE PARK

Possession has been obtained by John F. Smulski, president of the West Park board of a site for a combined public school, park, and recreation grounds to take the place of the fourteen buildings now located at Hirsch and Laramie streets.

The site comprises twenty-five acres between Hirsch and Potomac and Laramie and Lavergne. The proposed school building will occupy five acres. Besides educational facilities, it will contain, among other features, a gymnasium, community rooms, swimming pool, military drill rooms, etc.

The British minister of munitions, in advising Col. Byllesby of this, congratulates him on the "well deserved recognition of his great work."

The societies connected with the Ascension church, Oak Park, will hold a homecoming reception for their soldiers tonight. A street carnival and dance will be given adjacent to the church, and refreshments will be served in the basement. It is planned to have a card party for the older folks.

A reception in honor of the One Hundred and Eighth ammunition train will be given at the Hotel La Salle Monday evening by the auxiliary of the organization. A feature will be the presentation of "surprise" gifts to Lieut. Col. Fisher and Capt. "Father Jack" O'Hearn, chaplain of the unit. Phone Franklin 700 for information.

A memorial service in honor of Dana P. Thrasher, United States marine, killed in action on the battlefields of France, will be held tomorrow morning, June 15, at the South Congregational church. He was a son of Samuel P. Thrasher, president of the United States Marine league.

The regular weekly meeting of the 311th engineers auxiliary will be held at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday evening in room 1024 county building. The 311th engineers of the Blackhawk division are expected home in July.

THREE ARRESTS BRING TAXICAB WAR INTO COURT

The first actual steps in the impending war in the courts between rival taxicab companies were taken yesterday when three men, employed by the Yellow Cab company, were arrested on charges of assault preferred by Jack Finklestein, an employé of the Hotel La Salle Taxicab company. The men were booked and released on bonds. They will be arraigned in the South Clark street court today.

E. J. Stevens, manager of the Hotel La Salle Taxicab company, took the matter up several days ago with State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne and was told to procure warrants for the arrest of the men involved.

Those arrested yesterday are L. Romano and S. A. Clinnin, chauffeurs, and Nessie Blumenthal, said to be superintendent of the Yellow Cab company branch on East Twenty-first street.

PARK ON SOUTH SHORE TO COST $110,000,000

Supt. Foster Urges More Speed in Making Improvements.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

Supt. Foster of the south parks wants to go farther and faster in getting the lake shore back to the people than the railway terminal commission and aldermen have provided in their tentative agreement with the Illinois Central railroad. This developed at a session of the commission yesterday afternoon and the surprise almost stunned some of those present.

They had been arguing for an hour over who shall pay a certain part of the cost of viaducts.

"How much money will the south park commission spend on this entire development?" asked Ald. Bowler.

"The whole project?" repeated Supt. Foster.

"Yes. Will it be $5,000,000 or $10,000,000?" inquired the alderman.

"O, my!" said the superintendent, throwing his arms into the air. "It will be $30,000,000 before we get through."

Charge Delay to City Hall.

And the park officials have been ready and anxious to go ahead with this development since December, 1911, while the city hall has been dilly-dallying along with the proposition.

"How much will the Illinois Central railroad have to spend on its part?" was asked Chief Engineer Noonan of the terminal commission.

"At present prices they must eventually spend $80,000,000," answered Mr. Noonan, and the road, too, has been willing to go ahead since December, 1911. Until recently no progress to get an understanding was made.

Several of the persons present said that it was the first time that they knew that the park board contemplated such an enormous expenditure. In addition they thought that the railroad development would cost between $45,000,000 and $55,000,000, which was probably a pre-war estimate.

Asks Ten Year Limit.

When the conferees got to the point where the ordinance was blank on the time in which the south park board will fill in a strip 400 to 700 feet wide from Twelfth street to Fifty-third street Supt. Foster said that he desired ten years placed in the ordinance.

"You feel certain you can do it in that time?" asked Walter L. Fisher.

"Certainly, if we get the money," replied Mr. Foster. "It can be done in five years if we have the money. That is what we will aim at."

More surprise. Before every one had recovered Supt. Foster went on:

"I don't like the way you have drawn this ordinance. It will prohibit us doing any more filling than this strip in ten years, provided it is not entirely completed. We want the privilege of doing just as much as we can. We want to fill in out beyond the lagoon."

The Aldermanic Idea.

It had been the idea of the aldermen and others that the park board should start at one end of the inner strip and fill it in completely before any work on the outer strip started.

"No," said Foster, "I want to go faster than that. I want four, perhaps five places where filling in will progress at the same time."

City officials have heretofore wanted bathing beaches developed in the lagoon as soon as the inner strip is filled in.

Ald. Schwartz of the Third ward suggested yesterday that he wanted to consult with his constituents before the commission decided upon the filling in plan of Supt. Foster. Then a clubwoman stepped in to hurry along action. She wants the development in her time so that she can enjoy it.

"I live in the Sixth ward," she said. "With other women I have been working for years for this lake shore development as a project of the whole city. Please don't make it a ward matter." The commission adopted her view.

Transportation Question.

The ordinance as drawn provides that street cars shall traverse the viaducts approaches to the inner strip. It was the idea of the commission and alderman that then the cars should turn back immediately after going across the railroad tracks.

"We want to have the authority to say where they shall run and the sort of construction," said Supt. Foster. "Some of these lines should not only go across the tracks and the inner strip of land but should go to the outer edge of the outer strip if they are to serve the park areas at all."

"What's that?" said Ald. Walker, who voiced the surprise of nearly every one.

At another point an alderman was puzzled in his observations that the park board should provide bathing facilities as soon as possible.

As to Bathing Beaches.

"It is hardly necessary to make that question," replied Mr. Foster. "As soon as we can we are operating bathing beaches at Twenty-fifth and Thirty-first streets after the city has abandoned them. We are caring for them after the city has discarded them. That should indicate that we have some regard for the needs of the public for bathing beaches in this particular territory."

The alderman was silenced. So the afternoon went by. Mr. Foster said that he has not finished more than half of his remarks on the tentative ordinance. He will resume his comments at 10 o'clock this morning.

CITY'S OLDEST TEACHER QUITS AFTER 51 YEARS

Friends of Old Days and New Pay Tribute to Mrs. E. F. Hatch.

Fifty-one years as the clock ticks in a schoolroom——

That's a long, weary time, people. Thousands of little citizens have come through the successive ages, the flaring petticoat, and the tight trousers to the modern romper, bloomers, and half socks. More thousands have passed from the old, droning A, B, C to the modern teaching, have forgotten schooldays and built cities.

But in all that time Mrs. E. Florence Hatch has worked tirelessly. Every day has brought her new problems to be smiled away, new children to be trained and set in the path they should follow.

Old Friends Assemble.

That is why 300 grown up children and enough little ones to overflow from all the doors and window sills laughed and cried, and cheered yesterday when Mrs. Hatch presided for the last time in the May school. It is why men and women made a pilgrimage for many miles to sit again in the little school seats and grasp the hand of Chicago's oldest public school teacher.

Mrs. Hatch resigned yesterday. After fifty-one years of presiding in schoolrooms in and about Chicago, she decided that for a while she will need all of her time. She has seen seventy years of wholesome life.

Has Sons in Army.

In that half century of service, in between the training of other folks' children, Mrs. Hatch has given the world a family of one girl and four boys. Her son, Sidney Hatch, is widely known as the Chicago marathon runner, and two of the boys served with Uncle Sam's army overseas.

So yesterday, in the May school assembly hall—Mrs. Hatch has been primary teacher at the school since its opening in 1905—her friends gathered to do her honor.

Mrs. Hatch will retire to her home, 237 Park avenue, River Forest.

CABARET CLEW BRINGS ARRESTS AS BANK BANDITS

'Big Jim' Farrell, Maher, and Two Women Seized.

"We'll find 'em with the ladies in some noisy cabaret," said Anthony McSwiggen to Charles McShane one day.

So they started hunting. They were looking for "Big Jim" Farrell, sometimes knows as James S. Roberts, and another man. They had a picture of Farrell, taken after he had been arrested for robbery and before he had jumped bail.

They knew he was "a tall, gray, distinguished looking" man, and he was wanted for pay roll robberies, for bank robberies, and for the slugging and robbing of bank messengers.

Tip from New York.

The other man, smaller, younger, had been with him on various of his exploits. William T. Lahey, second deputy police commissioner of New York, had given some information as to Farrell and his love for cabarets.

McSwiggen and McShane, policemen, temporarily in plain clothes, ran across their quarry last night, and, raiding a house at 545 Belden avenue, got both men, and two women. They had got the clew in a cabaret. They had met Farrell's companion in a saloon and he led them to the rooming house.

McSwiggen knocked down Farrell's companion—none other than Thomas Maher, alias Mayer, Sullivan, Ryan, Stone, White, and Ellis, said to be a professional pickpocket. And when he was tractable and ready to listen to reason the detectives let him sit with the women, and they waited for Farrell.

McShane, tiring of the wait, went out to call a patrol, when he encountered Farrell.

Promotions Recommended.

These things so pleased Chief of Detectives Mooney that he recommended to Chief Garrity last night that McSwiggen and McShane be promoted.

The women are Nell Elroy, who has been posing as Mrs. Farrell, a young, small, and rather handsome woman with tortoise shell eyeglasses, and Hazel Welch, who wears a wedding ring but says she isn't married.

Farrell is wanted in New York as one of the men who robbed William Montgomery and F. J. O'Brien, messengers for the Melville Shoe company, of $18,463.17 on May 27, 1918. Chief Mooney believes he can connect him with the robbery of the $50,000 pay roll of the International Harvester company, Milwaukee, the Hegewisch bank robbery, and the robbery and slugging of John A. Coogan, who was taking $3,600 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance company's office to deposit in the Drexel State bank.

Will Question Women.

He is going to question the women closely to find out if they aided Farrell and Maher in any robberies in Chicago or elsewhere. The Elroy woman has said she knew Farrell only six months, and he told her he was an advertising agent. The other woman stated that "unfortunately she did not know Maher, and, more unfortunately, she didn't know much about him." He was Frank G. Ellis to her.

Ellis, or Maher, has a long record. New York knows him, and Brooklyn, and Baltimore, and Providence, and Hartford, and Lowell, Mass., and Little Rock, and Chicago, and other cities. He is especially wanted in Everett, Mass., where it is alleged he and five others robbed F. R. Brown, paymaster of the General Electric company, of $13,000.

Other roomers in the Belden avenue house say Farrell shaved off his beard three weeks ago and that he was going on a hunting trip in the Wisconsin woods tomorrow.

Girl's Toes Crushed by Car; Wins $5,000 Verdict

A verdict of $5,000 was returned yesterday by a jury before Judge Joseph B. David in the Superior court against the Chicago Surface lines in favor of Lillian Margaret Spencer, 2572 Lindale avenue. In May, 1918, the testimony showed, a street car hit her as she was crossing Western avenue at North avenue and crushed the toes of her right foot.

WOMAN ARRESTS TWO WHEN SCORE OF POLICE FAIL

Seizes Girl, Traps Own Brother, on Wife's Charges.

Mrs. Clyde French, 6437 Normal avenue, in the role of amateur detective, in less than an hour last night accomplished more than a score of policemen, who had been seeking for a week to arrest Miss Jane Neill, 19 years old, 5838 South Michigan boulevard, and Claude Harris, 25 years old, 6317 Parnell avenue.

Warrants had been issued for the arrest of Harris and his sister-in-law, Miss Neill, on charges of disorderly conduct on the complaint of Mrs. Bessie Harris, and the police of the Fiftieth street station sought them in vain. Mrs. Harris in the court of domestic relations told of her sister trying to win the affections of her husband, and asked that both be arrested.

Mrs. French, who sided with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harris, called her up every day to learn developments. Last night she called as usual and was given the same reply.

Police Failure Reported.

"Nothing doing—the police haven't arrested them yet."

"Well, I'll go out and bring them in," she told Mrs. Harris, and shortly before 7 o'clock she set out. At Halsted and Sixty-third streets she met Miss Neill and placed her under arrest.

At the Englewood police station Mrs. French informed Lieut. Daly that warrants for the arrest of Miss Neill and Harris, her brother, were to be had at the Fiftieth street station.

Goes After Brother.

"I'm going out and get my brother now. He's a street car conductor," she announced.

Half an hour later when Harris left the car barns at Vincennes avenue and Seventy-seventh street, Mrs. French stopped him.

"Jane is arrested and wants you to bail her out," said Mrs. French. "She's at the Englewood station."

Harris hurried to the station. Lieut. Daly was waiting for him.

"Yes, Miss Neill is here," said the lieutenant, then added, "We are looking for you, too."

They will be arraigned today in the court of domestic relations.

ALIMONY

Two Husbands Victors in Contests with Wives.

It may be well to note that if you have a court order directing your hubby to pay certain weekly or monthly sums toward your support, and if you suddenly enter suit for divorce and your cold spouse shuts off on his payments, why you can't have him arrested.

Not any more. Judge Brothers settled that question yesterday in the case of Robert L. Denvir, son of State Senator John T. Denvir. He issued an order restraining prosecution of Denvir. Mrs. Denvir failed to ask alimony in her bill for divorce. But she will amend it.

Here's another interesting case with an alimony angle—or tangle. Mrs. Geraldine Franz obtained an order forcing her husband John to pay her $60 a month temporary alimony. She's suing for divorce. She asked the court yesterday to chastise him because he didn't pay.

Attorney William S. Stahl, representing the husband, presented bills showing the woman had purchased $1,400 worth of goods and charged them to Franz's account.

"I believe this woman is an adventuress who married Franz for his money," said the judge. "She is certainly entitled to no alimony in view of this."

RED TAPE HALTS WAGE INCREASE FOR POSTAL MEN

The 3,300 Chicago postoffice clerks learned yesterday that results from their demands for increased pay and time and a half for overtime could not be expected under a year, owing to red tape. The result of the unrest was rumor of a strike.

Pierce E. Butler, president of the union, denied last night that 600 of the clerks walked out. He admitted, however, it had become known the wage commission would not act until autumn and the raise could not become effective before July, 1920.

"We are going to ask the special session of congress to grant temporary increase pending the finding of the wage commission," Butler said. "The clerks now receive a minimum of $1,000 and a maximum of $1,400. We have sent statistics to congress showing a family of four must have $1,791 to live on and if paying for a home $2,204."

PASTOR'S TRUST IN UNCLE SAM NEARLY COSTLY

Has "Inspector" Count Cash, Loses $100, Gets It Back.

The Rev. J. S. Moser of 1107 Moss avenue had finished the railroad administration's dollar dining car dinner and was gazing hungrily through the Pullman window at the Indiana landscape.

Henry Albert Tucker, recently of New Orleans, stopped beside the clergyman.

"Cash Inspector" Appears.

"I represent the director general of railroads," announced Mr. Tucker. "It is my business to protect travelers from the wily confidence men who prey upon our passengers. Let me see your money."

The Rev. Moser produced from a hip pocket the sum of $975.

"The purpose of my inquiry," continued Mr. Tucker, "is to ascertain how much coin and gold watches and one thing and another you have so that in case some of these crafty slickers or berth climbers get the best of you the railroad administration can reimburse you. I'll count your roll."

Palms $100 Bill.

The Rev. Moser handed it over and Mr. Tucker set to work. He neatly palmed a hundred dollar note and handed back the remainder.

"There you are," said Tucker. "Now, in case you miss any money write to the director general of railroads and try to get it back."

A railroad special agent, who happened along the aisle jarred the minister out of his new feeling of security. He urged the Rev. Moser to recount his wealth, with the result that Tucker was arrested waiting on the steps of the smoking car for the train to slow down so he might alight at East Gary.

Arraigned before United States Commissioner Mason yesterday, Tucker was placed under bonds of $3,000, charged with working a confidence game. He will be given a hearing today.

STREETER'S SUIT ON CALL TODAY.

BEGIN CAMPAIGN FOR CATHOLIC CHARITIES FUND

A DRIVE for funds for the Associated Catholic Charities to carry on the work begun last year, opens tomorrow, with the reading in all Catholic churches of a letter from Archbishop George W. Mundelein.

The archbishop, after telling of the good done by the money already subscribed, announces that workers will go from door to door. He then makes this plea:

"I trust that nowhere will they meet refusal, for never were men and women engaged in a nobler mission. To their appeal I add my own; we are not seeking fame, comfort, or happiness for ourselves; we are not asking you to build monuments of brick or stone; we are pleading with you to do your part in relieving want and distress, in bringing help and renewed hope, in dispelling despair and discontent, not in distant lands or among a foreign people, but among your own, those of the household of the faith, here in the city where you dwell, where your children were born, where your ashes will rest."

Bakers Renew Strike to Support Engineers

Demands of engineers that only union men of that craft be employed in baking plants has led to another walkout in connection with the bakers' strike, it was learned yesterday. It had been reported that the original strike had been settled and that the men would return to work Wednesday. The engineers, however, have struck to enforce their demands and the bakers have signed an agreement with them to stay out until the demands are granted.

Strang Poisoned, Jury Finds; Asks Widow Held

A verdict to the effect that Herbert Strang of Highland Park came to his death by strichnine poisoning, with a recommendation that his widow, Mrs. Grace I. Strang, be held to await action by the Lake county grand jury, was given yesterday by a coroner's jury in Highland Park. Strang died suddenly on the night of May 15 after partaking of a meal prepared by his wife, from whom he planned a separation.

'NICKEL A DAY' AND FLAT RATE PHONES TO GO

Six and One-Half Cents Lowest Charge by Company.

City authorities and the officials of the Chicago Telephone company are going to lock legal horns over the new upward revision of telephone rates announced yesterday by the company. The new rates go into effect June 16.

The new schedule substitutes "measured service" for the "flat rate" service in vogue for many years on many of the company's phones.

The new rates can be explained as follows:

If you have a four party telephone line at your home you now guarantee 5 cents a day. Under the new schedule you will guarantee 6½ cents a day. Those who use the telephone more than once a day will not feel the increase.

Explained by Sunny.

B. E. Sunny, president of the company, in explaining the increases said:

"In Chicago all flat rates are abolished and measured rates substituted therefor. This change has been discussed for many years by the council committee, and should have been made long ago. It is a matter of record that seven different experts employed by the city council at various times to investigate the telephone service and rates since 1902 have condemned the flat rate practice and recommended the adoption of measured rates.

"About 10 per cent of the telephones in Chicago are on a flat rate basis, and create about 35 per cent of the calls and produce only 17 per cent of the revenue. We estimate that the change to measured service will eliminate about 80,000,000 calls a year, most of which are of little value, and will greatly relieve the operators and improve the service.

Lists Rates Abolished.

"The new schedule abolishes the following classes of service:

"Single party line business telephones at $125 per annum.

"'Dollar a day' trunk lines between the exchanges and private branch exchange switchboards.

"Neighborhood business telephones, single party lines at $48, two party lines at $36, four party lines at $24.

"Single party line residence telephones at $72 per annum; two party line residence telephones at $55 per annum; neighborhood residence telephones, single party lines at $36, two party lines at $24, and four party lines at $18.

Business Phone Rates.

"Service will be furnished to all business telephones as follows:

"Single party line and eighty messages for $4 a month.

"The next twenty messages, 5 cents each.

"The next 100 messages, 4 cents each.

"The next 100 messages, 3 cents each.

"All messages over 300, 2½ cents each.

"This rate is the same as before, except that excess messages cost from ½ cent to 1 cent more.

"Private branch exchange switchboards which heretofore have been furnished free, are charged for at a moderate price.

Rates for Residences.

"Residence service on a single party line will cost $3.75 a month for seventy-five messages. The next fifty messages will be charged for at 4 cents each. The next fifty at 3 cents each, and messages beyond 175 at 2½ cents each.

"Two party residence service will cost $2.75 a month for fifty-five messages, and excess messages 4 cents each.

"Many subscribers who do not use in excess of the guaranteed number of calls will pay much less for their service than heretofore.

"The equipment on the subscribers' premises will be the same as now. The messages will be registered on meters in the exchanges.

No Nickel a Day Phones.

"There are about 270,000 of the four party line "nickel a day" telephones. Even in pre-war times this service was furnished at a loss variously estimated at from $3 to $6 per telephone per annum. There will be no increase in the charge for calls, but the subscriber is required to guarantee 6½ cents a day instead of 5 cents. Putting it another way, the subscriber will be required to pay for forty messages a month instead of thirty at 5 cents each. A large percentage of the subscribers will not be affected by this change, for the reason that they already use more than forty messages per month.

"The system of credits by which coinbox subscribers in the current month get calls without charge to the extent of guarantees for shortages made up in the previous month, is done away with."

Mayor Will Speak at Charity Peace Jubilee

An ante-war event is scheduled for today and tomorrow at Riverview park—the Charity Peace jubilee, the advertised object of which is "to promote good will and strengthen the unity among all classes of Americans and forget whatever rancor and animosity we may have felt.'

Judge John Stelk is chairman of the program committee and the speakers are announced as Mayor William Hale Thompson, Congressman William E. Mason, Prof. George L. Scherger of the Armour institute of technology, and Ernest E. Cole, assistant superintendent of schools.

Mary Miles Minter in her latest picture goes busily about her duties with the prettiest air of importance in the world. One may be able to find many flaws in the production, but there can be no doubt but that Miss Minter is perfectly beautiful, has a smile that charms, and a most alluring "way wid 'er."

She's a little daughter of the Emerald Isle in "A Bachelor's Wife," and she comes over to America to visit her cousin, Norah Cavanaugh. She finds Norah looking terribly sad and a baby lying in its cradle in a corner of the room.

"Sure, Norah," says Mary; "I didn't know you were married." Then Norah tells her the sad truth. She had married the rich young Stuyvesant and been deserted by him.

"But where is your Irish blood?" asks Mary, and she seizes the child and goes to the Stuyvesant home to see what she can do about it.

The queer muddle in which she finds herself and the strange circumstances that develop from their being two John Stuyvesants, furnish the balance of the plot.

Of course, though, before we leave Mary she's righted her own world and the worlds of those she loves and her own beloved is asking her tenderly when the day shall be set for their wedding.

Nothing unusual about the picture; it's just a clean little program affair with Mary Miles Minter. And how the children do adore Miss Mary!

Real Love Stories

Do you know a real love story—one that is stranger than fiction? It is the idea that is wanted. No attention will be paid to literary style. "The Tribune" will pay $5 for every story published. No manuscripts returned. Address Doris Blake, "The Tribune," Chicago.

Her "Wild Man."

Three summers ago George, a friend of mine, was taking a business trip and had his pocketbook taken while in a crowd watching a circus parade. He was therefore left without any money in this small town a hundred odd miles from any one to whom he could appeal for aid.

George found himself obliged to hunt an odd job and applied to the circus manager, and, being a robust young man, was offered the position as "wild man," the original wild man having been arrested for some slight misdemeanor. George realized it was his only opening and reluctantly took it.

That night, among other visitors, two girls passed his cage. One expressed her feelings in the single word, "Ugh." The other seemed differently impressed and was enough moved to sympathy to say "The poor thing!" George says that from that moment his heart went out to her and he mentally vowed to see her again.

The next day, having telegraphed for money, George once again set about his business.

Since that day an aviation field has been built just outside the town and to this field George was sent to take his flying course when he enlisted. At one of the many parties given for the aviators George found the girl who had so attracted him the summer before acting the part of a charming hostess. Introductions were easy and the romance progressed rapidly. It was not until after the girl had promised to be his wife when he returned from France that George revealed himself as the wild man of the summer before.

The Successful Home Garden

BY J. F. H. HEIDE.

No. 87.

GARDEN DEMONSTRATIONS.

AT 2 P. M. TODAY.

The first succession planting will be demonstrated at THE TRIBUNE gardens today, namely, string beans following the harvested lettuce and radishes; summer radishes and early celery following the harvested spinach; summer radishes and lettuce following lettuce and early breakfast radishes. Then there is the further harvesting of spinach, lettuce, and radishes; the thining out of cos lettuce, Swiss card, witloof chicory, and onions; and the pinching out of flower heads of the onions.

The head gardener of the west parks is absent on a tour to increase the scope of the already magnificent flower exhibits. If he does not return in time, the demonstration at Garfield park will be conducted by THE TRIBUNE garden editor. Those at Douglas park and the University of Chicago will be conducted respectively by Roman J. Weyrich and Prof. William Crocker, as usual.

HOME MADE BORDEAUX MIXTURE.

Bordeaux mixture, a spraying material to control plant diseases, in the small quantities required for the home garden, is best bought ready made in concentrated form, and diluted as required according to directions accompanying it. Pyrox is a commercial form of it, with arsenical poison added for the killing of chewing insects.

While the following directions and formula are for fifty gallons, home made, the proportions and method remain the same for any needed quantity, larger or smaller.

Provide two water tight barrels, each of fifty to fifty-two gallon capacity. Saw one transversely into halves, close the bunghole and vent to make two tubs of twenty-five to twenty-six gallons each.

Fill one tub with water and suspend in it for two days a gunny sack containing four pounds copper sulphate (five pounds for a 5-5-50 mixture). In the other tub slake four pounds properly burned rock lime (five pounds for a 5-5-50 mixture) and then fill with water.

Knock the head out of the second barrel, close the bunghole and vent, and nail a No. 20 wire screen over it.

After removing the now empty copper sulphate sack, two persons thoroughly stir up the contents of the tubs and, with wooden pails, bail like quantities of liquid from both, mix by pouring evenly and together, keeping the contents of the tubs well stirred up till emptied. Remove the screen and, if required, add arsenate of lead or nicotine sulphate ("Black Leaf 40"), or both, again thoroughly agitating.

Compression tanks or spraying pumps must be of brass to prevent corrosion. The mixture must be well stirred up before each refilling of sprayer.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Caramel Custard.

Our soldier boys cannot refrain from praising to the skies some of the French cookery, sometimes to the discomfort of the home cook. There are certain things that daily care and practice in cooking have brought to a perfection in France that we cannot hope to rival, until we are willing to be as careful and to practice doing as often.

Perhaps some of the dainties the boys that were sickest got will not appeal to them now, and then again they may. At any rate, the caramel custard, or what more literally would be translated as a turned over cream, is served daily in Paris almost everywhere, and it seems that a French woman instructed one of our cook book makers in its manufacture for a diet kitchen, and this American woman thus describes making enough of it to serve a happy six:

"Place eight tablespoons of sugar and one-half cup of water in a saucepan and cook quickly, without stirring, until the sirup becomes brittle when dropped in cold water. Pour immediately into a dry mold or pudding dish, shaking the mold well to coat the entire inner surface with the caramel. Break four eggs, reserving the whites of two, and beat well. Scald one pint of milk, pour over the eggs, beating all the time, add three tablespoons of sugar and one teaspoon of vanilla. Pour into the mold, cover with buttered paper or a lid, and steam slowly from thirty to forty minutes. Turn out the custards and serve cold. The caramel will form a sauce about the custard. I usually made my custards in individual cups."

Of course, eight tablespoons of sugar make half a standard cup, and that measurement seems an easier one and makes directions of the recipe more uniform. Again, sugar and water put together must be stirred until the sugar is dissolved, and care taken that the whole does not boil until all sugar is dissolved.

Bright Sayings of the Children

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Please write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, "Tribune," Chicago.

When Margrette passed her plate for the third time for chicken her mother said: "My dear, you must not eat so much chicken. I am afraid you'll be ill." "Well, mother," said Margrette, "I'm not eating this because I want it. I'm collecting the bones for Fido."

W. L. M.

As I was going shopping I met a charming little fellow, who spoke to me quite politely. In further conversation I inquired his name. "O," he answered with easy assurance; "it's just the same as my daddy's, only it's got 'Jr.' on the end of it."

V. M. B.

My little brother is so mischievous that it seems impossible for him to be on his good behavior long at a time. However, he is shy when company is present. One afternoon some women were calling and one of them noticed that he was quiet.

Wishing to pay him some attention she asked: "Are you always such a good little boy?"

"O no," replied Edwin frankly, "but I try to behave when we have company."

A Friend in Need

Sally Joy Brown

I want to be the medium through which the friend in deed and the friend in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be only too happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send parcels to "The Tribune," but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

Wishes a Kitten.

"My request is rather unusual. I wish a kitten over 6 weeks old, a male and black or solid gray. I am so fond of a kitten and would give this one a good home.

L. S."

Kitten, kitten, who has a kitten? Some one has, I know, and if they will only tell me about it I will see that this little girl receives it.

Poe's "Confessions."

"I am 70 years old and badly crippled and would so like to get hold of 'Confessions,' by Edgar Allan Poe, published about 1849.

A. F."

Has any one a copy of Poe's "Confessions" to lend to this little old lady?

Wants Something to Read.

"I am a cripple and can't go out and would so like a few magazines to read.

A. H."

This invalid lives quite far away, so postage isn't expensive, and I'm sure some readers will contribute a few magazines and perhaps books.

Taking No Chances This Time.

It was not until yesterday that Raymond Askew of the Prairie division used that marriage license he took out about two whole years ago. But he used it yesterday all right—or one just like it. Less than twenty-four hours after his returning regiment had marched down Michigan avenue he had sought out Miss Wilhelmina McKeown of 917 Lafayette avenue, told her he'd be durned if ever again any national guard call to the Mexican border would interfere with his marrying her when he had the license right in his hand, and married her.

The wedding of Miss Lucille Hurd, daughter of Mrs. M. M. Hurd of 3974 Lake Park avenue, to Harry Barton Bogg Jr. took place last Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's mother.

"Make the Young Men Help Y. W. C. A. Girls"

"Make the young men of the city subscribe to your fund," said the Rev. John Timothy Stone, who spoke at the regular noonday luncheon yesterday of campaigners for the $300,000 Y. W. C. A. fund. "Young men in the city are deeply interested in making the city a happy place for young girls to live in. If there are fine young women in a city there are fine men."

Two contributions, one for $5,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. McCormick and one for $5 from a mother whose daughter, a Red Cross nurse in France, had been benefited through the work of the Young Women's Christian association abroad, led the list of contributions made to the fund yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick's gift came through the business women's team in the International Harvester company. The totals for the day were $38,968.94, making the total to date $194,046.95.

Miss Helen McNair of 5141 Ellis avenue is captain of one of the most active of the teams of workers.

Several of the young married women and girls in society are interested in the campaign. Some who have brought in excellent reports from their districts are Mrs. Mark W. Walton, Mrs. John Kendrick Bangs Jr., Miss Stella Webber, Miss Isabelle Holt, Miss Florence Harris, Miss Dorothy Derby, and Miss Harmon Bailey.

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

Trade Mark Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Corerspondence.]—Paris does not often send us anything which may be made at home. Its simplicity is generally the teasing kind that can't be turned out except by skilled dressmakers. That is why the wrap shown today is so remarkable. For, possessing but a single seam—the one down the back—it may be made by anybody who has got beyond five finger exercises with the needle. This wrap is of gray duvetyn lined with rose colored satin and the only trimmings are gray cordings tied in bows.

U. OF C. NOTES

Alumni hearkening back to the days of the nineties swarmed over the Midway campus yesterday. The Alumni Reunion of the University of Chicago opened officially. Smokers and dinners were held. Mrs. Ingram's Shanty, a relic of the early history of the school, where now prominent alumni used to hasten on frosty mornings for their coffee and rolls before hurrying to class, has been erected in the center of the campus. Here the alumni will gather, eat the good, juicy pies of old, and rehash the tales of the days gone by.

A French house for the university where the French language will be spoken, French cooking will be served, and French manners adopted is assured. The house under university control will open for the summer quarter at 5810 Woodlawn avenue. The French house will be a permanent institution at the university. It will be a dormitory for women students, a club house for the French students, and a general meeting place for French students. An educated French woman will act as "directrice" of the house, which is vested in a corporation known as "La Maison Française."

University of Chicago fraternities gathered on the Midway for their annual sing last night. Songs by each fraternity and the dedication of a university service flag were features of the big singfest. A part of the program included burning of the freshman caps on Thursday night. A dance in Reynolds club concluded the fraternity meet.

Gerald Karr Smith, until recently a Y. M. C. A. secretary at Camp Taylor, Ky., has been appointed executive secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at the University, effective July 1. Mr. Smith last winter came to Chicago to take the position of director of religious work for the local association. He will succeed at the university Elbert C. Stevens, who later will promote association work in the near east, probably with headquarters at Constantinople.

Elks Ask Council to Dinner.

Mayor Thompson and the city council were extended an invitation yesterday to have dinner with the Chicago lodge of Elks Monday night. The organization sent out an announcement last night declaring that the purpose of the dinner was to show that the members of the organization "wanted to throw away the hammer."

Women Off to Meeting.

Miss Florence King and Dr. Anna R. Ranes left last night for Columbus, O., where they will speak at the third annual convention of the Ohio Woman's Association of Commerce today. Their work now is preparatory to the third national convention of business women in St. Louis July 14 to 18.

DORIS BLAKE'S ANSWERS

To Meet His Folks.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 15 and I have been going with a certain young man whom I think a good deal of for nearly a year and a half. I am very large for my age and I can easily pass for 19 or 20 if I wish.

"He has asked me several times to come home with him for a visit, as he lives out of town, and meet his folks. Do you think this would be all right? His folks are real wealthy and live on a farm about forty miles from here. He has a sister about 17.

"I met him at the business college I am attending. He goes home each wek and wants me to spend Saturday and Sunday with him.

"Do you think it is all right for him to kiss me after we have been together? PATSY."

Unless the invitation comes from his mother, Patty, it would not be correct for you to make the visit. In fact, I don't think you'd better go anyway, nor do I think at 15 you ought to be that friendly with any one boy. Your mother wouldn't approve of it, would she? And Patty, I certainly hope you do not let him kiss you. I refuse to believe you would.

Take Mother Along.

"Dear Miss Blake: Is it proper for a 13 year old girl to go to the movies with a boy provided she has her mother's consent? JOAN."

If mother goes along, Joan. Otherwise not.

May Be Successor of Jenkin Lloyd Jones

The late Jenkin Lloyd Jones' successor as pastor of All Souls church probably will be the Rev. John Morris Evans, pastor of the Unitarian church of Dayton, O., it was learned last night. Following morning services at the church Sunday, June 15, a vote will be taken by the trustees and congregation to complete the extension of the call to Dr. Evans. It is practically understood he will accept, it is said.

Notre Dame Glee Sings.

The glee club of the University of Notre Dame came up from South Bend last night and gave a concert in Central Music hall, with George O'Donnell, now of the faculty of that institution, assisting. The club, in its social aspects, is regarded as a Chicago institution, and the audience was demonstrative in its delight with the performance.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

C. S.: THE NAIL BLEACH MIGHT be responsible for the hardened and cracked nails. Do you know anything about its contents? There are some unreliable makes on the market and you are not the first woman to write complaints of the kind. Discontinue it entirely, and for a couple of weeks rub cold cream under the nails at night and let it remain there till morning. Or give them a five minute dip in olive or almond oil daily for a week and then once a week thereafter will do. Why don't you use the camphor and glycerine treatment on your hands for the red and roughened condition? Take equal parts of glycerine and camphor and rub thoroughly into the hands at night before retiring. Rub until the skin has absorbed it all and then dust with a powder. Thus you will not have to wear gloves to bed. The hot oil treatments and the electrical massage are beneficial to hair troubles. Maybe you don't need that kind of treatment, however, and if you could afford only one treatment a month the remedy would be slow. Why don't you use a good tonic on your hair twice a day? I have a formula for a splendid one.

HANNA: HONESTLY, HANNA, I don't think you can do much with a nose once it is firmly implanted on your face—that is, after it has reached its full growth. Infants' noses have been known to go through a training under a skillful mother's hands and be shaped prettily, but grownups' noses are like friends—you just have to accept them more or less at face value, not be too critical, and believe they have "qualities," even to the worst of 'em. I'll wager your nose is not half as bad as you make it out. At any rate it could not make you horrid looking with your golden hair and your brown eyes and your pretty teeth. No, I would not recommend any one for an operation on your nose. I would not take that responsibility.

OBITUARY.

"Oat King" Tyng Dead; Cornered Chicago Market

Alex. G. Tyng, one of the oldest and best known men in the grain trade in this region, died at Peoria, Ill., yesterday. He was credited with being the inventor of "cliped" oats and years ago cornered the Chicago and New York oat market, being known as the "oat king." His firm, Tyng, Hall & Co., was for years one of the largest operators in coarse grains in central and western Illinois.

MRS. CANDIDA CUNEO, 61 years old, mother-in-law of Judge Robert E. Crowe and wife of Lawrence Cuneo, commission man, died yesterday following an operation. Judge Crowe adjourned the hearing of the Graham brothers' case upon receiving the news at the bench. FREDERICK THOMPSON, theatrical manager and famed throughout the country as the creator of Luna Park, Coney Island, and Toyland, at the San Francisco exposition, died in New York yesterday. PRICE DECLINES OF FOODSTUFFS WEAKEN GRAINS

Industrial Unrest Induced by High Cost of Living Aids the Bears.

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

Industrial unrest, induced by the high cost of living, and the general easing in the price of practically all foodstuffs as well as many other lines, had some effect on corn, and was mainly responsible for heavy selling by the local element. There was also liquidation in the July by strong commission houses, which was regarded as reducing lines to the 200,000 bu maximum recently placed in effect, the trade being given until today to conform to the ruling.

There has been a break of $4.00@5.00 per 100 lbs in cattle from the high point in April, over $1.00 in hogs, and a sharp incline in wheat of late, and with labor demanding more wages on account of high prices there was a general belief that prices for corn were to be lowered. The government investigation into the Winnipeg strike has established definitely that the prime factor was the high cost of living. In this connection a bill was introduced into congress yesterday which if carried would throw the wheat market wide open and prices would quickly seek their natural level and reflect the laws of supply and demand.

Food control in England will end in the middle of November. These factors combined with the excellent weather led to a bearish feeling in the trade and brought in considerable selling of futures.

Pressure on All Markets.

Pressure was put on all the markets, especially July corn, and with a weakened buying power and an evening up to the 200,000 bu limit, values declined with the most bearish feeling that has been noticeable of late. Profit taking on the break carried prices up slightly at the last, but the close on corn was 1½@2c lower and oats ⅝@1c lower in Chicago. Southwestern corn markets were 1@1¼c lower and oats ⅛@¾c lower. Minneapolis lost ⅛@½c on oats, 4c on rye futures, and 1⅞@3½c on barley. The feeling as to the maintenance of values is more distrustful than at any time of late.

July corn was the weakest and closed 1⅞c lower at $1.68⅞, while September was off 1½c to $1.59½, and December 1⅞c to $1.40⅞. Sample values, 1@2c lower, with white about 1c lower than the previous day, as compared with the July. Shipping sales, 15,000 bu. Receipts, 279 cars.

Seaboard Buys Cash Oats.

While the seaboard bought 250,000 bu cash oats in the west, and hedges were removed in July here, the undertone of the market was easy throughout the day, and the finish was at net losses of ⅝@⅞c, with the deferred deliveries leading. July closed at 67½c, September at 64⅝c, and December at 65⅛c.

Liquidation was on in rye with exporters and speculators, who bought recently on the selling side, and the close was weak at the low point with prices 3@4⅜c lower. On the decline Duluth sold 175,000 bu and Minneapolis 25,000 bu to the seaboard. Spot was off 2⅛@3c here, with No. 2 sold at $1.48½@1.49½, or 1@1½c over the July, millers buying. Receipts, 8 cars. Minneapolis spot was off 2⅜c. Northwestern receipts, 70 cars.

Barley dropped 1@3c. The weakness in other grains and a break of 5⅝c in futures with liquidation on were the depressing factors. Demand was slow, with spot sales at $1.17@1.25. Receipts, 54 cars. Minneapolis was 1@2c lower. Northwestern receipts, 158 cars.

Error Causes Break.

A report that the government would resell 48,000,000 lbs of oleo caused a selling movement at the start, and with the break in hogs prices dropped about 50c on lard and short ribs, $1.70 on September, and $1.00 on July pork. The quantity to be resold turned out to be 4,600,000 lbs, a decided difference. This brought in a rsuh of buying by the early sellers and losses weer regained on pork and lard, the latter closing 35c higher on July and 7½c up on September, while pork gained 40c on July and lost 35c on September. Short ribs, however, were weaker and showed losses of 25c to 32½c.

Hog receipts were liberal and are expected to continue, and while hog prices have declined product has advanced of late. The shortage in July product has been reduced, but as much of it has gone into September the market is expected to be nervous with frequent rallies so long as present conditions last. Movement of lard and meats continues large. Small sales of hams and Wiltshires were made for export, the former bringing a ¼c advance. Sales of 350,000 lbs refined lard in 56 lb boxes were for export, and 60,000 lbs loose lard sold at 55c under July, and 75,000 lbs leaf at $31.75. Prices follow:

MARSHALL FIELD & CO. REVIEW.

Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods is running slightly ahead of the large volume of the corresponding week a year ago. Merchants are visiting them arket frequently and were in the house in greater numbers compared with the corresponding week of 1918. Retail business continues excellent. Orders from salesmen on the road for both immediate and future delivery are much greater in volume than for the corresponding week last year. Collections are satisfactory."

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Bearish arguments and news dominate the grain trade at present, and the situation does not look as favorable for the corn bull as of late. Favorable weather at this season generally creates bearishness, and old traders are disposed to regard June 10 as the turning point for the bear to have an inning when crops look fine. Bull news has prevailed for a long time and the markets show tiredness. The excessive bearishness of the local trade in general prevents prices from declining as fast as they would under normal conditions. The fact remains, however, that while a lower level of values is looked for there is no balance wheel to the corn market, and it is easily oversold.

Traders bought bids on corn and oats last night on a report that a bill abolishing the food administration and guaranteed price of wheat and providing for an open market with prices to be governed by supply and demand. The grain trade wants the wheat market reopened, and expectations are that millers will get wheat cheaper from the government inside of thirty days and that flour will be lower. New flours are offered from the southwest for shipment by July 10 at $10.30 to $10.50 for 95 per cent patents, or $1.30 to $1.50 under the price of old wheat flours.

C. H. Wayne of Rock Island, Ill., who was the leading long in May corn through Wagner and took in 250,000 bu cash corn on his purchases, has been requested to appear before the enforcement committee of the food administration June 12 and explain what he intends doing with the cash corn. He has been in the cash grain business many years and has a food administration license. The citation is under the hoarding act. It is the first case where cash grain has been taken on a future delivery that the buyer has been asked to explain his operation.

President L. F. Gates has gone to New York to confer with Julius Barnes on the wheat proposition. A meeting of the advisory committee and the various interests in the grain, milling, and baking trades is to be held with Mr. Barnes in New York June 10 and 11. Chicago will be represented at the meeting, in addition to President Gates, by Frank B. Rice, George E. Marcy for the Board of Trade; Lowell Hoit, the Council of Grain Exchanges; W. N. Eckhardt and E. D. McDougal as members of the advisory committee, and B. A. Eckhart, the millers.

The heaviest selling of July corn yesterday was by Omaha houses, who were at it all day, and especially at the last. It had a depressing effect. Outside traders feared a strike of telegraph operators and evened up. Until the atmosphere regarding the telegraph situation clears the outside trade is expected to be light. In the meantime local professionals are so bearish that every effort is being made to depress values.

Argentine shipped 2,201,000 bu corn last week, compared with 1,871,000 bu the previous week and 3,377,000 bu last year. Argentine corn was offered at New York to arrive at $1.40 to $1.42, July shipment. The visible there is 3,600,000 bu, against 1,200,000 bu last year. A cargo of Argentine corn was at Galveston and was said to be offered freely at Texas points. Kansas City claimed that this cut off their trade in Texas. Another report said that it was not taken to any extent.

PRODUCE TRADE

Buyers of butter took hold more freely and prices advanced ½c. Holders were less disposed to sell early, but sentiment changed at the last, making an easy close. Arrivals were 16,095 tubs. New York advanced 2c, with larger trading and some inquiry for export. Receipts of 3,746 tubs were also a factor, being the smallest of the week. Boston had a better tone and advanced 1½c, with arrivals 11,243 tubs. Philadelphia was up 2c with 4,572 tubs received.

Wisconsin cheese makers are selling at cost to a shade under. Buyers in Chicago held off and business was light with an easy tone to the market. Eastern markets were easy with light business.

Local distributers and shippers bought eggs more freely and prices advanced 2@2½c, making 3½c gain since Wednesday. Arrivals were 23,869 cases. Live poultry prices were unchanged with supply lighter.

Potatoes sold better, arrivals being 25 cars, with 180 cars on team track and 75 cars in outer yards. New potatoes in sacks were lower at $4.75@5.25 for No. 1 Texas triumphs.

Strawberries averaged higher with arrivals only 4 cars and 2,100 cases. Prices were higher. Four cars of cantaloupes arrived. Cabbage receipts were large, 38 cars on track. Peaches were 6 cars on track and choice were fair sale.

Another 20@40c break in the hog market carried prices to the lowest point since the closing week of March. Small shipping orders, more indifferent buying by speculators and excessive offerings gave packers all the advantage. A big decline in provision futures during the early hours of the trade on 'change added to the depression at the yards, and the market closed at low point of the day, with 11,000 left over.

There was an early top of $20.15 for fancy 195@300 pound hogs, but at the finish the practical top was $19.85, against a top of $20.65 last Monday. The day's general average price at $19.85 was 30c lower than that of May 7, the highest day on record, and $2.85 higher than a year ago. Two years ago the average was $15.50, and four years ago down to $7.56.

Chicago's Hog Run Large.

Hog supplies at all leading markets were large, the eleven points receiving 110,000, against 78,000 a year ago and 76,000 two years ago. A week ago was a holiday. Chicago's receipts for the day totaled 34,000, being nearly a third of the grand total at eleven markets.

Most people in the trade are expecting around 50,000 hogs for next Monday. J. A. Hawkinson guessed 51,000; Edward Morris, 47,000; F. W. Waddell, 55,000; J. M. Waters, 48,000; Charles Gross, 45,000; F. R. Burrows, 55,000; and R. W. Oake, 60,000.

With only 3,000 cattle received, the steer market was active at steady to strong prices. Best steers offered sold at $15.25, averaging less than 1,100 pounds. General quality was poor, bulk selling around $11.75@13.75. Cows and heifers sold largely around $8.75@10.25. Calves were strong, tops at $16.25 and bulk at $15.50@16.00.

Cattle Prices Steadier.

The sharp break in cattle prices last week and at the start this week had the effect of moderating the arrivals during recent days. This checked the break at least temporarily. Eastern markets are glutted with dressed offerings, while local killers report an accumulation which warrants lighter arrivals as a remedy for the market.

Sheep receipts totaled 12,000, of which about 4,000 were billed direct to packers from other markets, bulk of them being southern lambs purchased at Louisville and Nashville. Market was very slow and uneven, with most sales at irregular declines.

Best spring lambs were little changed, but general run of shorn stock ruled 25c lower. Aged sheep were demoralized, prices being 50c@$1.00 lower than Thursday, and very hard to move at that. Packers claim they are unable to clear the heavy cuts which have caused the discrimination against such lots on the market.

Receipts for today are estimated at 1,000 cattle, 9,000 hogs, and 5,000 sheep, against 1,332 cattle, 11,121 hogs, and 6,077 sheep corresponding Saturday a year ago.

Bond Market Quieter; Liberty Note Sales Fall

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Today's market was quieter than even yesterday's, which was the first session for some time when the pace set in bond dealings during the last couple of weeks showed a tendency to slow up.

Liberty bonds were moving in less volume, with the Victory notes the favorites. The tax free 3¾s touched a high of 100.14, reacting slightly, while the 4¾s at one time broke a few cents under par. Prices of other Liberty issues were steady. Brown Brothers Virginia certificates sold at 66, and in the foreign group U. K. 5½s of 1921 advanced a quarter to 98¾, a high record for some time past. Other foreign issues were inactive, with no material fluctuations in prices.

Industrial bonds are attracting more attention than has been their custom in recent markets, particularly from the number of issues appearing on the tape.

In the rail group dealings were fairly maintained. Convertibles followed the prices of stocks and were generally a little off on the day. High grade bonds were steady.

DUN'S REVIEW

Dun's review of Chicago trade will say today:

"An indication of the progress made in the revival of business and its present activity may be cited the fact that there is still a shortage of help in many of the largest mercantile establishments, in spite of the large numbers of men who are being released from military service.

"Retail distribution holds to its record breaking pace, and it is now quite evenly distributed.

"Wholesale orders are in excess of the large figures of this time last year and the advances in textile prices at primary markets have stimulated buying for distant delivery. The large mail order houses report orders about 30 per cent ahead of last year, and the volume at that time was very heavy. Good crop prosect and the recent advances in the security markets have increased general buying.

"Merchants are in the city markets in large numbers. Collections are highly satisfactory."

Normal Supplies of Fruit and Vegetables Reported

Normal supplies of lettuce, melons, canteloupes, peaches, lemons, strawberries—eleven cars of the latter here yesterday—bananas, pineapples, and grapefruit are reported by the government bureau of markets.

There were abundant supplies of potatoes, rhubarb, cabbage, onions, cucumbers, and practically all seasonal vegetables.

Egg prices have advanced 3@3½c per dozen and butter 1@1½c per pound in the last three days following the recent decline. Retailers figure on 4@5c per pound for butter and around 10c per dozen on eggs to cover cost of handling from the wholesaler to the consumer and allowing for profits.

SUGAR PRICES.

New York, June 6.—The local market for raw sugar was steady and unchanged at 7.28c for centrifugal to the refiner. No new purchases were reported by the board. In refined the demand seems to be tapering off and today a much less active inquiry was reported. Prices were unchanged at 9c for fine granulated.

Paris Municipal Loan

$300,000,000 in Five Per Cent Bonds

The following information is reproduced exclusively for the information of French citizens resident in the United States and who may be holders of Paris Municipal Bills. These bills have now arrived at maturity, or may be exchanged for the bonds mentioned in the article reproduced below.

[Extract from "Financial Times," London, 13-5-19.]

"During the last 52 months," says the London "Financial Times," "the Paris Municipality has from time to time met the extraordinary expenditure entailed on its Budget through circumstances arising directly out of the war by the issue of Municipal Bills at six and twelve months, bearing interest at 5¼ and 5½ per cent respectively. The capital amount represented by these bills is very considerable, something like $300,000,000, and it is to pay off this enormous floating debt that the City has been authorized to issue, early in June, a loan of 1,500,000,000 francs.

"The issue will be in Five per cent bonds of the face value of Frs 500, offered to the public at Frs 480 and redeemable by six drawings per annum over a period of sixty years. As the five per cent coupons on the bonds will be subject to payment of taxation, the net revenue will be slightly under 4¾ per cent, or exactly 4 frs 60c net per 100 frs capital.

"From the French point of view, however, the attraction of these Paris Municipal bonds lies more especially in the fact that they are of the variety described in England as 'bonus' bonds. Their negotiation would be prohibited in the United Kingdom or in America. In view, however, of the attention aroused some years ago by the proposal that the British Government should adopt the premium bond system for its War Loans, it is of some interest to note the mechanism of these premium or 'bonus' bonds as about to be issued by the City of Paris.

"The number of bonds to be issued, secured on the general revenues of the City, is 3,125,000. For sixty years to come a certain number of the bonds will be redeemed at par, namely, 500 frs—at each of the six annual drawings to be held in each year. At the first drawing in each year the first number falling out of the spherical cylinder containing all the numbers of the 3,125,000 issued bonds will be redeemed by the City Treasury with a bonus of 1,000,000 frs. At the remaining five drawings in each year the first bond drawn will be redeemed with a bonus of 200,000 frs. Besides these large bonuses, 2,600 other bonds in each year will be redeemed with bonuses varying from 1,000 frs up to 100,000 frs, and including several bonuses of 50,000 frs, 20,000 frs and 5,000 frs.

"This will be the first time in the financial history of the Paris Municipality that such a large number of bonds as 3,125,000 will have been issued in any one loan, and that any municipal bond will be redeemed with such a large sum as 1,000,000 frs.

"It is, of course, open to question whether the bonuses compensate for a low rate of interest, but in France there is a very large demand for these Paris Municipal bonds, which are treated as trustee securities. One great advantage to the City is that, once bought, the purchasers do not readily part with their holdings, so that the market in the bonds does not require official support. All the great joint stock banks are taking part in the present issue, which, of necessity, is strictly limited to the French market, no subscriptions being solicited abroad.

FIGHT ON SALE OF VESSELS TO BRITISH WIDENS

Mercantile Marine Deal Opposed as Blow to America.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—The directors of the American International corporation, which holds between 85,000 and 95,000 shares of the International Mercantile Marine company's preferred stock, as well as a large block of common stock, announced today that all that would be voted in opposition to the sale to a British syndicate of the Marine company's British-owned ships, and for the formation of a protective committee for both classes of stock.

Gives Patriotic Reasons.

In announcing that they were against the proposed sale which would necessarily involve liquidation of the company, the American International directors issued the following statement:

"The principal considerations which influence the board in opposing the sale are:

"First—The corporation had made its considerable investments in the common and preferred stocks of the International Mercantile Marine company, in pursuance of its definite purpose to aid in maintaining and increasing transportation of American merchandise in American owned ships.

"Second—The fleet is one of the best in the world today, and if sold cannot be duplicated at any price in less than three years, and then only at a cost of more than twice the price offered by the British syndicate.

"Third—This decrease in American controlled tonnage would come at a time of maximum demand for shipping facilities at profitable rates; and,

Would Be Great Setback.

"Fourth—The sale of the British ships and assets would almost unavoidably lead to the liquidation of the American company as a going concern. This would mean the giving up of terminal facilities, dock leases, and the closing of agencies, etc., throughout the world, all these representing a business good will and assets, established in the course of many years and being of great and in some cases of irreplaceable value.

"Under the circumstances the American International corporation directors did not consider the proposed transaction advantageous to the stockholders of their company, and therefore decided to vote against it."

Lawyer Is Retained.

Daniel W. Blumenthal of 35 Nassau street announced today that he had been retained as counsel by a stockholders' protective committee composed of owners of both classes of stock in the International Mercantile Marine company to represent them at the special meeting on June 16, when there will be a vote on the sale.

In some quarters in the financial district today the opinion was expressed that the proposed deal would not go through. Neither John W. Platten nor Frederick W. Scott, who resigned from the proxy committee, was inclined to go into the matter further today, but the belief was general that other committees besides that for which Mr. Blumenthal is counsel might be formed either tomorrow or early next week, with either Mr. Platten or Mr. Scott, or both as members.

BOSTON STOCK TRANSACTIONS

Boston, Mass., June 6.—[Special.]—Today's market was again featured by activity and strength in the metals shares, resulting in the early establishment of a new high level of prices for the armistice period. Calumet and Arizona, selling ex-th the reduced dividend, was in special demand, gaining 4 points. Osceola was up 3½. Profit taking carried prices lower in some of the recent strong issues, but the trend was good to the end. Fairbanks and Booth Fisheries were especially strong. Swift was steady on a small turnover and the rights sold at 7. Call money ruled at 6 per cent; time loans, short dates, 5¼@5½ per cent; time loans, six months, 5@5¼ per cent; time loans, one year, 5¼@5½ per cent.

The New York Times.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—While early trading in stocks today bore many of the familiar signs of an extravagant advance, the movement was prevented from going far by a heavy output of profit taking sales later on.

Realizing operations during the third hour were so insistently pressed, in fact, that many issues lost their previous gains and the price front became sufficiently irregular to cause hesitation among speculators, who had contemplated fresh purchases for the rise.

Slows Down Trade.

This attitude appeared to be a factor in slowing down trading toward the close, although the volume of transactions was swelled to a figure in the fore part of the day which ranked the full session as one of the most active of the year.

Considered broadly, the stock market was swayed by trading sentiment more evenly divided between confidence and caution than in any preceding day of the week. Presumably the advice of brokers since the recent flurry in money to consider a reasonable profit enough had some effect in causing their customers to reduce speculation lines of industrial shares.

Some Big Gains Made

A few issues, several of which had been inactive for some time, advanced 6 points or more, but the average gain among the popular stocks was less than 2 points. Railroad shares moved uncertainly and much irregularity existed throughout the list at the close.

Call money was steady at 6 per cent for loans secured by mixed collateral. A reflection of the extent of current supplies was presented in a decline of the quotation to 5¾ per cent in the afternoon.

NEW FINANCING IN MAY SHOWS ENORMOUS GAINS

Figures of new corporate financing in May showed a large gain, the total being $249,334,165, compared with $71,883,500 for the corresponding month last year. April financing amounted to $48,244,000.

One year ago committees of the federal reserve board and the twelve federal reserve banks were active in limiting the volume of new securities. The present expansion may be regarded as the beginning of a period of new consolidations and new note and bond issues. While money is not easy in the sense considered prior to the war, 4 or 4½ per cent, it is easy when taken in relation to general price advances. Interest rates will be high when everything that money buys is high. They follow the common trend of commodities. Considered in this light money is in plentiful supply at a fair rate of return, 5 per cent.

The outlook is regarded sufficiently favorable at this time to warrant banks extending credit for new ventures that would not have been considered six or eight months ago. It is understood by those familiar with the Wall street state of mind that a proposition with reasonable earning power and fair financial backing will be treated with liberal consideration by the banks.

At present the rise in stocks is the one feature that is continually eliciting warnings and suggestions that a halt should be called. But it happens that the treasury department has entered upon a plan of continual offerings of treasury certificates or short term bonds in order to meet expenditures. It will require considerable leniency on the part of the reserve banks to keep the banks of the country in a comfortable state of confidence in order that the government may profit by the situation and sell its paper.

Real Estate Transfers

Real estate transfers yesterday totaled 253, including 32 Torrens and involving a total consideration of $368,515. There were 188 in the city and 65 outside, as follows:

Another lofty apartment building is announced for "Streeterville." It will be erected by Frank G. Gustafson at the northeast corner of Pearson street and Dewitt place on 100x107.25 feet of ground, which he has just purchased from the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, for a reported consideration of $40,000, which is at the rate of $400 a front foot. It is stated that Mr. Gustafson plans to improve the property in the immediate future with an extra high grade ten story building to cost in the neighborhood of $500,000. Hedberg & Bistor were the brokers.

They have also sold for Kathleen M. H. Besly to Clara H. Prosser the vacant lot, 100x107.25 feet, south front, in Pearson street, 100 feet east of Seneca street, for a reported consideration of $30,000. The property is understood to have been acquired as a speculation, the purchaser having no definite plans for improvement.

Stony Island Avenue Deal.

A big deal in Stony Island avenue business property was made a matter of record in which Edward I. Bloom purchased from A. Alexander, P. J. McShane, and H. B. Edmonds and from Ellen L. Van Schaick two parcels at Sixty-seventh street and Sixty-seventh place for an aggregate consideration of $186,000. He acquired from the three first named grantors the vacant, 125x115 feet, at the northwest corner of Sixty-seventh place, for a stated consideration of $66,000, and from Mrs. Van Schaick the property at the northwest corner of Sixty-seventh street, 269x125 feet, back to Sixty-sixth place, for an indicated consideration of $120,000. This parcel has old frame improvements of no value. While Mr. Bloom has no plans looking to the immediate improvement of these properties, he plans either this fall or next spring to improve the larger parcel with a high grade hotel building, the details of which have not been decided upon. The smaller parcel he plans to improve with a business building to contain various entertainment features. R. M. O'Brien & Co. negotiated the first deal and with Harrison L. Van Schaick the other transaction.

Loop Store Leased.

An important store lease was reported in the loop district in which E. F. Keebler & Co. have leased for Harry C. Moir, president of the Moir Hotel company, to I. Lipcowitz the store at 53 West Madison street, in the Morrison Hotel building, for twelve years at a term rental of $180,000. The lessee has been in possession of this store for some time at a rental based on gross sales, and his success induced him to close a long term lease at a straight rental. He operates a chain of men's furnishing goods stores in the loop, this being the fourth store he has leased through Keebler & Co.

In connection with the construction of the proposed new plant of the Ilg Electric Ventilating company at the southwest corner of Crawford avenue and George street, S. W. Straus & Co. have underwritten a serial bond issue loan of $400,000 at 6 per cent. It is expected to begin the work of construction in about a week. The building will be a modern two story concrete factory structure containing about 100,000 square feet of floor space, and will be the first unit of an ultimate multi-unit plan. It will be located on a tract of about ten acres, and with the land will represent an investment of about $450,000. The company is one of the largest manufacturers of fans and blowers in the United States.

Minor Transactions.

The apartment property at the northwest corner of Granville and Hermitage avenues, with 50x155 feet of ground, has been conveyed by A. J. Brenhaus to Caroline Olson for an indicated consideration of $51,000, subject to an incumbrance of $33,000.

Illinois Central Bonds.

C. R., Los Angeles, Cal.—The Central Railway of Georgia is issuing $8,000,000 of ten year 6 per cent bonds secured by deposit of $11,000,000 of general and refunding bonds. The latter issue is secured under a junior mortgage and subject to $31,462,800 of underlying liens. As the total bonded debt of the system is very low, all the mortgage bonds are well secured. The Illinois Central owns the stock and operates the property. The Illinois Central 5½s of 1934 are secured by deposit of joint first refunding bonds and western lines first 4s. The collateral is high grade. Interest on both the collateral bonds was earned about five times previous to government control. Last year results were not so good, but the margin of safety was ample.

National Oil.

W. F. K.—There are at least three companies bearing the name of National Oil company. One, whose stock appeared on the New York curb recently, has issued $2,446,478 of preferred and $10,554,775 common par $10. Earnings in 1918 are said to have been $232,037 after taxes and depreciation. The company has oil lands in Mexico and Texas. It proposes to build a refinery. Little definite information is available. The National Oil company of Kansas City began paying dividends of 10 per cent quarterly in 1917. No report of earning is available.

Brief Answers.

H. E. L.—Common stock sometimes represents money invested. Sometimes it represents little more than hope of future profits. The common stock of each corporation has its own particular status.

H. S.—The Union Pacific refunding 4s are secured by first lien on 1,473 miles of road and by second lien on 2,085 miles. Interest is earned four or five times. They are a conservative investment.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad company has been authorized by the utilities commission of Ohio to issue $20,000,000 of its fifteen year 6 per cent debenture gold bonds, dated Jan. 1, 1919, and due Jan. 1, 1934. The proceeds will be used in paying the railroad administration for improvements made and to reimburse the company's treasury for funds expended for improvements.

The Corporation Trust Company of New York has filed with the secretary of state the certificate of incorporation of the Sinclair Building company, Inc., which has an authorized capital of $3,000,000. The company has been formed to acquire the office building at 55 Liberty street, New York City, recently purchased by the Sinclair Oil interests.

Development work in the American oil fields reached a new peak during the month of May. In that period 2,623 new wells were completed in the principal producing areas of the country with a new production of 199,254 barrels of petroleum. The previous record was held by the June report of 1916, when 2,545 wells were completed with an output of 190,741 barrels.

At the directors' meeting of the Cuban Cane Sugar corporation it was stated that Gen. Goethals' investigation has not yet been completed. It is expected the report will be submitted in about a month.

Initial steps in the direction of coordinating the financial and industrial resources of the United States for extending credit to European countries were taken at an informal meeting of twenty executives from the largest national banks, trust companies, and private banking houses in New York at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. The meeting resulted in the appointment of a subcommittee of five, charged to develop coördinating plans to set similar committees at work in all the large cities of this country and report to the larger committee.

The Engineering and Mining Journal of today says: "The full figures of the sales in May of copper proved to be larger than any previous estimate and were actually in excess of the production for the month. British advices report a sentiment over there to the effect that arrangements should be made for the purchase of copper from Australia, where many of the mines have had to be closed, rather than to buy copper from America. However, the probability is that Great Britain has had enough of subsidies, etc., and will buy copper where it can be obtained most cheaply."

Canadian Car and Foundry Paid on Munition Deals

Montreal, Que., June 6.—[Special.]—It is officially announced that the Canadian Car and Foundry company has received $788,000 from the American Can company in settlement of munition contracts.

The Canadian Car and Foundry company has also received settlement for all munition contracts from the American and Canadian governments. An announcement of the amounts received will shortly be made to stockholders.

COFFEE PRICES.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The market for coffee futures opened at a decline of 4@10 points on bids, but the only sales reported were unchanged to a cent higher and prices worked up right after the call on covering and a little trade buying. September sold at 18.95c and December at 18.40c, or 6@9 points net higher, but this advance seemed to attract realizing, under which the market eased off, with the close showing a net loss of 7@13 points. No change of importance was reported in the spot situation. Closing bids: July, 19.20c; September, 18.79c; October, 18.59c; December, 18.24c; January, 18.14c; March, 18.00c; May, 17.83c. Spot coffee quiet; Rio 7s, 19⅝c; Santos 4s, 24½c. Firm offers were reported unchanged to a shade higher, including Santos 3s and 4s at 24¾c and Rio 7s and 8s at 19.70c. The official cables showed an advance of 75 reis in the Rio market and of 100 reis in Santos spots. Santos futures were 25@50 reis higher. Rio exchange on London, 1-32d lower; Brazilian port receipts, 19,000 bags; Jundiahy, 14,000.

LEAGUE FORMED TO AID SOLVING RAIL PROBLEMS

Aims to Arouse Interest of Nation on the Question.

Boston, Mass., June 6.—[Special.]—The Citizens' National Railroads league has been incorporated. It is perfecting plans for an educational campaign which will reach into every state in the union and which will be conducted with a view to consolidating public interest in the solution of the present problem of the railroads. The president of the league is N. L. Amster, chairman of the executive committee of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad.

Objects of League.

It will seek to attain the following objects: Unite various elements in our national life in favor of a people's plan for legislation; collect and disseminate information regarding present phases of the railroad problem; bring about immediate valuation of properties and fix upon capital actually invested so that equitable basis of rate making and reasonable return on investment may be ascertained; launch program comprehending national conventions, conferences, open forum discussions, and other means of ascertaining public sentiment.

A bill will shortly be introduced by a leading Republican senator of the west incorporating leading points of the league's plan, including: 1. Consolidation. 2. Regional operation. 3. Management shared by owners, shippers, farmers, employés, and the government. 4. Real valuation of actual investment as basis for rate making, and provision for reasonable and adequate interest return to shareholder.

HINES GIVES RAIL LOSS.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—Director General Hines estimated today that the railroad administration incurred a deficit of approximately $58,000,000 in April, making a total deficit of $250,000,000 for the first four months of the year.

The director general reiterated, however, his previously expressed judgment that present economic conditions were too unsettled to afford a safe basis for decision as to the necessity for increased rates to offset the difference between income and operating cost. For the present there will be no raise, he added, the administration confining itself to practicing every possible economy.

The net operating income for April was about $26,000,000, as compared with $71,000,000 for April last year, and an average of $67,102,681 for April during the three year test period, on which the compensation to the roads is based.

"In April," Mr. Hines said, "as in January, February, and March, this unfavorable showing was due in large part to the falling off of business. It was also due in part to the heavy increases in wages and cost of materials. The railroad administration is not unlike other industrial undertakings in the increases in wages and costs of materials, but is unlike these other enterprises in that the latter have made high corresponding increases in the prices of what they sell while the railroad administration has made an increase in transportation rates of only 25 per cent, which is a far less percentage than the increase in wages and cost of materials."

TALK OF THE STREET

According to the Wall street view, the sudden return of the Western Union Telegraph company from government operating control to private ownership, although with the wage string attached to it, is likely to stimulate outside speculative imagination and while strikes threaten it is not believed they will become formidable so long as the government retains jurisdiction over the wage situation.

The Ohio Cities Gas company has brought in two wells on its Texas holdings, one flowing 2,000 barrels daily and the other 1,800. The company also announces a new well in the Cabin Creek district flowing 300 barrels daily. The new territory in the latter district, hitherto undeveloped, is proving as good as the older drilled territory, which latter gave the company its start in the oil industry.

Studebaker common again attracted considerable attention by a decline to 115 after touching 120. Some commission houses thought they saw inside selling. Other advices are that the largest interests in the company predict that upon earnings alone the shares will reach a much higher level; $150 is mentioned. The stock pays 4 per cent on a par value of $100, and unless there were something ahead beside the present dividend rate the current price would be much out of line.

There is reported to be a strong bull organization behind American Agricultural Chemical. The market for the shares yesterday, however, did not yet reflect active operations.

Sir Charles B. Gordon and Lieut. Col. Herbert Molson have been elected to the board of directors of the Candian Consolidated Rubber company, Ltd.

ARMOUR & CO. TRADE REVIEW.

Armour & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say:

"Beef trade last week was slow with prices lower, liberal supplies of cattle having resulted in the market declining from 50 to 75 cents. Lower beef prices are expected, however, to have a stimulating effect on the beef consumption next week.

"Prices for hogs show an easier undertone, improved receipts causing a recession in hog prices in sympathy with receipts of cattle. The provision trade is good and picking up as the season advances. Reports from the south indicate cotton pretty grassy on account of rain making it impossible for planters to chop it. Fresh pork trade continues in fair volume; export demand still heavy.

"Collections are good."

The Gentle Art of Making Gifts

TIME Secreted in a latticework of Diamonds

For the girl graduate or the June bride, your gift can be a pendant watch. One square shaped diamond in the center of a latticework of smaller diamonds; a pear shaped diamond above, another beneath; at $1,500.

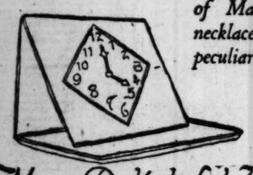

A Wee Joyous Door to the Hours

If she loves a bracelet best, give her one that flowers with platinum and diamonds, with a wee diamond encrusted door that hides the watch; at $1,100.

Whether she prefers a plain gold, gold filled, or diamond set wrist watch, you will find them all at Mandel Brothers'. Diamond set wrist watches range in price from $185 to $2,000.

Rings with exquisite settings, new design; brooches up to $3,000; a full line of corals, aqua marines, jade, add-a-pearl necklaces—they draw you by their charm to the Gentle Art of Making Gifts. An add-a-pearl necklace, for a confirmation gift, is peculiarly appropriate.

More Delightful Ways to tell Time

Surely, from an array of hall clocks, priced from $45 to $390, you will find just the one you wish to give some fair June bride.

Attractive traveling clocks in leather cases of assorted colors; ornamental clocks, desk and dresser clocks, banjo clocks, mantel clocks—how many delightful ways there are to tell the time! And now that her books are laid aside and time is at the threshold of a new, intense school, one of these dainty clocks will delight your little girl-graduate friend.

Bon Voyage!

The felicity of being well groomed can be yours on the dustiest trip if you carry a fitted traveling bag. Your journey's end may be anything from mosquito bites to mountains—but possessing a leather case filled with bottles holding all necessary "first-aids" you are ready for every emergency.

A Lorgnette with glad Vision

The vision must be glad that looks through lenses with a decorative destiny, entwined with platinum and diamonds; $310.

Delicious Feminine Playthings

"Wherever a pretty woman moves and reigns, the fan appears with its enchantment, its smiles, its exquisite coquetry!" Oh, what sweet murmurous courage her fan provides! The most adorable language, against which her lips are sealed, her Fan dares speak.

Again the fan waves supreme at Fashion's will. Feather fans, all shades; dignified, droopy, straight or curled; with shell sticks or mother-of-pearl sticks, from $5 to $65, fans lure you to the first floor at Mandel Brothers'.

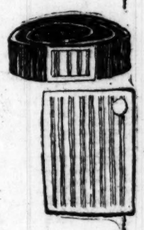

Beaded bags, silk bags, gold mesh bags, with or without jewelled mountings, vanity cases, silver mesh bags—all the things that belong to femininity according to the Oriental proverb that a "pretty woman is born with roses and pretty playthings in her cradle," are found here in exquisite variety. As a wedding, confirmation or graduation gift, these gracious trinkets offer a touch of innocent frivolity that youth inspiringly requires.

And then the Groom

He is, poor man, terribly neglected as a rule at his own wedding. But why not give him a present or two? There are stunning black leather, gold clipped cigarette cases and pocket-books, silver belt buckles, the latest, smartest gold cigarette cases, good-looking stud sets, and countless other things from which to choose.

For the bride to select herself, we offer the most distinctive engraved wedding invitations, place cards, and stationery of all kinds.

Silver, the Gift Harmonious

There's some fine serenity in chaste silver, that harmonizes with the beauty of the bride. Silver chests, silver services, silver toilet articles, that are fine in quality and design, attract you to Mandel Brothers. You will find here the widest variety in sterling, Dutch and Sheffield silver.
